Original Petition of Custodian.

In the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey.

In Equity.

FRANCIS P. GARVAN, as Alien Property Custodian, Petitioner, against

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, a Corporation,
Respondent.

In the Matter of the Application of FRANCIS P. GARVAN, as Alien Property Custodian In re Certain Stocks, Bonds, Securities, and Money Held by the Respondent as the Money and Property of Helene J. von Schierholz, of Thuringen, Germany, an enemy.

To the Honorable Judges of the District Court of the United States, for the District of New Jersey:

Now comes Francis P. Garvan, as Alien Property Custodian, petitioning this Court, and as grounds for the relief prayed for herein-after, says:

I.

Your petitioner is the Alien Property Custodian of the United States, duly appointed, qualified and acting under the terms
4 and provisions of the Act of Congress approved October 6, 1917, commonly known as the Trading with the Enemy Act, the amendments thereto, and the proclamations and executive orders issued thereunder. Your petitioner is the successor in office of A. Mitchell Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, who resigned such official position on March 4, 1919, and who had previously been duly appointed, qualified and acting as such Alien Property Custodian. This proceeding is brought by the said Francis P. Garvan in his official capacity on behalf of the United States of America.

II.

The Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, respondent herein, is a corporation incorporated under and pursuant to the laws of the State of New Jersey, having its principal place of business at 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, Hudson County, State of New Jersey.

III.

On or about the 19th day of December, 1917, the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, respondent herein, acting under and pursuant to and in compliance with the terms and provisions of the said Trading with the Enemy Act, the amendments thereto and the proclamations and executive orders issued thereunder, and especially in compliance with section 7 (a) of said Act, executed a report, under oath, to the Alien Property Custodian said report being signed and sworn to by Jay S. Perkins, Secretary and Treasurer of said corporation, upon A. P. C. form No. 105, that the said corporation held certain stocks, bonds, mortgages, securities and money in trust for the joint account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. Von Schierholz, of Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, to be delivered or paid to the said cestuis que trust upon the demand of either, or of the survivor of them. Said report is on file in the office of the Alien Property Custodian as Report No. 8393, and a copy of the same, containing a complete list of all the money and other property herein referred to is annexed hereto, marked Exhibit "A", and incorporated herein and made a part hereof.

IV.

On or about the 28th day of March, 1919, the said respondent corporation reported to your petitioner as the Alien Property Custodian, by telegraph, that it held for the benefit of the said cestuis que trust the further sums of $39,190.76 designated as a checking account, and $18,159.69 designated as a trust account.

V.

On or about the 19th day of June, 1918, A. Mitchell Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, predecessor in office to your petitioner, acting under and pursuant to the authority vested in him by the said Trading with the Enemy Act, the amendments thereto and the proclamations and executive orders issued thereunder, after investigation, determined that the said Helene J. von Schierholz, of Thuringen, Germany, was an enemy within the purview and meaning of the said Act, and thereafter required the said respondent corporation to forthwith convey, transfer, assign, deliver and/or pay over to him, as Alien Property Custodian, all said money and other property hereinbefore described, together with all interest accrued and collected upon the said money or other property, to be by him held, administered and accounted for according to law. The said demand was served upon the said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey on or about the 8th day of July, 1918, by the Bankers Trust Company of New York by C. D. Anderson. A copy of the said demand, bearing the return of service endorsed thereon, is annexed hereto, marked Exhibit "B," and incorporated herein and made a part hereof.

VI.

On or about the 28th day of March, 1919, your petitioner, acting under and pursuant to the terms and provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, the amendments thereto and the proclamations and executive orders issued thereunder, further required the said respondent corporation to deliver and pay over to your petitioner, as Alien Property Custodian, the sum of $39,190.76 designated as a checking account, and the sum of $18,159.69 designated as a trust account, both of said sums being held subject to the demand of the said Helene J. von Schierholz, an enemy, and to convey, assign, deliver and pay over to your petitioner certain stocks, bonds, mortgages and securities listed in the said demand, together with all interest and income accrued and collected on any and all of the said money and other property. Service of said demand was 7 made upon the said commercial Trust Company of New Jersey on or about the 17th day of April, 1919, by the Bankers Trust Company of New York, by Chas. E. Flynn. A copy of the said demand, containing a full and complete list of all the money and other property required to be conveyed, assigned, transferred and delivered to your petitioner, and bearing the return of service thereon, is annexed hereto, marked Exhibit "C," and incorporated herein and made a part hereof.

VII.

By virtue of the aforesaid determinations, requirements and demands, made and issued by A. Mitchell Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, predecessor in office of your petitioner, and by your petitioner as Alien Property Custodian, your petitioner became and now is vested with all the beneficial interests in the said money and other property, and by virtue of the said Trading with the Enemy Act, the amendments thereto and the proclamations and executive orders issued thereunder, and the facts herein set forth, your petitioner is the only person entitled to the said money and other property, but the said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey has failed and refused to recognize the right, power and authority of your petitioner with respect to the said money and other property, and has failed and refused and continues to refuse to convey, transfer, assign, deliver and pay to your petitioner said money and other property, with interest thereon.

VIII.

This is a proceeding brought by your petitioner as Alien Property Custodian of the United States, pursuant to the provisions of 8 Sections 24 of the Judicial Code of the United States, by which the district courts of the United States have original jurisdiction over all suits of a civil nature at common law or at equity brought by the United States or any officer thereof, and under Section 17 of the Act of Congress, approved October 6, 1917, and known as the "Trading with the Enemy Act," by virtue of which, this Court has jurisdiction to make and enter all such orders and decrees and to issue such processes as may be necessary in the premises to enforce the provisions of said Act.

Wherefore Your Petitioner Prays that this Court issue a rule, directed to the said respondent, commanding it, in the alternative, to convey, transfer, assign, deliver and/or pay to your petitioner, as Alien Property Custodian, the said money and other property hereinbefore described, with interest thereon accrued; or else, upon a day and at a place to be named in said writ to show cause, if any there be, why the relief herein prayed should not be granted, and for such other and further relief as in the premises may seem meet and just

In the District Court of the United States, for the District of New Jersey.

In Equity.

FRANCIS P. GARVAN, as Alien Property Custodian, Petitioner,

v.

Respondent. ●

In the Matter of the Application of FRANCIS P. GARVAN, as Alien Property Custodian, In re Certain Stocks, Bonds, Securities, and Money Alleged to be Held by This Respondent as the Money and Property of Helene J. von Schierholz, of Thuringen, Germany, an Enemy.

The amended answer of Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, above named respondent to the petition of the above named petitioner.

I.

This respondent admits the allegations of paragraph 1 of the petition.

42

II.

This respondent admits the allegations of paragraph 2 of the petition.

III.

This respondent admits that on or about December 19, 1917, this respondent executed a report under oath to the Alien Property Custodian, signed and sworn to as alleged in the petition, to the effect that this respondent held certain stocks, bonds, securities and money in trust for the joint account of Frederick Wesche of Paris, France, and Helene J. von Schierholz of Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, the terms of the said holding being as specified in the agreement depositing the same with this respondent dated January 30, 1913, of which a copy is annexed hereto, and made a part hereof and marked Exhibit (1), except only that said agreement was subsequently modified in April, 1913, by written agreement so as to provide that the compensation of this respondent should be one per cent, on income alone instead of two per cent.

This respondent is without knowledge that said report is on file in the office of the Alien Property Custodian as report #8,393 or that the alleged copy of the same alleged to contain a complete list of the money and other property in this proceeding referred to and annexed to the petition and marked "Exhibit A", is or is not a true copy of said report; and this respondent refers to the original report when produced for the contents of the same.

43 This respondent made the said report for the reasons and upon the information it then had, as hereinafter set out, and for the purpose of protecting itself against liability to the United States of America in the event it should be determined by competent authority upon competent proof that the said Helene J. von Schierholz was in fact an enemy or ally of enemy within the meaning of the "Trading with the Enemy Act".

IV.

This respondent admits that on or about March 28, 1919, this respondent informed the Alien Property Custodian by telegraph that it held for said accounts with Frederick Wesche and Helene J. von Schierholz the amounts of money specified in paragraph 4 of the petition.

Said information was given by this respondent to save itself from liability to the United States of America in the event that it should be thereafter determined by competent authority upon due investigation or hearing, that the said von Schierholz was in fact an alien enemy, or ally of enemy within the meaning of said act, and that such property or any of it was hers or held by, or for her, or on her behalf or account, or for her benefit.

V.

This respondent is without knowledge as to the determination of the status of said Helene J. von Schierholz as an enemy alleged to have been made on or about June 19, 1918, by the Alien Property Custodian.

44 This respondent admits that a demand by the Alien Property Custodian was made upon respondent on or about July 8, 1918, requiring respondent to convey, transfer, assign and deliver to the Alien Property Custodian all money and other property held by this respondent under said deposit agreement of January 30, 1918, together with all interest, accrued and collected thereon. This respondent is without knowledge as to by whom the said demand was served.

This respondent is without knowledge that the copy of said demand or that the return of service alleged to be endorsed thereon and marked "Exhibit B" are true copies.

This respondent, on information and belief, alleges that A. Mitchell Palmer did not, as Alien Property Custodian, either personally or otherwise, prior to the alleged delivery of the paper "Exhibit B" of the petition herein, or of whatever paper was so delivered, or at any time, investigate or determine after investigation that the securities and moneys mentioned in said "Exhibit B" of the petition, or any of them, were either owing to or belonging to or held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of or for the benefit of Helene J. von Schierholz in the petition named, and alleges on information and belief that no investigation of the ownership or conditions of tenure thereof, or any of them, aside from receiving such report of this respondent, was made or attempted by said Palmer as such Custodian, or on his behalf; and further alleges on information and belief that the information of the possession by this respondent of such funds and securities specified in said report made by 45 it to the Alien Property Custodian in December, 1917, as to which said "Exhibit B" of the petition recites that such decision was made by said Palmer, as such Alien Property Custodian after investigation, was derived by said Palmer solely from the said reports so made to him by this respondent, and such report itself contained and conveyed to said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian information and notice that Frederick Wesche was both an owner and a holder at law and interested as a beneficial owner in the securities held and money owed by this respondent described and mentioned in said report, and such report put said Palmer as such Custodian on inquiry as to the ownership of said securities and accounts, and the persons by and for whom and for whose account and benefit the same were held, and required of him investigation of the facts, especially through the sources of which this respondent thereby advised him, and particularly through the said Wesche.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that neither said Palmer, as such Alien Property Custodian, nor the petitioner herein, his successor, nor any of the respective subordinates, ever made any inquiry of the said Wesche, or of any one representing him, or attempted to make any inquiry of him or of any one representing him, as to the rights of said Wesche or of other persons in such securities or funds or moneys owed, or ever investigated or attempted to investigate the rights of said Wesche, or of others, in such securities or funds or moneys due, or to ascertain 46 any of the facts concerning the beneficial ownership of such securities, funds, and indebtedness, all of which could have been readily ascertained by said Palmer, or by the petitioner, or by their representatives, had they or any of them inquired as to the facts as to ownership and tenure of such property and indebtedness of the said Wesche, whose Paris address had been furnished to said Palmer as such Custodian by this respondent in its said report.

This respondent further alleges on information that any inquiries addressed to said Wesche at his Paris address given in the said report to the Custodian made by this respondent, have at all times been regularly forwarded to said Wesche who removed to Switzerland in August, 1914, and said Wesche's Swiss address was at all times after his removal to Switzerland in August, 1914, promptly furnished to any and all inquirers for him at his former Paris address, and all mail addressed to him at that address was forwarded to him in Switzerland; and that so far as any pretended investigation was made, or any information was secured by said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian, either personally or officially, prior to the service of the paper of which "Exhibit B" of the petition is alleged to be a copy, such information had disclosed to him, prior to that time, not only that said Wesche was a person to whom said securities legally belonged at least in part, and to whom said sums of money were legally owing and payable by this respondent, and for whose benefit and account and in whose behalf such securities were held;

47 but had also disclosed to such Custodian that said Wesche was at least in part the beneficial owner of said funds and securities and that said Helene J. von Schierholz was at most a beneficial owner of only a part thereof; that disregarding such information and without communication with said Wesche or affording him any opportunity to be heard or to show his rights, and without inquiry or investigation, the said Alien Property Custodian secretly and without evidence to support his pretended conclusion and without making the investigation required by law; and contrary to the information he has in his possession and to the proofs and notice that were before him of the rights of said Wesche, including the report made him by this respondent, and in fraud of the rights of said Wesche (to whom no recourse to any court was then afforded by the terms of the statute, against such Custodian, which then afforded such recourse only to persons resident in the various judicial districts in the United States), and in fraud of the rights of Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, an American citizen then and now resident abroad, either in England, France or Switzerland (to whom no recourse to any court was then afforded by the terms of the statute, because he was not resident in any judicial district of the United States fraudulently pretended that he said Palmer, had duly investigated, and that he had personally examined and passed on the evidence obtained by the investigation of the rights and interests in such securities and moneys owed, when he had not so investigated or examined or passed on the evidence, and that said Palmer fraudulently pretended by his said letter, of which "Exhibit B" of the petition purports to be a copy, to have determined 48 after examination and investigation (contrary to the evidence and information in his possession, and the evidence immediately obtainable had he made investigation, and contrary to the facts as they existed), that said Wesche had no rights in such securities and moneys, and that the same belonged exclusively to said Helene J. von Schierholz.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that any such pretended determination by the said A. Mitchell Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, as recited in said "Exhibit B" of the petition herein, that said securities belonged to said Helene J. von Schierholz and that said sums of money were owing to her, was unlawful, fraudulent, null and void and did not constitute due process of law, and was an attempt to deprive the said Wesche and the other owners of said property, of their property without due process of law, and to take their respective private property for public use without compensation or opportunity to be heard, contrary to the provisions of the Fourth and Fifth amendments to the Constitution of the United States; and that such action was in excess of any powers that the Congress of the United States and the President of the United States could confer on such Custodian, or on any other administrative officer, even when legislating under the war powers of Congress, and also contrary to the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved October 6, 1917, commonly known as the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the amendments thereto 49 theretofore adopted, and contrary to any authority conferred by the President of the United States on said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian under said Act of October 6, 1917, and the amendments made thereto prior to the making of such pretended determination.

VI.

This respondent admits that on or about March 28, 1919, petitioner made demand upon this respondent requiring respondent to deliver and pay over to petitioner the sums of money in paragraph 6 of the petition.

This respondent denies that said sums were held subject to the demand of said von Schierholz.

This respondent further admits that at the same time petitioner made a demand requiring respondent to convey, assign, deliver and pay over to petitioner certain stocks, bonds and securities, held by respondent under said deposit agreement of January 30, 1913, together with all interest and income, accrued and collected thereon.

This respondent is without knowledge as to by whom the said demand was served or that the alleged copy of the demand annexed to the petition and marked "Exhibit C" or the return of service thereon is a true copy thereof.

Further answering the allegations of paragraph 6 of the said petition herein this respondent, on information and belief, denies 50 that either the sum of $39,190.76 designated as "Checking Account," or the sum of $18,159.69 designated as a "Trust Account," or any part of either thereof was held by this respondent subject to the demand of said Helene J. von Schierholz, at any time or times after April 6, 1917, or under any other conditions or in any other way, at any time, than as herein alleged. This respondent, on information and belief, alleges that the right and power of said Helene J. von Schierholz at any time to demand delivery to her of any of said securities or moneys was, from the making of such deposit, only a power in trust, as is more particularly hereinafter set forth, which power ceased and determined on the declaration of war by the United States against Germany on April 6, 1917, and that such power (save for the cash and securities individually belonging to her as hereinafter set forth) involved elements of personal trust and confidence and was not transferable.

This respondent since November 1, 1920, has been informed and on its personal information and belief alleges that Helene J. von Schierholz in the said petition named was, from and after the declaration of war by the United States on Germany on April 6, 1917, technically an enemy of the United States, and until the enactment of the Act of Congress of June 5, 1920, without a license to deal with said properties, or any thereof, save only such license as was given by general proclamation in 1919. But this respondent alleges, on information and belief, that said Helene J. von Schierholz was born an American citizen on April 14, 1856, in Paris, France, while her parents, who were then and there citizens of the United States, domiciled in Brooklyn, in the State of New York, were temporarily residing in Paris, France; that she is the daughter of the late Charles Ahrenfeldt of Kings County, New York (who was by birth a subject of the King of Denmark, but was duly naturalized as an American citizen on October 3, 1848, and who was domiciled and long resided in the City, as it then was, of Brooklyn, New York, and who retained his domicile in said Brooklyn until his death on January 21, 1893) and of Helene Ahrenfeldt, his wife, who was also an American citizen; that said Helene J. von Schierholz lost her American citizenship and became a German subject by her marriage on or about July 24, 1879 (and long prior to August 1, 1914) to her husband Arthur von Schierholz, who was a German subject, but who died in January, 1899; that at the time of her said marriage said Helene J. von Schierholz was an American citizen; that such marriage occurred long prior to August 1, 1914, and that said Helene J. von Schierholz has been since April 6, 1917, and is still domiciled in Germany and there a resident.

Save and except as hereinafter expressly admitted this respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of any of the allegations contained in paragraph numbered "VI" of the petitioner herein, and therefore denies the same, and each and every — thereof.

VII.

This respondent is without knowledge that by virtue of said alleged determinations, requirements and demands petitioner became or is now vested with any or all the beneficial interests in said money or other property by virtue of Trading with the Enemy Act, the amendments thereto and the proclamations and executive orders issued thereunder and the facts in the petition set forth or otherwise.

This respondent is without knowledge that petitioner is the only person entitled to the said moneys and other property.

This respondent admits that it has failed and refused to recognize the alleged rights, power and authority of petitioner with respect to said moneys and other property and admits that this respondent has failed and refused and continues to refuse to convey, transfer, assign, deliver and pay to the said petitioner said moneys and other property with interest thereon all for the reasons herein set out.

Save and except as in this paragraph specifically admitted this respondent on information and belief denies each and every allegation contained in paragraph numbered "VII" of the petition herein.

VIII.

This respondent admits the allegations of paragraph VIII.

This respondent alleges on information and belief that the report of December 19, 1917, although made by respondent acting under and pursuant to and in compliance with the terms and provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and the amendments thereto, was made among other reasons to save respondent from liability in the event it should be determined by competent authority and upon competent investigation that the said Helene J. von Schierholz was an enemy within the meaning of said act and that the said securities and money were her property or that she was beneficially interested therein, and if so the extent of such interest, and in all respects in conformity with such knowledge and information as this respondent then had. That respondent had no actual knowledge or proof that the said Helene J. von Schierholz was an enemy and respondent's last knowledge at that time as to her residence had been acquired from a letter received from the said Helene J. von Schierholz dated February 15, 1913, and addressed from Schloss Plaue, No. 3, Thuringen, Germany. That respondent, from the receipt of said letter in the month of February, 1913, until November, 1920, had no additional knowledge or proof as to the residence or whereabouts of the said von Schierholz, and such was this respondent's knowledge as to her status on October 6, 1917, the date of the approval of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and on December 19, 1917, the date of said report. That prior to making the said 54 report, this respondent inquired of one Ernest T. Greiner of the City of New York, who was an agent of Frederick Wesche herein mentioned and held a limited power of attorney from him, as to the residence and whereabouts of the said von Schierholz and was informed by said Greiner that he could not tell this respondent what her actual residence was, whether in or out of territory prohibited by said Act. That this respondent being in doubt as aforesaid as to its duty to file the said report of December 19, 1917, by letter of October 27, 1917, inquired of the Alien Property Custodian whether or not its custody and control of the property and money in question was such as to require this respondent to report the same, and this respondent was advised by the Alien Property Custodian by letter dated October 29, 1917, that in his opinion a report should be filed under Section 7A of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and this respondent filed with said Custodian in December, 1917, its said report in response to such letter from the Custodian.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that Frederick Wesche, above named, was for many years prior to the death of the late Charles Ahrenfeldt of Brooklyn, New York, a trusted business associate and friend of the said Charles Ahrenfeldt; that said Wesche is a man well over sixty years of age, and that upon the death of said Charles Ahrenfeldt above named in 1893, as above set forth, his three children by his said wife, Helene Ahrenfeldt, namely, Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, Helene J. von Schierholz, above named (née Ahrenfeldt) and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband (née Ahrenfeldt) derived and received from their said father's estate, assets and securities of large value;

That said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, is, and by and since his birth has at all times been an American citizen; and that said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt has at all times since August 1, 1914, resided and been in either England, or in France, or in Switzerland and has never been an enemy of the United States, or since August 1, 1914, has he at any time resided within any judicial district of the United States.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband was born a citizen of the United States on April 25, 1861, while her said parents, Charles Ahrenfeldt and Helene Ahrenfeldt, his wife, were domiciled in Brooklyn, but temporarily residing in Paris, France, as above stated; that said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband lost her original American citizenship and became a German subject about 1885 by her marriage to a German subject, one Hans von Wangenheim, from whom she thereafter obtained a valid decree of divorce in the German courts prior to 1897. Thereafter and in 1897 she was again married to Count Woldemar von Uxküll-Gyllenband, also a German subject, and has ever since resided in Germany and is now there a resident in the City of Berlin; and that, at the time of her said first marriage to said von Wangenheim, said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband was an American citizen, and became a German subject by that marriage.

X.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that prior to January 30, 1913, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, reposing trust and confidence in said Frederick Wesche, had respectively placed in his hands various sums of money and American securities belonging to them respectively in severalty, all derived as aforesaid by them severally from said Charles Ahrenfeldt, deceased, and all situate in this country, to be cared for by said Wesche as the agent of them respectively, with power to said Wesche to make investments and changes in investments thereof from time to time, with the approval of said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, and with the understanding that said Wesche might likewise, along with such funds, invest other funds of his own, but that while the ownership of such securities and funds should at all times be kept several, the cash at any time on hand might be carried on deposit in the name of said Wesche although belonging to said several parties in their respective proportions.

XI.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, which information has been received by it since the first of November, 1920, that in January, 1913 it was agreed among said four parties

(namely, said Wesche, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband)

57 that certain securities and some cash then so held by said Wesche belonging to them in severalty, as aforesaid, should be deposited by him with this respondent, and that for convenience, in case of any supervening disability of said Wesche, such cash and securities should be deposited in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz with power (as between themselves and this respondent) to either of them to withdraw the same; but with the definite understanding and agreement among all said four parties that said Helene J. von Schierholz should exercise such power only in case of disability of said Wesche, and then only subject to the like responsibility as he was at all times under, to return to any one of the respective owners, his or her securities and his or her part of the cash upon demand, but leaving with said Wesche power and authority in his own discretion at any time and from time to time to withdraw any and all securities or money deposited with this respondent.

XII.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, which information has been acquired by it since November 1, 1920 that all securities and cash so entrusted to said Wesche by said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, respectively were property derived by them respectively from their said father 58 Charles Ahrenfeldt, deceased, or his estate, or securities into which property so derived by them had been changed by them respectively, and that none of said property so owned by them, or either of them, deposited with this respondent in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz was acquired by either of them, either directly or indirectly from any citizen or subject of Germany or Austro-Hungary, or of any country allied with either of those countries in the said war.

XIII.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that pursuant to such arrangement between said Wesche, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene J. von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, the said Wesche and the said Helene J. von Schierholz in January, 1913, and thereafter, entered into a written agreement with this respondent, dated January 30, 1913, a copy of which is annexed hereto and made a part of this answer, marked Exhibit 1, and thereafter, to wit: in May, 1913, by written agreement between said Wesche and Mrs. von Schierholz and this respondent, said agreement was modified so as to provide that this respondent's commissions should be one per cent on income alone, instead of two per cent, as originally provided, and this respondent further alleges that all securities and monies so held by it involved in this proceeding are monies and securities deposited with it under and pursuant to the terms of said agreement as so modified, all sums of interest and dividends collected by it or credited by it from the said securities and balances of cash on hand in said deposits.

XIV.

This respondent further alleges that pursuant to such contract between this respondent and said Wesche and von Schierholz, there were deposited with this respondent sundry American securities and cash in 1913, which this respondent alleges, on information and belief, were deposited with it exclusively by said Frederick Wesche, and the same consisted of American securities and cash belonging respectively to said Wesche, and said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, to said Helene J. von Schierholz and to said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, all of which had been previously held by said Wesche, part as individual owner of certain thereof and the remainder as the agent respectively of said Charles, of said Helene and of said Lucy, as several owners of such individual sums and securities respectively.

That thereafter certain slight changes in the securities were made and some bonds held in said deposit were paid off, and on December 19, 1917, the cash and securities so deposited with this respondent under said agreement with it as so modified, as hereinbefore alleged, consisted of the securities and monies set out in the alleged copy of this respondent's report of December 19, 1917, annexed to the petition. This respondent further alleges that it was a banking depository of such cash and a bailee of said securities and on information derived by it since October 1, 1920, which this respondent believes, this respondent further alleges that said cash and securities then held by it were held in severalty as follows:

That such securities so owned are in each instance accompanied by all coupons thereto belonging maturing since October 1st, 1920 (save as any such coupons have been collected since October 1st, 1920, and thereafter credited to said Trust Account) and the 70 coupons and any proceeds so collected and any interest accruing thereon are the several property of said several owners of the securities to which they pertain. All the said several securities herein mentioned other than the said United States bonds are securities issued by various American private or municipal corporations.

XX.

This respondent further alleges, on information, that the above named securities and the above described indebtedness and sums of cash so set apart, all of which are so claimed by said Frederick Wesche, by said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, by said Helene J. von Schierholz and by said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband respectively, are the identical securities, indebtedness, and particular funds of cash which the Alien Property Custodian, as petitioner herein, is asking to have directed turned over to him by order and decree of this Court upon his petition herein.

XXI.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that Frederick Wesche, above named, is a resident of Territet, in the Canton of Vaud, in the Republic of Switzerland, where his address is Villa Supplitt, and that ever since the first week in August, 1914, he has been resident and domiciled in the Republic of Switzerland, first in Lucerne, Switzerland, up to January, 1920, and since 71 then in said Territet, and that he has during all said period had, and now has, his domicile in said Switzerland. That up to the time of taking up his residence and domicile in Switzerland, as aforesaid, said Wesche for more than thirty years had continuously resided and been domiciled in Paris, France; and that for more than thirty-five years last past said Wesche has not at any time been domiciled in or resident in either Germany, or any part thereof, or in any country which was an ally of Germany in the war which broke out between Germany and France and other countries in August, 1914, and into which the United States entered in April, 1917, nor has said Wesche during any part of such period and particularly long since July 1, 1914, been doing business in Germany or Austro-Hungary, or in any country which was an ally of Germany or Austro-Hungary in such war, and that he is not doing business in any such place now, nor as this respondent is informed and believes, has said Wesche at any time for more than forty years past and particularly since January 1, 1914, been an officer, official or agent of the Government of Germany, or of that of Austro-Hungary, or of any government of any nation with which the United States is now, or has since January 1, 1900, at any time been at war, or of any nation allied either with Germany or Austro-Hungary in such war, or of any political or municipal subdivision of either Germany or Austro-Hungary, or of any such government or nation, and that said Wesche is not and never has been an enemy of 72 the United States nor has he been within the United States at any time since 1913 or resident in any judicial district of United States.

XXII.

This respondent further alleges, on information acquired by it since November 1, 1920, and on belief therein, that said Wesche was at all times since 1900 and still is the agent of said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, of said Helene J. von Schierholz and of said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, in charge of their said respective securities and monies, and holder of his own, and that this relation was not changed by the arrangement for deposit of said securities and cash in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz with this respondent any further than this: that she should be able to act as alternate for said Wesche in withdrawing such securities and cash in event of the death or other disability of said Wesche and that it was a term of the arrangement between the said Wesche, Ahrenfeldt, von Schierholz and von Uxküll-Gyllenband for such deposit with this respondent in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz, that she should act only as such alternate in such event and that she was given such power by the others only upon that trust. This respondent further alleges that said Helene J. von Schierholz has not at any time from the inception of such deposit in January, 1913, interfered in any way with the deposit of securities and 73 cash made with this respondent, but at all times this respondent has received all orders and instructions and directions concerning such deposit solely from the said Frederick Wesche or his authorized representatives.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that the application of the petitioner herein to seize all such funds and securities under the power conferred upon said Helene J. von Schierholz by the making of the deposit in the joint names of said Wesche and herself pursuant to the said agreement of January, 1913, is contrary to the terms of the arrangement and trust under which she was made a co-depositor, and under which such deposits with this respondent were made by the said Wesche, namely, that she should act only as such alternate, and only in the event of the death or disability of said Wesche, and that such attempt is in breach of the trust duties and relations imposed on her by such arrangement, to all of which the petitioner herein would, if he could have taken over her said power, have ipso facto been subject; that said Wesche has not at any time been under any disability to act, and neither the time nor the occasion when said Helene J. von Schierholz would be justified in withdrawing any of said cash or securities by virtue of the deposit in the joint names of said Wesche and herself under said agreement of January, 1913, as modified, has ever arisen; and that the attempt of the Custodian 74 to obtain such funds and securities by virtue of her being so named as joint depositor, and by virtue of the provisions of the agreement with this respondent hereto annexed if he had the power to exercise the power held by said Helene J. von Schierholz was a breach of the trust duties assumed by her (upon the assumption of which alone she was named as such joint depositor on the terms stated in such contract with this respondent), and in fraud of the rights of the other real owners of said property.

XXIV.

This respondent further alleges that said Wesche by his attorney in fact, Selden Bacon, of the City of New York, prior to the institution of these proceedings and in July, 1920, demanded of the respondent that it pay over and deliver to said Wesche, or to his said attorney in fact, the securities and monies above mentioned.

XXVI.

This respondent further alleges that one Ernest T. Greiner, residing in the City of New York, prior to the institution of these proceedings, notified this respondent that he claims a lien on all the funds and securities on deposit with respondent, standing in the names of said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. von Schierholz under the said deposit agreement annexed hereto, and on all interest or 75 increment due or becoming due thereon and has demanded of respondent that none of said property be transferred or otherwise disposed of until further notice from him.

That said Greiner was attorney in fact for the said Wesche from the year 1913 to May 18, 1920, acting for the said Wesche in connection with the monies and securities above mentioned so deposited with this respondent and held by it as aforesaid. This respondent does not know on what basis the said Greiner claims such lien and has been notified by the said Wesche and said Ahrenfeldt, by Selden Bacon, their attorney in fact, not to deliver any of said monies or securities to the said Greiner, and that said Greiner has no rights in or to the same.

XXVI.

This respondent is informed by the said Wesche and the said Ahrenfeldt, by Selden Bacon, their attorney in fact, and by the said Greiner, that they respectively are desirous of intervening in this proceeding and of setting up and establishing their rights to the monies and securities above mentioned. That this respondent while so informed by said Wesche and said Ahrenfeldt, through their said attorney Selden Bacon, of the nature of the holdings of the said Wesche, has no knowledge thereof, and is entirely ignorant of the nature of the claims of said Greiner, or of any basis therefor.

XXVII.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that had said A. Mitchell Palmer, or the petitioner, his successor
76 as Alien Property Custodian, or their or either of their representatives at any time either in 1918, 1919, 1920 or 1921, made due inquiry or investigation into the rights to the said funds and securities so deposited with this respondent and to the sums so on deposit with it, or into the ownership or tenure thereof the foregoing matters would have been promptly and fully disclosed to them; that none of them made any investigation whatever into the ownership or tenure or conditions thereof beyond obtaining the said report of December, 1917, from this respondent.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that no investigation and no determination after investigation of the ownership or holding of the securities and monies in the hands of this respondent hereinbefore described, such as was contemplated by the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act has ever been made either by the former Alien Property Custodian, or by the present Alien Property Custodian, the petitioner herein, or by any representative of either, and this respondent calls attention to the fact that the petitioner in his petition herein, while carefully alleging that the said A. Mitchell Palmer as Alien Property Custodian did investigate and after investigation determine that said Helen J. von Scheirholz was in 1918 an enemy of the United States, has equally carefully avoided making any allegation that either said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian, or the said petitioner himself, his successor or the subordinates of either of them
77 have either investigated or determined after investigation that the indebtedness of this respondent and the property mentioned in its possession belonged to or was owing to or was by this respondent held for, by, on account of, or for the benefit of said Helene J. von Schierholz.

XXVIII.

This respondent further alleges that the claims of said Wesche and said Ahrenfeldt, and said Wesche claims the right to the possession of all of the said property as partial owner thereof and as agent of the other owners, have been asserted to it without any collusion on the part of this respondent, and that for its due protection, all of the said claimants except Greiner being non-residents of the United States, it is essential that they and each of them be cited into this proceeding for the determination of their rights thereto.

Wherefore this respondent prays:

1. That the said Wesche, the said Ahrenfeldt and the said Greiner be each of them joined as defendants in this proceeding and cited into it and required to set up their respective rights in and to the said monies and securities for the determination of the same by this court, or in lieu thereof, be permitted to intervene therein voluntarily.

78 2. That it be determined by this court what, if any, portion of the said property belongs to each of the several persons alleged to have been interested therein, namely, said Wesche, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene J. von Schierholz, said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband and said Ernest T. Greiner, and that the status and rights of each be determined pursuant to law. That respondent's commissions be ascertained and determined and the respondent be ordered to pay to itself its commissions and a counsel fee to be fixed by this court, and that respondent be ordered to convey, transfer, assign, deliver and pay over the balance of the monies and securities to persons entitled thereto; that each and all the other parties to the proceedings be enjoined from asserting any and all further claims against this respondent for the property when so turned over, and be enjoined from molesting or annoying this respondent with respect thereto, and that this respondent have such other and further relief as may be just in the premises and agreeable to equity.

In the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey.

FRANCIS P. GARVAN, as Alien Property Custodian, Petitioner,

v.

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, a Corporation, and FREDERICK WESCHE, Intervener, Respondents.

Answer of Frederick Wesche.

The Answer of Frederick Wesche, Above-named Intervener and Respondent (interposed by Leave of Court First Had and Obtained), to the Petition of the Above-named Petitioner, Francis P. Garvan, as Alien Property Custodian.

This respondent, on information and belief, says:

This respondent is not a citizen of the United States but is a citizen of Germany and is a resident of Territet, in the Canton of Vaud, Switzerland, where his address is Villa Supplitt, and that ever since the first week in August, 1914, he has been resident and domiciled in the Republic of Switzerland, first in Lucerne, Switzerland, up to January, 1920, and since then in said Territet, and has during all said period had, and now has, his domicile in said Switzerland. Up to the time of taking up his residence and domicile in Switzerland as aforesaid this respondent for more than thirty years had continuously resided and been domiciled in Paris, France.

For more than thirty-five years last past this respondent has not at any time been domiciled in or resident in either Germany, or any part thereof, or in any country which was an ally of Germany in the war which broke out between Germany and France and other countries in August, 1914, and into which the United States entered in April, 1917, nor has he during any part of such period, and particularly not since July 1st, 1914, been doing business in Germany or Austro-Hungary, or in any country which was an ally of Germany or Austro-Hungary in such war, and that he is not doing business in any such place now. Nor has this respondent at any time for more than forty years past, and particularly since January 1st, 1914, been an officer, official or agent of the Government of Germany, or of that of Austro-Hungary or of any government 97 of any Nation with which the United States is now or has since January 1, 1900, at any time been at war, or of any Nation allied either with Germany or Austro-Hungary in such war, or of any political or municipal subdivision of either Germany or Austro-Hungary or of any such government or nation. And this respondent is not and never has been an enemy of the United States, nor has he been within the United States at any time since 1913.

The respondent admits the allegations contained in paragraphs numbered I and II of the petition of the above-named petitioner herein.

This respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of any of the allegations contained in paragraph III of the petition of the above-named petitioner herein, save and except only that this respondent is informed and believes that in the month of December, 1917, the above-named Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, not knowing the real facts beyond the securities and sums on deposit with it, and the contracts under which such deposits were made with it, made a report to the then Alien Property Custodian, which it made for the purpose of safeguarding itself from liability to the United States of America, should 98 it thereafter be determined upon competent evidence and proofs by competent authority that Helene von Schierholz in said petition named was an enemy and that such securities, or any part thereof, belonged to her, or said sums or any part thereof were owing to her. This respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief whether Exhibit A of the said petition herein is a true and correct copy of the report so filed or whether the file number thereof is No. 8393 as alleged in the petition, but this respondent alleges on information and belief that such report so made was filed in the office of the Alien Property Custodian prior to March 1st, 1918, and was in the possession of the Alien Property Custodian long prior to the signature of the original paper of which Exhibit B of the said petition purports to be a copy; and that said report contained a copy of the agreement under which said securities and funds were deposited with said Commercial Trust Company, which agreement is substantially in the words shown in Schedule C of said Exhibit A of the petition, save that by subsequent agreement the rate of the Trust Company's compensation was on or about May 27th, 1913, reduced to 1 per cent. on the income; and that said Trust Company by such report asserted and informed the then Alien Property Custodian that the said Commercial Trust Company was not a Trustee, but a bailee for hire of the securities and a mere banking depository of the funds deposited with it, and that said Helene von Schierholz was not the sole owner of said securities or said funds, nor were the same due to her, and that the same were not held by her or 99 for her, or her sole behalf, or her sole account, or for her sole benefit, but that she had no more than a fractional interest therein, and that this respondent was at least a co-owner thereof, and also beneficially interested therein; and gave notice and presumptive evidence to said Custodian that this respondent was not an enemy of the United States, and advised said Custodian of the address it had for this respondent, through which address this respondent could readily have been reached, and due inquiry as to the facts made of him.

This respondent admits and on information and belief alleges: That said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey did on December 19th, 1917, hold, deposited with it, under and pursuant to the terms of the agreement set forth in Schedule C of Exhibit A of the petition herein, the securities described in Schedule E of Exhibit A of the Custodian's petition herein; and there had been deposited with said Trust Company by this respondent under the terms of the said agreement (save and except only that said agreement had been modified in writing on May 27th, 1913, by changing the rate of compensation for the services of the said Trust Company from two per cent. to one per cent. on income alone and without any charge on the corpus of the estate), and there then stood to the credit of the so-called Checking Account in the joint names of this respondent and said Helene von Schierholz the sum of $4,700.08, due this respondent, as stated in said Exhibit A of the petition.

This respondent, in information and belief, denies each 100 and every allegation contained in said paragraph III of said petition, save as hereinbefore expressly admitted and demands that the petitioner make due proof thereof.

Answering paragraph IV of the petition of the above-named petitioner, this respondent admits and on information and belief alleges that the Commercial Trust Company had on March 28th, 1919, to the credit of the so-called Checking Account mentioned in said paragraph IV, which so ran in the joint names of this respondent and Helene J. von Schierholz, a balance of $39,190.76 and to the credit of the so-called Trust Account therein mentioned a balance of $18,159.69. This respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in said paragraph IV of reports made to the petitioner by said Commercial Trust Company, and asks that the petitioner make due proof thereof.

This respondent denies on information and belief that the so-called checking account for $39,190.76 and the so-called trust account of $18,159.69 referred to in paragraph IV of the said petition were held in the manner therein alleged to have been reported by the respondent to the Alien Property Custodian or otherwise than as herein stated and set forth.

101 This respondent, answering paragraph V of the petition herein says he is informed and believes that on or about July 8th, 1918, there was delivered to the respondent Commercial Trust Company a paper of which Exhibit B of the petition purports to be a copy.

This respondent, on information and belief, alleges that A. Mitchell Palmer did not, as Alien Property Custodian, either personally or otherwise, prior to the said delivery of said paper Exhibit B, or at any time, investigate or determine after investigation that the securities and monies mentioned in said Exhibit B of the petition, or any of them, were either owing to or belonging to or held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of Helene J. von Schierholz, and alleges on information and belief that no investigation of the ownership or conditions of tenure thereof, or any thereof, aside from receiving such report from the Trust Company, was made or attempted by said Palmer as such Custodian, or on his behalf; and further alleges on information and belief that the information of the possession by the respondent Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey of such funds and securities specified in the report made by it to the Alien Property Custodian in December, 1917, as to which Exhibit B of the petition recites that such decision was made by said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian after investigation, was derived solely from the report so made to him by said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, and such report itself contained and conveyed to said A. M. Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian information and notice that this 102 respondent was both an owner and a holder at law and interested as a beneficial owner in the securities held and money owned by the said Commercial Trust Company, described and mentioned in said report, and put said Palmer as such Custodian on inquiry as to the ownership of said securities and accounts, and the persons by and for whom and for whose account and benefit the same were held, and required of him investigation of the facts, especially through the sources of which said Trust Company so advised him.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that neither said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian, nor the petitioner, his successor, nor any of their respective subordinates, ever made any inquiry of this respondent or of any one representing him, or attempted to make any inquiry of him or of any one representing him, as to the rights of this respondent in such securities or funds, or ever investigated or attempted to investigate the rights of this respondent in such securities or funds or to ascertain any of the facts concerning the beneficial ownership of such securities, funds, and indebtedness, all of which could have been readily ascertained by said Palmer, had he inquired as to the facts as to ownership and tenure of such property and indebtedness, of this respondent, whose Paris address had been so furnished to said Palmer as such Custodian; that any inquiries addressed to this respondent at his said Paris address since his departure to Switzerland have at all times been regularly forwarded to this respondent at his Swiss address, and this respondent's said Swiss address was at all

103 times after his removing to Switzerland in August, 1914, promptly furnished to any and all inquirers for him at his former Paris address; that so far as any pretended investigation was made or any information was secured by said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian either personally or officially, such information had disclosed to him, prior to June 1st, 1918, not only that this respondent was a person to whom said securities legally belonged at least in part, and to whom said sums of money were legally owing and payable by said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, and for whose benefit and account and in whose behalf they were held; but had also disclosed to said Custodian that this respondent was at least in part the beneficial owner of said funds and securities and that said Helene von Schierholz was at most a beneficial owner of only a part thereof; that disregarding such information and without communication with this respondent or affording him any opportunity to be heard or to show his rights, and without inquiry or investigation, the said Alien Property Custodian secretly, without evidence to support his pretended conclusion, and without making the investigation required by law; and contrary to the information he had in his possession and to the proofs and notice that were before him of the rights of this respondent, and in fraud of the rights of this respondent (to whom no recourse to any Court was then afforded by the terms of the statute, which then afforded such recourse only to persons resident in the various judicial districts of the United States)

104 fraudulently pretended that he, said Palmer, had duly investigated, and that he had personally examined and passed on the evidence obtained by investigation, when he had not done either; and fraudulently pretended by his said letter, Exhibit B of the petition, to have determined after examination and investigation (contrary to the evidence and information in his possession, and to the evidence immediately obtainable had he made real investigation, and contrary to the facts as they existed), that this respondent had no rights in such securities and monies, and that the same belonged exclusively to said Helene von Schierholz.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief, that any such pretended determination by the said A. Mitchell Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, as recited in said Exhibit B, that said securities belonged to Helene von Schierholz and that said sums of money were owing to her, was unlawful, fraudulent, null and void, and did not constitute due process of law, and was an attempt to deprive this respondent of his property without due process of law, and to take his private property for public use without compensation or opportunity to be heard, contrary to the provisions of the Fourth and Fifth amendments to the Constitution of the United States; and was in excess of any powers that the Congress of the United States and the President of the United States could confer, on such Custodian or on any other administrative officer, even when legislating under the war powers of Congress, and also contrary to the provisions of the Act of Congress approved October 6, 1917, commonly known as the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the amendments thereto theretofore adopted, and contrary to any authority conferred by the President of the United States on said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian under said Act of October 6, 1917, and the amendments made thereto prior to the making of such pretended determination.

Answering the allegations of paragraph VI of the said petition herein this respondent, on information and belief, denies that either the sum of $39,190.76 designated as "Checking Account" or the sum of $18,159.69 designated as a "Trust Account" or any part of either thereof was held by the respondent Trust Company subject to the demand of Helene J. von Schierholz, at any time or times after April 6, 1917, or under any other conditions or in any other way, at any time, than as hereinafter alleged. And this respondent, on information and belief, alleges that the right and power of said Helene J. von Schierholz at any time to demand delivery to her of any of said securities or monies was, from the making of such deposit, only a power in trust, as more fully hereinafter is set forth, which ceased and determined on the declaration of war by the United States against Germany on April 6, 1917, and that such power (save for the cash and securities individually belonging to her as hereinafter set forth) involved elements of personal trust and confidence and was not transferable.

This respondent admits, and on information and belief alleges, that Helen J. von Schierholz in the said petition named was, from and after the declaration of war by the United States on Germany technically an enemy of the United States, and until the enactment of the Act of Congress of June 5, 1920, without a license to deal with said properties, or any thereof, save such license as was given by general proclamation in 1919. But this respondent alleges, on information and belief, that said Helene J. von Schierholz was born an American citizen on April 14th, 1856, in Paris, France, while her parents, who were then citizens of the United States, domiciled in Brooklyn, New York, were temporarily residing in Paris; that she is the daughter of the late Charles Ahren-feldt of Kings County, New York, (who was by birth a subject of the King of Denmark, but was duly naturalized an American citizen on October 3rd, 1848, and who was domiciled and long resided in the City, as it then was, of Brooklyn, New York, and who retained his domicile there until his death on January 21st, 1893) and of Helene Ahrenfeldt, his wife, who was also an American citizen; that said Helene J. von Schierholz lost her American citizenship and became a German subject by her marriage on or about July 24th, 1879 (long prior to August 1st, 1914) to her husband Arthur von Schierholz, who was a German subject but died in January, 1899; that at the time of her said marriage said Helene J. von Schierholz was an American citizen; that such marriage occurred long prior to August 1, 1914, and that said Helene J. von Schierholz has been since April 6, 1917, and is still domiciled in Germany and there a resident.

Save and except as hereinbefore specifically admitted this 107 respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of any allegation contained in paragraph numbered "VI" of the said petition and therefore denies the same and each and every thereof and demands that the petitioner make due proof thereof.

This respondent is informed and believes that the respondent Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey has failed and refused and continues to fail and refuse to convey, transfer, assign, deliver or pay to the petitioner the money and other property described in the petition, but still holds the same subject to the demand of this respondent.

Save and except as in this paragraph specifically admitted this respondent on information and belief denies each and every allegation contained in paragraph numbered VII of the petition herein.

This respondent answering paragraph numbered "VIII" of the petition herein admits that this proceeding is brought by the petitioner as Alien Property Custodian of the United States.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that this respondent was for many years prior to his death a trusted business associate and friend of the late Charles Ahrenfeldt, of 108 Brooklyn, New York; and that this respondent is well over sixty years of age; that upon the death of said Charles Ahrenfeldt, above named, in 1893, as above set forth, his three children by his said wife Helene Ahrenfeldt, namely, Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, Helene von Schierholz (née Ahrenfeldt) named in the petition, and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband (née Ahrenfeldt) derived and received from their said father's estate, assets and securities of large value;

That said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt is, and by and since his birth has at all times been an American citizen; that said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt has at all times since August 1st, 1914, resided and been in either England, or in France or in Switzerland, and has never been an enemy of the United States.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband was born a citizen of the United States on April 25th, 1831, while her said parents, Charles Ahrenfeldt and Helene Ahrenfeldt, his wife, were domiciled in Brooklyn, but temporarily residing in Paris, France, as above stated; that said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband lost her original American citizenship and became a German subject about 1885 by her marriage to a German subject, one Hans von Wangenheim, from whom she thereafter obtained a valid decree of divorce in the German courts, prior to 1897. Thereafter and in 1897 she was again married to Count Woldemar von Uxküll-Gyllenband, also a German subject, and has ever since resided in Germany, and is now there resident in the city of Berlin; and that, at the time of her said first marriage to said von Wangenheim, said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband was an American citizen, and became a German subject by that marriage.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that prior to January 30th, 1913, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, reposing trust and confidence in this respondent, had respectively placed in his hands various sums of money and American securities belonging to them respectively in severalty, all derived as aforesaid by them severally from said Charles Ahrenfeldt, deceased, and all situate in this country, to be cared for by this respondent as the agent of them respectively, with power to this respondent to make investments and changes in investments thereof from time to time, with the approval of said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, and with the understanding that this respondent might likewise, along with such funds, invest other funds of his own, but that while the ownership of such securities and funds should at all times be kept several, the cash at any time on deposit should be carried in the name of the respondent, though belonging to said several parties in their respective proportions.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that in January 1913, it was agreed among the said four parties (viz.: this respondent, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband) that certain securities and some cash then so held by this respondent, belonging to them in severalty as aforesaid, should be deposited by him in the above-named Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, and that for convenience, in case of any supervening disability of this respondent, such cash and securities should be deposited in the joint names of this respondent and of said Helene von Schierholz, with power (as between themselves and said Trust Company) to either of them to withdraw the same; but with the definite understanding and agreement among all said four parties that said Helene von Schierholz should exercise such power only in case of disability of this respondent, and then only subject to the like responsibility as this respondent was at all times under, to return to any one of the respective owners, his or her securities and his or her part of the cash, upon demand, but leaving with this respondent power and authority in his own discretion at any time and from time to time to withdraw any and all securities or moneys deposited with said Trust Company.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that all securities and cash so entrusted to this respondent by said Helene J. von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband respectively were property derived by them respectively from their said father 111 Charles Ahrenfeldt, deceased, or his estate, or securities into which property so derived by them had been changed by them respectively; and that none of said property so owned by them, or either of them, deposited in said Commercial Trust Company in the joint names of this respondent and said Helene J. von Schierholz was acquired by either of them, either directly or indirectly from any citizen or subject of Germany or Austro-Hungary or of any country allied with either of those countries in the said war.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that pursuant to such arrangement between this respondent, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene J. von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, in January, 1913, and thereafter, this respondent and said Helene J. von Schierholz entered into an agreement with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey set forth in Schedule C of Exhibit 1 of the petition herein, and thereafter, to wit, in May 1913, by written agreement between them and said Commercial Trust Company said agreement was modified so as to provide that said Trust Company's commissions should be one per cent. on income alone, instead of two per cent, as originally provided.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that pursuant to such arrangement this respondent thereupon or 112 or about January 30th, 1913, deposited with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, under said agreement with it sundry American securities and cash belonging respectively to this respondent, to said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, to said Helene J. von Schierholz and to said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, all previously held by this respondent, part as individual owner of certain thereof, and the remainder as such agent of said Charles, of said Helene and of said Lucy, respectively, as several owners of such individual sums and securities respectively.

That thereafter pursuant to such power to change investments so reposed in this respondent, and with the advice and approval of said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, this respondent changed various investments so held for the said several parties in interest, and some bonds held for them respectively were paid off, and on December 19th, 1917 the cash and securities so deposited with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, under said agreement with it as so modified as hereinbefore alleged, consisted of a balance of $4,700.08 cash due from said Trust Company and the securities set forth in Schedule E of Exhibit 1 of the petition of the Alien Property Custodian herein.

That such cash balance due on December 19th, 1917, from the said Trust Company and securities then so deposited with it, of which it was a mere bailee, were then owned in severalty as follows:

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that subsequently under the said authority conferred on this respondent and with the approval of said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt the Champion Lumber Company bonds above mentioned were exchanged on behalf of each of the said several owners thereof for a like amount of bonds of the Suncrest Lumber Company, which had taken over the business of said Champion Lumber Company.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the various balances due from the Trust Company on the Checking Account were as far as its relations were concerned a debt due from said Trust Company; but as between this respondent, said Ahrenfeldt, said Helene von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband the sums deposited with said Trust Company constituted a fund in which they were severally and individually interested in the amounts herein shown. For convenience the sums deposited with the Trust Company are at times herein referred to as a fund. Said Trust Account has from its inception all been set aside and is held 120 by said Commercial Trust Company on deposit in another Trust Company as a separate fund.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that out of the cash on hand on January 3rd, 1918, above shown, which was all held in the Checking Account mentioned in the petition, there was paid out on March 26th, 1918, the sum of $42.60, of which $37.18 was this respondent's money, $2.21 money of the said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, $1.60 money of the said Helene J. von Schierholz and $1.61 money of the said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband.

That the only other changes in the said checking account from and after January 3rd, 1918, were additions of interest accrued on the balances in the account, which belonged severally to the individual owners of the funds on deposit in said account as earned thereby and such individual shares of interest earned, up to September 18th, 1920, were as follows:

To this respondent individually.....	$978.05
To Charles J. Ahrenfeldt individually.....	913.81
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	656.01
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	675.15
Total	$3,223.02

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the total amount of cash in said checking account on March 121 28th, 1919 was $39,190.76, which belonged:

To this respondent individually.....	$11,890.48
To Charles J. Ahrenfeldt individually.....	11,112.36
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	7,977.67
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	8,210.25
	$39,190.76

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that additional interest was earned on the balances in said checking account and credited thereon after March 28th, 1919 and up to and including September 28th, 1920 aggregating $1,806.05, bringing the balance to the credit of said checking account on that date up to $40,996.81, which entire sum belongs

To this respondent individually.....	$12,438.46
To Charles J. Ahrenfeldt individually.....	11,624.45
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	8,345.31
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	8,588.59

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that since September 28th, 1920 said balance in the so-called 122 Checking Account has been and is now earning additional interest, which additional interest as earned belongs to this respondent, to said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, to said Helene J. von Schierholz and to said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband in proportion to their several interests therein on September 28th, 1920.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the so-called Trust Account referred to in the petition, was created after January 3d, 1918, and consists exclusively of sums collected by said Commercial Trust Company since February 1st, 1918, as interest on the said several securities so deposited with it as above set forth, owned by the said several persons, and of the sums collected as principal of said $5,000 Clearview Coal Company bonds on April 7th, 1920, and as principal of said $10,000 New Netherlands Theatre Company bonds on May 3d, 1920, and of interest accrued on the balances so placed to the credit of said account, less the commissions charged by said Trust Company under said agreements with it.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that all sums so deposited to the credit of said so-called Trust Account belonged individually to one or other of said four persons, to wit, 123 this respondent, said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband in severally, in accordance with their respective ownership of the securities from which the said several sums so deposited were received.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that on March 28th, 1910 the sums credited to said Trust Account, above all commissions charged thereon amounted to the aggregate sum of $18,159.69, which sum belonged to the said four persons respectively in severalty as follows:

To this respondent individually:

Coupons and interest from his said securities.....	$3,093.01
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	37.29
	$3,130.30

To said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt individually:

Coupons and interest from his said securities.....	$1,539.46
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	17.88
	$1,557.34

To said Helene von Schierholz individually:

Coupons and interest from her said securities.....	$6,566.81
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	67.62
	$6,634.43

124 To said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually:

Coupons and interest from her said securities.....	$6,760.56
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	77.06

26.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that on October 1st, 1920 the sums credited to said Trust Account above all commissions so charged thereon amounted to the aggregate sum of $61,583.83, which sum belonged to the said four persons respectively in severalty, as follows:

To this respondent individually.....	$12,924.99
To Charles J. Ahrenfeldt individually.....	8,862.16
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	19,033.99
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	20,732.69
Total.....	$61,583.83

and that by a bookkeeper's error said Commercial Trust Company made an overcharge of $1.00 commission on October 1st, 1920 on credits amounting to $907.15, charging $10.07 commissions instead of but $9.07, and the balance disclosed by it as of October, 1920 in its answer is $1.00 less than the actual balance.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that of the net sums so credited to said Trust Account (deducting its said erroneous charge of $1) the following were the sources, all being derived from the above-mentioned securities:

1. Sums belonging to this respondent individually:

Principal of $5,000. New Netherlands Theatre bonds paid off belonging individually to this respondent. . . .	$5,000.00
Amounts of interest or coupons collected on the individual securities above described belonging to this defendant individually, so deposited with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey (less commissions of 1%)	7,526.77
Amounts of interest credited growing out of the above amounts credited to said Trust account belonging to this respondent individually (less commissions of 1%)	398.22

126 2. Sums belonging to Charles J. Ahrenfeldt individually:

Principal of $5,000. New Netherlands Theatre bonds paid off belonging individually to said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt	$5,000.00

	$8,862.16

3. Sums belonging to Helene J. von Schierholz individually:

	<hr/> $20,732.69

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that in addition to said sums additional coupons are from time to time collected belonging to said four several individuals, cut from their said securities, which belong to them respectively in severalty, and additional interest is being earned on their several balances deposited in said account, all of which belong to them severally.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the securities still in the hands of said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey so deposited with it now consist of the following securities owned severally by the following individuals respectively:

1. Securities owned by this respondent individually:

3,000 " " Adirondack Electric Power Company.

5,000 " " Hudson Navigation Company.
15,000 " " Suncrest Lumber Company.

9,800 United States bonds (2d Liberty Loan).

2. Securities owned by said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt individually:

$5,000 bonds of Hudson Navigation Company.
15,000 " " Suncrest Lumber Company.
5,000 " " Central Georgia Power Company.

3. Securities owned by said Helene J. von Schierholz individually:

$7,000 bonds of Tacoma Eastern R. R. Co.
 28,000 " " City of Chicago (City Hall 4s).
 5,000 " " Montreal Tramways.
 5,000 " " Gulf & Ship Island Ry. Co.

 5,000 " " the City of Memphis (4¼%).
 7,000 " " " Adirondack Electric Power Company.

$5,000 " " " Norfolk Southern R. R. Co.

 42,000 stock of the City of New York.
 16,500 United States bonds (2d Liberty Loan).

4. Securities owned by said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually:

$2,000 bonds of Tacoma Eastern R. R. Co.

 5,000 " " Westchester Lighting Company.
 83,000 stock of the City of New York.
 5,000 bonds of Omaha (Water Works).
 18,700 United States bonds (2d Liberty Loan).

131 That such securities so owned are in each instance accompanied by all coupons thereto belonging maturing since October 1st, 1920 (save as any such coupons have been collected since October 1st, 1920 and thereafter credited to said Trust Account) and the coupons and any proceeds so collected and any interest accruing thereon are the several property of said several owners of the securities to which they pertain. All the said several securities herein mentioned other than the said United States bonds are securities issued by various American private or municipal corporations.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the above-named securities and the above described indebtedness and sums of cash so set apart, all of which are so claimed by this respondent.

ent, are the identical securities, indebtedness and particular funds of cash which the Alien Property Custodian, as petitioner herein, is asking to have directed turned over to him by order and decree of this Court upon his petition herein.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that he was at all times and still is the agent of said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, of said Helene J. von Schierholz and of said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, in charge of their said respective securities and moneys, and holder of his own, and this relation was not changed by the 132 arrangement for deposit of said securities and cash in the joint names of this respondent and said Helene J. von Schierholz any further than this: that she should be able to act as an alternate for this respondent in withdrawing such securities and cash in event of the death or other disability of this respondent; that it was a term of the arrangement between the said four principals for such deposit in the joint names of this respondent and said Helene J. von Schierholz with the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, that she should act only as such alternate in such event, and she was given such power only upon that trust; that said Helene J. von Schierholz has at all times observed said trust and has not at any time from the inception of such deposit in January 1913, interfered in any way with the conduct of such agency by this respondent, who has at all times been the sole person actually in charge of such securities and funds.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the attempt of the Alien Property Custodian to seize such funds, under the power conferred upon said Helene J. von Schierholz by the making of the deposit in the joint names of this respondent and herself, is contrary to the terms of the arrangement and the trust under which she was so made a co-depositor, and under which such deposits with the Trust Company were made by this respondent, that she should act only as such alternate, and only in the event of the death or disability of this respondent, and in breach of the trust duties and 133 relations imposed on her by such arrangement, to all of which the Custodian would, if he could have taken over her said power, have ipso facto been subject; that this respondent has not at any time been under any disability to act, and neither the time nor the occasion when said Helene J. von Schierholz would be justified in withdrawing any of said cash or securities by virtue of the deposit in the joint names of this respondent and herself has ever arisen; and that the attempt of the Custodian to obtain such funds and securities by virtue of her being so named as joint depositor and the provisions of the agreement with said Commercial Trust Company, if he had the power to exercise the power held by said Helene von Schierholz, was a breach of the trust duties assumed by her, (upon the assumption of which alone she was named as such joint depositor on the terms stated in such contracts with the said Commercial Trust Company), and in fraud of the rights of this respondent.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that all the foregoing facts would have been promptly and fully disclosed to the said A. Mitchell Palmer or the petitioner, his successor, as Alien Property Custodian or their representatives had they or any of them, either in 1918 or at any other time made due inquiry or investigation into the rights to the said funds and securities so deposited with the Commercial Trust Company, and the sums on deposit with it, or the ownership and tenure thereof; that 134 none of them made any investigation whatever into the ownership or tenure or conditions thereof beyond seeking and obtaining such report from said Commercial Trust Company.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that since the said pretended determination by the former Alien Property Custodian recited in said Exhibit B of the petition as made in 1918, and which, if made at all, was made without any investigation of the facts relative to the ownership, tenure and conditions of said securities, debts and funds, the Act of Congress of June 5, 1920, amending the Trading with the Enemy Act has been enacted. And this respondent contends that by virtue thereof and the original American citizenship of said Helene J. von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband (lost only by their respective marriages to German subjects long prior to 1914), the Alien Property Custodian has lost all right to claim or take over the portions of said funds and securities belonging to them severally.

This respondent further alleges that long prior to the commencement of this proceeding, and after the enactment of the Act of Congress of June 5, 1920, to wit, on the 8th day of July, 1920, this respondent demanded of the said Commercial Trust Company payment to him of all the said balances in the said Checking 135 Account and said Trust Account, so agreed to be paid to him on his demand, and all said securities so deposited with it. That said demand was made in good faith and without any collusion with said respondent Trust Company. That in making such demand this respondent acted as owner of his own part and as such trust agent for his said several principals Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, Helene J. von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, charged by them respectively with the duty of holding their respective securities and cash.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief, that said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey holds all said funds and securities and owes the moneys hereinbefore set forth as bailee, depositary and debtor of this respondent; that its possession thereof is his possession; and that this respondent is entitled to intervene and be heard in this proceeding pro interesse suo both as such bailor and creditor, and also as the individual several owner of the cash and securities hereinbefore specified and also as agent in possession of the securities and cash belonging severally to his said several principals Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, Helene J. von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband; and that any order or decree of this Court directing any disposition of such funds or securities without first giving this respondent his day in Court, will be contrary to law and to the provisions of the fourth and fifth amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that no investigation and no determination after investigation of the ownership or holding of the securities and moneys in the hands of the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey hereinbefore described, such as was contemplated by the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act has ever been made by either the former Alien Property Custodian or the present Alien Property Custodian or any representative of either, and that the present proceeding is an attempt simply to ignore the rights and interests of this respondent, to take the private property of this respondent for public use, without just compensation, and to deprive him of his property without due process of law and in violation of the right of this respondent to be secure in his effects against unreasonable seizure, guaranteed by the fourth article of Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and also without warrant issued upon proper cause supported by oath or affirmation and particularly describing the things to be seized. And this respondent calls particular attention to the fact that the Alien Property Custodian in his petition herein, while sedulously alleging that the said A. Mitchell Palmer did investigate and after investigation determine that said Helene J. von Schierholz was in 1918 an enemy of the United States, has wholly and apparently sedulously avoided alleging that either said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian or said petitioner, his successor, has ever investigated or determined after investigation that the indebtedness of the Trust Company and the property mentioned in Exhibit A of said Custodian's petition, was by the Trust Company owing to or belonged to or by it held for, by, on account of, or for the benefit of said Helene von Schierholz.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that Ernest T. Greiner, named in the answer of said Commercial Trust Company to the petition herein, was at one time an employee of this respondent; that he is not now and has not been for more than eight months last past; that said Greiner has neither lien nor color of lien on any of the said funds or securities so in the hands of said Commercial Trust Company, and this respondent prays that if said Greiner be allowed to intervene or answer herein this respondent be permitted to answer any claims he may make or matters that he may assert.

Wherefore, this respondent prays that an examination pro interesse suo into his rights and interests in the property and indebtedness petitioned for by the Custodian be had and the rights and interests of this respondent therein be determined; that the prayer of the petition be denied; that the said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey be ordered and directed to deliver to this respondent all the securities and funds so held by it, and particularly those specifically ally shown to be the individual several property of this respondent, and also to him as agent, those above shown to be the individual and several property of this respondent's said several principals, Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, Helene J. von Schierholz and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, and that this respondent have such other and further relief in the premises as may be just.

148 Proposed Answer of Charles J. Ahrenfeldt.

In the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey.

FRANCIS P. GARVAN, as Alien Property Custodian, Petitioner,

v.

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, a Corporation,
and CHARLES J. AHRENFELDT, Intervener, Respondents.

In the Matter of the Application of FRANCIS P. GARVAN, as Alien Property Custodian, In re Certain Stocks, Bonds, Securities, and Money in the Hands of the Respondent, Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey.

The answer of Charles J. Ahrenfeldt above-named intervener and respondent (interposed by leave of court first had and obtained) to the petition of the above-named petitioner.

This respondent, on information and belief says:

This respondent is a citizen of the United States and is a resident of London, England, where his address is care of R. Newton Crane, 4 Temple Gardens, Temple. This respondent has resided in France, in Switzerland, or in England at all times since the first day of January, 1914, and has not since the first of January, 1914, resided in any judicial district of the United States, and has never been an enemy of the United States, and is not now.

This respondent admits the allegations contained in paragraphs I and II of the petition of the above named petitioner herein.

This respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of any of the allegations contained in paragraph III of the petition of the above named petitioner herein, save and except only that this respondent is informed and believes that in the month of December, 1917 the above named Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, not knowing the real facts beyond the securities and sums on deposit with it, and the contracts under which such deposits were made with it, made a report to the then

150 Alien Property Custodian, which it made for the purpose of safeguarding itself from liability to the United States of America, should it thereafter be determined upon competent evidence and proofs by competent authority that Helene von Schierholz in said petition named was an enemy and that such securities, or any part thereof, belonged to her, or said sums or any part thereof were owing to her. This respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief whether Exhibit A of the said petition herein is a true and correct copy of the report so filed or whether the file number thereof is No. 8393 as alleged in the petition, but this respondent alleges on information and belief that such report so made was filed in the office of the Alien Property Custodian prior to March 1st, 1918 and was in the possession of the Alien Property Custodian long prior to the signature of the original paper of which Exhibit B of the said petition purports to be a copy, and that said report contained a copy of the agreement under which said securities and funds were deposited with said Commercial Trust Company, which agreement is substantially in the words shown in Schedule C of said Exhibit A of the petition, save that by subsequent agreement the rate of the Trust Company's compensation was on or about May 27th, 1913 reduced to 1 per cent. on the income. And that said Trust Company by such report asserted and informed the Alien Property Custodian that the said Commercial Trust Company was not a Trustee, but a bailee for hire of the securities and a mere banking depository of the funds deposited with it, and that 151 said Helene von Schierholz was not the sole owner of said securities or said funds, nor were the same due to her, and that the same were not held by her or for her, or her sole behalf, or her sole account, or for her sole benefit, but that she had no more than a fractional interest therein, and that Frederick Wesche in said petition named was at least a co-owner thereof and also beneficially interested therein; and gave notice and presumptive evidence to said Custodian that said Frederick Wesche was not an enemy of the United States, and advised the said Custodian of the address it had for the said Wesche, through which address the said Wesche could readily have been reached, and inquiry as to the facts made of him.

This respondent admits and on information and belief alleges that said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey did on December 19th, 1917 hold, deposited with it under and pursuant to the terms of the agreement set forth in Schedule C of Exhibit A of the petition herein, the securities described in Schedule E of Exhibit A of the Custodian's petition herein; and there had been deposited with said Trust Company by said Wesche under the terms of said agreement (save and except only that said agreement had been modified in writing on May 27th, 1913, by changing the rate of compensation for the services of the said Trust Company from two per cent. to one per cent. on income alone and without any charge on the corpus of the estate), and there stood to the credit of said

Checking Account in the joint names of said Wesche and 152 said Helene von Schierholz the sum of $4,700.08 due to said Wesche.

This respondent, on information and belief, denies each and every allegation contained in said Paragraph III of the said petition, save as hereinbefore expressly admitted and demands that the petitioner make due proof thereof.

Answering paragraph IV of the petition of the above-named petitioner, this respondent admits and on information and belief alleges that the Commercial Trust Company had on March 28th, 1919, to the credit of the so-called Checking Account mentioned in said Paragraph IV, which account ran in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz, a balance of $39,190.76 and to the credit of the so-called Trust Account therein mentioned a balance of $18,159.69. This defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in said paragraph IV of reports made to the petitioner by said Commercial Trust Company, and asks that the petitioner make due proof thereof.

This respondent denies on information and belief that the so-called Checking Account for $39,190.76 and the so-called Trust Account for $18,159.69 referred to in paragraph IV of the said petition were held in the manner therein alleged to have been reported by the respondent to the Alien Property Custodian or otherwise than as herein stated and set forth.

This respondent, answering paragraph V of the petition herein, says he is informed and believes that on or about July 8th, 1918 there was delivered to the respondent Commercial Trust Company a paper of which Exhibit B of the petition purports to be a copy.

This respondent, on information and belief alleges that A. Mitchell Palmer did not, as Alien Property Custodin, either personally or otherwise, prior to the said delivery of said paper Exhibit B, or at any time, investigate or determine after investigation that the securities and monies mentioned in said Exhibit B of the petition, or any of them, were either owing to or belonging to or held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of Helene J. von Schierholz and alleges on information and belief that no investigation of the ownership or conditions of tenure thereof, or any thereof, aside from receiving such report from the Trust Company, was made or attempted by said Palmer as such Custodian, or on his behalf; and further alleges on information and belief that the information of the possession by the respondent Commercial

Trust Company of New Jersey of such funds and securities specified in the report made by it to the Alien Property Custodian in December 1917, as to which Exhibit B of the petition recites that such decision was made by said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian after investigation, was derived solely from the report so made to him by said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, and such report itself contained and conveyed to said A. M. Palmer as 154 such Alien Property Custodian information and notice that said Frederick Wesche was both an owner and a holder at law and interested as a beneficiary in the securities held and moneys owed by the said Commercial Trust Company, described and mentioned in said report, and put said Palmer as such Custodian on inquiry as to the ownership of said securities and accounts, and the persons by and for whom and for whose account and benefit the same were held, and required of him investigation of the facts, especially through the sources of which said Trust Company so advised him.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that neither said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian, nor the petitioner, his successors, nor any of their respective subordinates, ever made any inquiry of said Wesche, or of any one representing him, or attempted to make any inquiry of him or of any one representing him, as to the rights of said Wesche, or of this respondent, in or to such funds and securities, or ever investigated, or attempted to investigate, the rights of said Wesche or of this respondent in said securities or funds or to ascertain any of the facts concerning the beneficial ownership of said securities, funds and indebtedness, all of which could have been readily ascertained by said Palmer had he inquired, as to the facts as to ownership and tenure of such property and indebtedness, of the said Wesche, whose Paris address had been so furnished to said Palmer as such Custodian. Said respondent

155 Wesche had during the first week in August, as this respondent is informed and believes, removed from Paris to Lucerne, Switzerland, and any inquiries addressed to said Wesche at the Paris address given in the report made to the Alien Property Custodian by the said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey since the departure of said Wesche from Paris in 1914 have at all times been regularly and promptly forwarded to said Wesche at his Swiss address, and said Wesche's Swiss address was at all times after removing to Switzerland in August 1914 promptly furnished to any and all inquirers for him at his former Paris address. That so far as any pretended investigation was made or any information was secured by said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian, either personally or officially, such information had disclosed to him prior to June 1, 1918, not only that the said Wesche was a person to whom said securities legally belonged, at least in part, and to whom said sums of money were legally owing by said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, and for whose benefit and account and in whose behalf they were held; but had also disclosed to said Custodian that said Frederick Wesche was at least in part the beneficial owner of said funds and securities and that said Helene von Schierholz was at most a beneficial owner of only a part thereof. That disregarding such information and without communication with said Wesche or this respondent or affording either of them any opportunity to be heard or to show their respective rights, and without inquiry or investigation, the said Alien Property Custodian secretly, without evidence to support his pretended conclusion, and without making the investigation required by law, and contrary to the information he had in his possession and to the proofs and notice that were before him of the rights of said Wesche, and in fraud of the rights of this respondent and of said Wesche to neither of whom was any recourse to any court then afforded by the terms of the statute, (which then afforded such recourse only to persons resident in the various judicial districts of the United States) fraudulently pretended that he, said Palmer, had duly investigated, and that he had personally examined and passed on the evidence obtained by investigation, when he had not done either; and fraudulently pretended by his said letter, Exhibit B of the petition, to have determined after examination and investigation, (contrary to the evidence and information in his possession, and to the evidence immediately obtainable had he made real investigation, and contrary to the facts as they existed), that neither the said Wesche nor this respondent had any rights in such securities and monies, and that the same belonged exclusively to said Helene von Schierholz.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that any such pretended determination by the said A. Mitchell Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, as recited in said Exhibit B, that said securities belonged to Helene von Schierholz and that said sums of money were owing to her, was unlawful, fraudulent, null and void, and did not constitute due process of law, and was an attempt to deprive this respondent of his property without due process of law, and to take his private property for public use without compensation or opportunity to be heard, contrary to the provisions of the Fourth and Fifth amendments to the Constitution of the United States; and was in excess of any powers that the Congress of the United States and the President of the United States could confer, even when legislating under the war powers of Congress, and also contrary to the provisions of the Act of Congress approved October 6, 1917 commonly known as the Trading with the Enemy Act and the amendments thereto theretofore adopted, and contrary to any authority conferred by the President of the United States on said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian under said Act of October 6, 1917, and amendments thereto made prior to the making of such pretended determination.

Answering the allegations of paragraph VI of the said petition herein this respondent, on information and belief, denies that either the sum of $39,190.76 designated as Checking Account or the sum of $18,159.69 designated as a Trust Account, or any part of either thereof, was held by the respondent Trust Company subject to the demand of Helene J. von Schierholz, at any time or times after April 6, 1917 or under any other conditions or in any other way, at any time than as hereinafter alleged. And this respondent, on information and belief, alleges that the right and power of said Helene J. von

Schierholz at any time to demand delivery to her of any of 158 said securities or monies was, from the making of such deposit, only a power in trust, as more fully hereinafter set forth, which ceased and determined on the declaration of war by the United States against Germany on April 6, 1917, and which power (save for the cash and securities individually belonging to her as hereinafter set forth) involved elements of personal trust and confidence and was not transferable.

This respondent admits and on information and belief alleges that Helene J. von Schierholz in the said petition named, who is this respondent's sister, was from and after the declaration of war by the United States, on Germany, technically an enemy of the United States, and until the enactment of the Act of Congress of June 5, 1920, without a license to deal with said properties, or any thereof, save such license as was given by proclamation in 1919. But this respondent alleges on information and belief that said Helene J. von Schierholz was born an American citizen on April 14th, 1856, in Paris, France, while her parents, who were then citizens of the United States domiciled in Brooklyn, New York, were temporarily residing in Paris; that said Helene J. von Schierholz is the daughter of this respondent's father, the late Charles Ahrenfeldt, of Kings County, New York, (who was by birth a subject of the King of Denmark, but was duly naturalized an American citizen on October 3, 1848, and domiciled and residing in the City, as it then was, of Brooklyn, New York, and retained his domicile there until his death on January 21st, 1893) and of Helene Ahrenfeldt, his wife, this respondent's 159 mother, who was also an American citizen. That said Helene

J. von Schierholz lost her American citizenship and became a German subject by her marriage on or about July 24, 1879 and long prior to August 1st, 1914, to her husband Arthur von Schierholz, who was a German subject, but died in January 1899. That at the time of her said marriage said Helene J. von Schierholz was an American citizen. That such marriage occurred long prior to August 1st, 1914, and that said Helene J. von Schierholz has been since April 6, 1917, and is still, domiciled in Germany and there a resident.

Save and except as hereinbefore specifically admitted this respondent has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of any allegations contained in paragraph numbered VI of the said petition and therefore denies the same and each and every thereof and demands that the petitioner make due proof thereof.

This respondent is informed and believes that the respondent Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse to convey, transfer, assign, deliver or pay to the petitioner the money or other property described in the petition, but still holds the same subject to the demand of said Frederick Wesche and the rights of this respondent. Save and except as hereinafter specifically admitted, this respondent, on information and belief, denies each and every allegation contained in paragraph numbered VII of the petition herein.

This respondent answering paragraph numbered VIII of the petition herein admits that this proceeding is brought by the petitioner as Alien Property Custodian of the United States.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that Frederick Wesche in the petition named was for many years prior to his said death a trusted business associate and friend of the late Charles Ahrenfeldt, of Brooklyn, New York, and that said Wesche is now well over sixty years of age, and that upon the death of the late Charles Ahrenfeldt above named, in 1893, as above set forth, his three children by his said wife Helene Ahrenfeldt, namely, this respondent, Helene von Schierholz (née Ahrenfeldt) named in the petition, and Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband (née Ahrenfeldt) derived and received from their said father's estate assets and securities of large value.

This respondent is, and by and since his birth has at all times been, an American citizen, and has at all times since August 1st, 1914 resided and been in either England, or in France or in Switzerland.

Said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband was born a citizen of the United States on April 25th, 1861, while her said parents, Charles Ahrenfeldt and Helene Ahrenfeldt his wife were domiciled in Brooklyn, but temporarily residing in Paris, France, as above stated.

161 Said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband lost her original American citizenship and became a German subject prior to 1897 by her marriage about 1885 to a German subject, one Hans von Wangenheim, from whom she thereafter obtained a valid decree of divorce in the German Courts prior to 1897, thereafter and in 1897 she was again married to Count Waldemar von Uxküll-Gyllenband also a German subject, and she has ever since resided in Germany, and is now there resident in the City of Berlin; and that at the time of her said marriage to said von Wangenheim said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband was an American citizen.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that prior to January 30th, 1913, this respondent said Helene von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, reposing trust and confidence in said Frederick Wesche, had respectively placed in his hands various sums of money and American securities belonging to them respectively in severalty, all derived as aforesaid by them severally from this respondent's said father Charles Ahrenfeldt, deceased, and all situate in this country, the same to be cared for by said Wesche as the agent of this respondent, said Helene von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband respectively, with power to said Wesche to make investments and changes in investments thereof from time to time, with the approval of this respondent, and with the understanding that the said Wesche might likewise 162 along with such funds, invest other funds of his own, but that while the ownership of such securities and funds should at all times be kept several, the cash at any time on deposit should be carried in the name of said Wesche, though belonging to the said several persons in their respective proportions.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that in January, 1913 it was agreed by and between this respondent, said Helene J. von Schierholz, said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband and said Frederick Wesche that certain securities and some cash then so held by said Wesche belonging in severalty to the respective parties, should be deposited by said Wesche in the above named Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, and that for convenience in case of any supervening disability of said Wesche, such cash and securities should be so deposited in the joint names of said Wesche and of said Helene J. von Schierholz, with power (as between themselves and said Trust Company) to either of them to withdraw the same; but with the definite understanding and agreement among all said parties that said Helene J. von Schierholz should exercise such power only in case of disability of said Wesche, and then only subject to the like responsibility as such Wesche was at all times under, to return to any one of the respective owners his or her securities and his or her part of the cash, upon demand but leaving with said Wesche power and 163 authority in his own discretion at any time and from time to time to withdraw any and all securities or monies so deposited with the said Trust Company.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that all securities and cash so entrusted by Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband respectively to said Frederick Wesche were property derived by them respectively from their said father Charles Ahrenfeldt, deceased, or his estate, or securities into which property so derived by them had been changed by them respectively; and none of said property so owned by them, or either of them, deposited in said Commercial Trust Company in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz, was acquired by either of them, either directly or indirectly from any citizen or subject of Germany or Austro-Hungary, or of any country allied with either of those countries in the said War.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that pursuant to such arrangement between this respondent, said Frederick Wesche, said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, in January, 1913 and thereafter, said Frederick Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz entered into the agreement
164 with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey set forth in Schedule C of Exhibit 1 of the petition herein, and thereafter, to wit, in May, 1913, by written agreement between them and said Commercial Trust Company said agreement was modified so as to provide that said Trust Company's commissions should be one per cent. on income alone, instead of two per cent. as originally provided.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that pursuant to such arrangements, on or about January 30, 1913, said Wesche deposited with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, under said agreement with it, sundry American securities and cash belonging respectively to himself, to this respondent, to said Helene J. von Schierholz and to said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, all previously held by said Wesche under the above mentioned arrangements, part as the individual owner of certain thereof and part as such agent of this respondent and of said Helene J. von Schierholz and of said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband respectively as several owners of individual sums and securities respectively.

Thereafter and pursuant to such power to change investments so reposed in said Wesche, and with the advice and approval of this respondent said Wesche changed various investments so held for the said several parties in interest, and some bonds held for them 165 respectively were paid off, and on December 19th, 1917 the cash and securities so deposited with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey under said agreement with it as so modified as hereinbefore alleged, consisted of a balance of $4,700.08 cash due from said Trust Company and the securities set forth in Schedule E of Exhibit 1 of the petition of the Alien Property Custodian herein.

Such cash balance due on December 19th, 1917, from the said Trust Company and securities then so deposited with it, of which it was a mere bailee, were then owned in severalty as follows:

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that subsequently under said authority conferred on said Frederick Wesche with the approval of this respondent the Champion Lumber bonds above mentioned were exchanged on behalf of each of the said several owners thereof for a like amount of bonds of the Suncrest Lumber Company, which had taken over the business of said Champion Lumber Company.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the various balances due from the Trust Company on the Checking Account were so far as its relations were concerned a debt due from said Trust Company; but as between this respondent, said Wesche, said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband the sums deposited with said Trust Company constituted a fund in which they were severally and individually interested in the amounts herein shown. For convenience the sums deposited with the Trust Company are at times herein referred to as a fund. Said Trust Account has from its inception all been set aside and is held by said Commercial Trust Company as a separate fund.

This respondent alleges on information and belief that out of the cash on hand on January 3rd, 1918, above shown, which was all held in the Checking Account mentioned in the petition, there was paid out on March 26th, 1918, the sum of $42.60, of which $37.18 was money of said Frederick Wesche, $2.21 was money of this respondent, $1.60 was money of the said Helene J. von Schierholz, and $1.61 was money of the said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband.

173 The only other changes in the said Checking Account from and after January 3rd, 1918, were additions of interest accrued on the balances in the account, which belonged severally to the individual owners of the funds on deposit as earned thereby, and such individual shares of interest earned, up to September 28th, 1920, were as follows:

To said Frederick Wesche, individually.....	$978.05
To this respondent individually.....	913.81
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	656.01
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	675.15
Total	$3,223.02

This respondent further alleges that the total amount of cash in said Checking Account on March 28th, 1919 was $39,190.76 which belonged:

To said Frederick Wesche individually.....	$11,890.48
To this respondent individually.....	11,112.36
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	$7,977.67
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	8,210.25
	$39,190.76

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that additional interest was earned on the balances in said checking account and credited thereon after March 28th, 1919 and up to and including September 28th, 1920, aggregating $1,806.05, bringing the balance to the credit of said Checking Account on that date up to $40,996.81, which entire sum belongs:

To said Frederick Wesche individually.....	$12,438.46
To this respondent individually.....	11,624.45
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	8,345.31
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	8,588.59
	$40,996.81

This respondent further alleges that since September 28th, 1920 said balance in the so-called Checking Account has been and is now earning additional interest, which additional interest as earned belongs to said Frederick Wesche, to this respondent, to said Helene J. von Schierholz and to said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband in proportion to their said several interests therein on September 28th, 1920.

23.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the so-called Trust Account referred to in the petition, was created after January 3d, 1918, and consists exclusively of sums collected by said Commercial Trust Company since February 1st, 1918 as interest on the said several securities so deposited with it as above set forth, owned by the said several persons, and of the sums collected as principal of said $5,000 Clearview Coal Company bonds on April 7th, 1920, and as principal of said $10,000. New Netherlands Theatre Company bonds on May 3d, 1920, and of interest accrued on the balances so placed to the credit of said account, less the commissions charged by said Trust Company under said agreements with it.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that all sums so deposited to the credit of said so-called Trust Account belonged individually to one or other of said four persons, to-wit, this respondent, said Frederick Wesche, said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband in severalty, in accordance with their respective ownership of the securities from which the said several sums were derived.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that on March 28th, 1919 the sums credited to said Trust Account, above all commissions charged thereon, amounted to the aggregate sum of $18,159.69, which sum belonged to the said four persons respectively in severalty as follows:

To said Frederick Wesche individually:

Coupons and interest from his said securities.....	$3,093.01
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	37.29
	$3,130.30

To this respondent Charles J. Ahrenfeldt; individually:

Coupons and interest from his said securities.....	$1,539.46
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	17.88
	$1,557.34

To said Helene J. von Schierholz individually:

Coupons and interest from her said securities.....	$6,566.81
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	67.62
	$6,634.43

To said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually:

Coupons and interest from her said securities.....	$6,760.56
Interest accrued on such deposit thereof.....	77.06

26.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that on October 1st, 1920 the sums credited to said Trust Account, above all commissions so charged thereon, amounted to the aggregate sum of $61,583.83, which sum belonged to the said four persons respectively in severalty, as follows:

To said Frederick Wesche individually.....	$12,924.99
To this respondent individually.....	8,862.16
To Helene J. von Schierholz individually.....	19,033.99
To Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband individually.....	20,732.69
Total.....	$61,583.83

That by a book-keeper's error said Commercial Trust Company made an overcharge of $1.00 commissions on October 1st, 1920 on credits amounting to $907.15, charging $10.07 commissions instead of but $9.07, and the balance disclosed by it as of October 1st, 1920 in its answer is $1.00 less than the actual balance.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that of the net sums so credited to said Trust Account so belonging to this respondent (deducting its said erroneous charge of $1.00) the following were the sources, all being derived from his above-mentioned securities:

Principal of $5,000. New Netherlands Theatre bonds belonging individually to this respondent.....	$5,000.
Amounts of interest or coupons collected on the individual securities above described belonging to this respondent individually, so deposited with said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey (less commissions of 1%)	3,639.53
Amounts of interest credited growing out of the above amounts credited to said account belonging to this respondent individually (less commissions of 1%)....	222.63

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that in addition to said sums additional coupons are being collected from time to time and credited to said Trust Account belonging to said four several individuals, cut from their said respective securities, which belong to them respectively in severalty, and additional interest is being earned on their several balances deposited in said account, all of which belong to them severally.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the securities still in the hands of said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey so deposited with it now consist of the following securities owned severally by the following individuals respectively:

1. Securities owned by said Frederick Wesche individually:

$2,000 bonds of Kings County Lighting Company.

All the said several securities herein mentioned other than the said United States bonds are securities issued by various American, private or municipal corporations.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that the above-named securities and the above described indebtedness and sums of cash so set apart, consisting of $5,000 bonds of the Hudson Navigation Company, $5,000 bonds of the Suncrest Lumber Company, $5,000 bonds of the Central Georgia Power Company, $5,000 bonds of the Water Works of the City of Omaha and $8,000 United States bonds, and the sums of $11,624.45 and $8,862.16 are the individual several property of this respondent and are part of the identical securities, indebtedness and particular funds of cash which the Alien Property Custodian, as petitioner herein, is asking to have directed turned over to him by order and decree of this Court upon his petition herein.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that said Frederick Wesche was at all times, and still is the agent of this respondent and of said Helene J. von Schierholz and of said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, in charge of their said respective securities and monies, and holder of his own, and this relation was not changed by the arrangement for deposit of said securities and cash in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz any further than this: that she would be able to act as an alternate for said Wesche in withdrawing such securities and cash in the event of the death or other disability of said Wesche. That it was a term of the arrangement between said Wesche, this respondent, said Helene J. von Schierholz and said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband for such deposit in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz with the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey that the said Helene J. Von Schierholz should act only as such alternate in such event, and she was given such power only upon that trust. That said Helene J. von Schierholz has at all times observed said trust and has not at any time from the inception of such deposit in January, 1913, interfered in any way with the conduct of such agency by said Wesche, who has at all times been the sole person actually in charge of said securities and funds.

This respondent further alleges, on information and belief, that the attempt of the Alien Property Custodian to seize such funds, under the power conferred upon said Helene J. von Schierholz by the making of the deposit in the joint names of said Wesche and said Helene J. von Schierholz, is contrary to the terms of the arrangement under which she was so appointed, and such deposits with the Trust Company were made by said Wesche, that she should act only as such alternate, and only in the event of the death or disability of the said Wesche, and such attempt of the Alien Property Custodian is in breach of the trust duties and relations imposed on said Helene J. von Schierholz by her said arrangement, to all of which the Custodian would if he could have taken over her said power, have ipso facto been subject. That said Wesche has not at any time been under any disability to act, and neither the time nor the occasion when said Helene J. von Schierholz would be justified in withdrawing any of said cash or securities by virtue of the deposit in the joint names of said Wesche and herself has ever arisen. And that the attempt of the Custodian to obtain such funds and securities by virtue of her being so named as joint depositor and the provisions of the agreement with said Commercial Trust Company, if he had the power to exercise the power held by said Helene J. von Schierholz, was a breach of the trust duties assumed by her (upon the assumption of which alone she was named as such joint depositor on the terms stated in such contracts with the said Commercial Trust Company), and in fraud of the rights of this respondent.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that all the foregoing facts relating to the ownership of said property, would have been promptly and fully disclosed to the said A. Mitchell Palmer as Alien Property Custodian, or his representatives, had they or any them either in 1918 or at any other time made due inquiry or investigation into the rights to the said funds and securities so deposited with the Commercial Trust Company, and the sums 185 on deposit with it, or the ownership and tenure thereof; that none of them made any investigation whatever into the ownership or tenure or conditions thereof beyond seeking and obtaining such report from said Commercial Trust Company.

This respondent further alleges that long prior to the commencement of this proceeding and after the enactment of the Act of Congress of June 5th, 1920, to wit on the 1st day of July, 1920, said Frederick Wesche demanded of the said Commercial Trust Company payment to him of all of said balances in the said checking account and said Trust Account so agreed to be paid to him on his demand, and all said securities so deposited with it. That said demand was made in good faith and without any collusion with the said respondent Trust Company. That in making such demand said Frederick Wesche acted as owner of his own part and as such trust agent for this respondent as well as such trust agent for Helene J. von Schierholz and for said Lucy von Uxküll-Gyllenband, charged by them respectively with the duty of holding their said respective securities and cash.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey holds all said funds and securities so belonging to this respondent and owes the moneys so belonging to this respondent hereinbefore set forth as 186 bailee, depositary and debtor of said Frederick Wesche as agent of this respondent and that this respondent is entitled to intervene and be heard in this proceeding pro interesse suo as such individual owner of the cash and securities and individual creditor for the said amounts; and that any order or decree of this Court directing any disposition of such funds or securities so belonging to this respondent, without first giving him his day in court will be contrary to law and to the provisions of the Fourth and Fifth amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

This respondent further alleges on information and belief that no investigation and no determination after investigation of the ownership or holding of the securities and moneys in the hands of the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey hereinbefore described, such as was contemplated by the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act has ever been made by either the former Alien Property Custodian or the present Alien Property Custodian, or any representative of either, and that the present proceeding is an attempt simply to ignore the rights and interests of this respondent to take the private property of this respondent for public use, without just compensation, and to deprive him of his property without due process of law and in violation of the right of this respondent to be secure in his effects against unreasonable seizure, guaranteed by the Fourth Article of Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, 187 and also without warrant issued upon proper cause supported by oath or affirmation and particularly describing the things to be seized. And this respondent calls particular attention to the fact that the Alien Property Custodian in his petition herein, while sedulously alleging that the said A. Mitchell Palmer did investigate and after investigation determine that said Helene J. von Schierholz was in 1918 an enemy of the United States, has wholly, and apparently sedulously avoided alleging that either said Palmer as such Alien Property Custodian or said petitioner, his successor, has ever investigated or determined after investigation that the indebtedness of the Trust Company and the property mentioned in Exhibit A of said Custodian's petition, was by the Trust Company owing to, or belonged to, or was held for, by, on account of, or for the benefit of said Helene von Schierholz.

This respondent on information and belief alleges that Ernest T. Greiner named in the answer of the said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey to the petition herein was at one time an employee of said Frederick Wesche; that said Greiner is not now and has not been so employed at any time by said Wesche for more than six months last past; that said Greiner has neither lien nor color of lien on any of the said funds or securities so in the hands of said Commercial Trust Company, and this respondent prays that if said Greiner be allowed to intervene or answer herein this respondent be 188 permitted to answer any claim said Greiner may make to any of the funds or securities belonging to this respondent, or any matters that he may assert concerning the same.

Wherefore this respondent prays that an examination pro interesse suo into his rights and interests in the property and indebtedness petitioned for by the Custodian be had and the rights and interests of this respondent therein be determined; that the prayer of the petition be denied; that the said Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey be ordered and directed to deliver to this respondent or to his agent Frederick Wesche all the securities and funds so held by it above shown to be the individual property of this respondent and that this respondent have such other and further relief in the premises as may be just.

District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey.

THOMAS W. MILLER, as Alien Property Custodian, Petitioner, against

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, a Corporation,
Respondent.

In the Matter of the Application of THOMAS W. MILLER, as Alien Property Custodian, In re Certain Stocks, Bonds, Securities, and Money Alleged to be Held by This Respondent as the Money and Property of Helene J. von Schierholz, of Thurigen, Germany, an Enemy.

Statement of all Evidence and Proceedings at the Hearing of the Cause.

The above entitled matter came on to be heard at a Stated Term of this Court held, Hon. John Rellstab, District Judge presiding, without a jury, on the 21st day of February, 1921, regularly in its order upon the calendar, upon the petition of the Alien 192 Property Custodian filed September 11th, 1920, and the rule to show cause thereto annexed and the amended answer to said petition of the Commercial Trust Company, filed and served by leave of Court first had and obtained.

Elmer H. Geran, Esq. and D. H. Stanley, Esq. (of Counsel) appearing for the petitioner the Alien Property Custodian.

Fisk and Fisk, and Selden Bacon and J. Fisher Anderson, Esqs. (of Counsel), appearing for the respondent the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey.

And thereupon the following proceedings were had:

Frederick Wesche, by Selden Bacon, Esq., his solicitor and counsel, presented his petition for leave to intervene and his proposed answer to the petition of the Alien Property Custodian, and moved for leave to intervene in the proceeding and file his proposed answer.

Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, by Selden Bacon, Esq., his solicitor and counsel, presented his petition for leave to intervene and his proposed answer to the petition of the Alien Property Custodian, and moved for leave to intervene in the proceeding and file his proposed answer.

Counsel for the Alien Property Custodian opposed each of such motions and the Court took the same under advisement.

The Alien Property Custodian, petitioner, thereupon introduced in evidence and submitted to the Court the original certificate made 193 by the respondent of date the 19th day of December, 1917, of which a true and correct copy is annexed to the original petition herein, and also a letter from the respondent (by its Secretary and Treasurer) to the Alien Property Custodian of date the 4th day of June, 1918, which letter it was conceded by both parties was sent to the then Alien Property Custodian on behalf of the respondent at the time it bears date, and received by said Custodian in due course of mail, which letter read as follows:

"Jersey City, N. J., June 4th, 1918.

"Alien Property Custodian,
Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR:

"We acknowledge receipt of your letter of May 10th, 1918, in the matter of Helene J. von Schierholz, enclosing original and duplicate of demand upon us for securities and money reported to your Department.

"We regret that upon the advice of counsel, we are unable to acknowledge service of this demand or to surrender to you the securities or moneys constituting the fund reported. Our reason for refusing to acknowledge your jurisdiction over this fund is that the securities and money constituting the fund are held under an agreement dated June 30th, 1913, for the account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. von Schierholz, of Plau, Thuringen, Germany, under which agreement certain securities were deposited to be held for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and 194 Helene J. von Schierholz, the interest to become due and payable on said securities to be collected for the joint account of Wesche and von Schierholz and the securities to be delivered when requested to Wesche and von Schierholz or to the survivor.

"Under this deposit agreement Frederick Wesche is entitled, if he makes demand for the same, to the securities and income constituting the trust fund. So far as we know Frederick Wesche is a resident of Paris, France, and not an alien enemy or ally of enemy.

"We have been advised that under these circumstances we would not be legally justified in surrendering these securities and money to you, pursuant to your demand, and that if we did so, we would be subject to action for damages by Wesche for delivering his property.

"We are desirous at all times of doing everything to assist the Government in the segregation of the property of alien enemies, and it is only because of the terms of the agreement under which these securities are held that we refuse to deliver the same.

"We think that if you do not concur in the correctness of our position in this matter you should institute action to test the correctness of the same.

"Report was made of the trust fund above mentioned, even though Wesche is not an alien enemy so far as we know, simply because of the fact that we know Helene J. von Schierholz to be an alien 195 enemy, and for the purpose of protecting our Company against liability for not making such report.

"Enclosed find a copy of the agreement under which we hold the securities and money which you desire us to deliver.

"Yours very truly,

"J. S. PERKINS,
"Sec'y & Treas."

Aside from the submission of said two papers the petitioner introduced no further evidence and rested; and the following colloquy thereupon occurred between the Court and counsel for the respective parties:

"Mr. Bacon: If there is any question about the facts that are set up in the return we want to take testimony and prove it. I don't understand whether counsel takes issue with the statements there made.

The Court: You want to look over that carefully because if I cannot treat this as a pure legal issue you will have to take your testimony.

Mr. Stanley: As far as we are concerned it is to be treated as a pure legal issue.

Mr. Bacon: That is you demur to the answer.

Mr. Stanley: We demur to the answer. You say there was not an investigation; we say there was. I have introduced the trust agreement and the report and the letter of the Commercial Trust Company, and I want to say—

The Court: You know what they have introduced here.

Mr. Bacon: Yes, sir; I don't dispute the existence of those papers. Do you dispute our allegation there was no inquiry made of Mr. Wesche?

Mr. Stanley: I do of Mr. Wesche—oh, as far as Wesche is concerned that has nothing to do with our contention.

The Court: What he wants to know is whether you dispute it.

Mr. Stanley: We don't dispute—

The Court: You say as a matter of law.

Mr. Stanley: He has no bearing on it whatsoever. We will admit Mr. Wesche was not an enemy. We never said he was otherwise.

Mr. Bacon: Practically then except for the proposition as far as you have shown you don't claim there was any further investigation.

Mr. Stanley: No.

The Court: Is this to be transcribed?

Mr. Bacon: I think so.

Mr. Bacon: May I have this settled. As I understand it, the Government does not claim that there was any investigation or determination beyond what is shown by the papers.

Mr. Stanley: Beyond what is shown by the papers and this letter.

The Court: That is in here, isn't it?

197 Mr. Stanley: Yes.

Mr. Bacon: Now, and that except for that, and we don't dispute that that amount was done, and except for that you simply demur to the answer, to the return.

The Court: Do you want a demurrer or do you move to strike out?

Mr. Stanley: Move to strike out.

The Court: You contend, don't you, he has not raised anything at all in the answer?

Mr. Stanley: He says there was no investigation as to anybody. We say there was an investigation as to Von Schierholz. We don't care anything about Wesche. We never made any investigation as to Wesche and never questioned the fact he was not an enemy. I don't see where it comes in in our case at all.

The Court: The only thing is you come in here with a petition and ask for a rule upon them to show cause why this property should not be turned over. If there is anything you think is in issue as a fact you are presumed now to have joined issue on that, and the only thing you have done is to support your contentions as to that issue by the introduction of these two or three documents.

Mr. Stanley: Yes.

The Court: As to the rest you say it is not in issue, so they are presenting an issue which is not in the larger issue.

Mr. Stanley: That is exactly our situation.

198 The Court: You don't combat or want to combat what they have put in evidence.

Mr. Bacon: I don't dispute the facts.

The Court: That the legal effect of that does not mean anything?

Mr. Bacon: Yes, sir. That does not meet our denials but if there is any question of fact beyond that we claim the right to present evidence.

The Court: You must determine whether you want to put in anything.

Mr. Bacon: He has not taken issue with us on the other matters. Unless it is specifically admitted here there was no further investigation, nothing further than what is shown there—

The Court: I don't want to control counsel.

Upon filing of these amended answers, the two answers standing, everything that you have not contraverted by the introduction of these documents you admit to be facts but you contend upon these facts there is no legal answer to your claim.

Mr. Stanley: That is it.

The Court: So that everything you put in your answer except what may be controverted by these documents is admitted as facts in the case.

Mr. Bacon: All right, sir.

The Court: That is where you stand.

Mr. Stanley: Yes, sir."

199 The Commercial Trust Company thereupon rested; and after argument the matter was submitted on such motions and such papers and facts.

The Court thereupon fixed a day for the filing of briefs by the petitioner and respondent, which were duly submitted, to wit, on the 15th day of March 1921.

Thereafter, and on the 22nd day of October, 1921, the Court filed its opinion on the applications for leave to intervene, and its opinion on the application of the Alien Property Custodian under his said Rule to Show Cause.

Thereafter, at a Stated Term of the Court, on the 16th day of January, 1922, Hon. John Reilstab presiding without a jury, the matter came on for further hearing on suggestion of the succession in office of Thomas W. Miller to the original petitioner Francis P. Garvan as Alien Property Custodian, and upon application of the said Miller for final decrees, on said several applications, of the Custodian and of the petitioners for intervention.

Frederick M. P. Pearce, Esq., appearing for the Custodian.
Selden Bacon, Esq., appearing as counsel for the Commercial Trust Company, and as solicitor and counsel for Messrs. Wesche and Ahrenfeldt.

Over the objection of the respondent and of the petitioners for intervention that by reason of the termination of the war the jurisdiction of the Court in this proceeding had terminated, the suggestion of the succession of Mr. Miller not being controverted, order was entered substituting said Thomas W. Miller as Alien Property Custodian in place and stead of Francis P. Garvan as Alien Property Custodian.

It was then urged by Counsel for the Commercial Trust Company and for the petitioners for intervention that the adoption of the joint Peace Resolution of July 2nd, 1921, by both Houses of Congress and its signature by the President and filing with the Secretary of State, and the making and ratification of the treaty with Germany of August 25th, 1921 and exchange of ratifications thereof had and the passage of the Act of Congress of February 27th, 1921, altered the situation since the original hearing and since the filing of the Court's opinions, and that the Custodian was no longer entitled to the relief sought by him, whatever his previous rights had been.

The Court overruled all objections. It then signed the order denying the motion of the Alien Property Custodian to strike out the amended answer of the Commercial Trust Company, and thereupon entered its several orders and decrees, as follows:

On January 16th, 1922, its order and decree denying the petition of said Wesche for leave to intervene, and its order and decree denying the petition of said Ahrenfeldt for leave to intervene, as more fully thereby appears;

On January 19th, 1922, its final decree granting the petition of the Alien Property Custodian for relief as prayed for by the Alien Property Custodian against said Commercial Trust Company (except as to changes in securities and amounts of money in the possession of said Trust Company as shown by its said amended answer), as more fully appears by said decree.

The foregoing is hereby settled by me as a full statement of all the evidence introduced and proceedings had at the hearing of this case.

Memorandum.

RELLSTAB, District Judge:

At the time of the hearing of the rule to show cause granted in the above-entitled suit, Charles J. Ahrenfeldt and Frederick Wesche, the latter named with Helene J. von Schierholz in the trust agreement involved in such proceeding, presented their petitions for leave to intervene in said cause, praying on examination pro interesse suo to ascertain the interests and rights of each of them in the 203 property covered by said agreement. Ahrenfeldt alleged that he was a separate and individual owner of a large part of said property. Wesche alleged that he was bailor and principal of the Commercial Trust Company, defendant herein; a separate beneficial owner of a large part of the securities and moneys held by said Trust Company under said agreement; and agent charged with the custody of said properties of his several principals, the said Charles J. Ahrenfeldt and Helene J. von Schierholz, and also of one Lucy von Uxküll Gyllenband. In the decision of the main case (opinion filed this day) it is held that under said trust agreement either Mrs. von Schierholz or Wesche could demand the possession of the properties therein covered and that inasmuch as Mrs. von Schierholz was an enemy within the meaning and purpose of the Trading with the Enemy Act, it was the duty of the Trust Company to comply with the demands of the Alien Property Custodian and turn over such property to him, and that the question of other persons' ownership or interest in said properties was irrelevant in such possessory proceedings.

The questions sought to be litigated by Wesche and Ahrenfeldt can be raised only after the demands of the Alien Property Custodian have been complied with, and by instituting the proceedings authorized by section 9 of the Act, as amended June 5, 1920. Their petitions to intervene in the present proceedings are denied.

RELLSTAB, District Judge:

This is a suit to enforce demands made by the Alien Property Custodian under the Trading with the Enemy Act (Oct. 6, 1917, 40 Stat. 411), for delivery to him of certain securities and 205 moneys held by the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey as trustee and for the joint account of Helene J. von Schierholz and Frederick Wesche, the former having been determined to be an enemy not holding a license from the President.

In the Custodian's petition it is alleged, inter alia, that: on or about December 19, 1917, the Trust Company, acting in compliance with the terms of the Trading with the Enemy Act and the Executive Orders issued thereunder, reported in writing to the Custodian's predecessor in office that it held in trust certain specified securities and cash for the joint account of Frederick Wesche of France and Helene J. von Schierholz of Germany, under a certain agreement, which reads:

"Received, Jersey City, January 30, 1913, for the account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. v. Schierholz, of Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, the bonds particularly set out in the schedule or list hereto annexed, and having a par value of five hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars ($524,000) to be held for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz, and to collect the interest to become due and payable on said bonds for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz and to deliver over said bonds from time to time as requested, to the said Frederick Wesche, or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them, it being understood that the said bonds and the said interest money 206 to be collected thereon are to be held and collected and delivered or paid over to either the said Frederick Wesche or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them. Upon all interest moneys collected on said bonds there is to be retained by the undersigned for its services in the premises 2% of the amount so collected; this receipt is executed in triplicate.

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY,

By J. W. HARDENBERGH,
President.

[SEAL.] WM. J. FIELD,
Secretary.

"The deposit of the bonds with the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey and the terms upon which said Trust Company is to hold and deliver over the said bonds and to collect and pay over the interest thereon as set forth in the above receipt is hereby ratified and confirmed.

Dated February —, 1913.

FR. WESCHE.
 HELENE J. v. SCHIERHOLZ";

that on or about June 19, 1918, petitioner's predecessor in office, acting under the authority of said Act and Executive Orders, after investigation, determined that said Mrs. von Schierholz was an enemy within the meaning of said Act, and thereafter demanded the Trust Company to deliver to him all said securities and cash so held in trust; that on or about March 28, 1919, the Trust Company 207 reported to the petitioner that it held, for the benefit of Wesche and Schierholz, additional sums of money designated respectively as "checking account" and "trust account"; that on or about the last named date the petitioner, acting under said Act and Executive Orders, further demanded the Trust Company to deliver to him the said cash moneys and certain securities therein described.

In these demands (copies of which were annexed to the petition and made a part thereof), it is recited that they are made pursuant to the authority vested in the Alien Property Custodian by the Tradg with the Enemy Act and the amendments thereto and the proclamations and executive orders issued thereunder, and that after investigation the Custodian determined that the said Mrs. von Schierholz was an enemy within the purview and meaning of the said Act, not holding a license granted by the President. The later of the two demands, dated March 28, 1919, declared that the therein described securities and income accrued and collected thereon were by the Trust Company "owing and held for, on account of, on behalf of and for the benefit" of the said Mrs. von Schierholz, and that the Custodian seized the same and required that the securities be conveyed to him, and that the cash therein specified be delivered to him, both securities and cash to be held by him as such Custodian, to be administered and accounted for by him as provided by law.

The petitioner further alleged that by virtue of said determinations and demands made by petitioner and his predecessor in office, petitioner, as Custodian, was vested with all the beneficial interest in said moneys and other properties, and that by virtue of said Act and Executive Orders and the facts alleged in the petition, he was the only person entitled to the said moneys and property, but that the Trust Company refused, and continues to refuse, to recognize his authority as Custodian, and refuses to deliver said money or property to him.

On the filing of such petition a rule was issued, requiring the Trust Company to turn over such moneys and properties to the petitioner, or show cause why an order should not be made requiring it to do so. On the hearing of this rule the Trust Company appeared and filed its answer, setting up a number of grounds for refusing to obey such demands. These may be grouped under two heads: First, that the Alien Property Custodian has not shown that he has complied with the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, so as to entitle him to the possession of these properties; and second, that having appealed to a court of equity to enforce his demands, that court will determine the question of title or interest in such properties, and award possession to the Custodian only of such properties as belong to or are held for the benefit of any enemy.

Section 5(a) of the Act provides that "The President may exercise any power or authority conferred by this act through such officer or officers as he shall direct." Section 6 authorizes him to appoint an Alien Property Custodian who is "empowered to receive all money and property in the United States due or belonging to an enemy." By Executive Order of October 12, 1917, the President vested in the Alien Property Custodian, an officer appointed under the Act, "the executive administration of all the provisions of section 7(a), section 7(c) and section 7(d)" of the Act "including the power and authority conferred upon the President by the provisions of section 7(c)." By Executive Order of December 3, 1918, the President vested in such Custodian "the executive administration of all of the provisions of sub-section (c) of section 7" of the Act as amended by the Act of November 4, 1918.

The Custodian's demands upon the Trust Company were made under section 7(c) of the Act, the later demand after such subsection had been amended. As amended this subsection, so far as pertinent to the present inquiry, reads:

"(c) If the President shall so require any money or other property including * * * choses in action, and rights and claims of every character and description owing or belonging to or held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of, an enemy or ally of enemy not holding a license granted by the President hereunder, which the President after investigation shall determine is so owing or so belongs or is so held, shall be conveyed, transferred, assigned, delivered, or paid over to the Alien Property Custodian, or the same may be seized by the Alien Property Custodian; and all property thus acquired shall be held, administered, and disposed of as elsewhere provided in this Act."

210 Section 7 (c) provides:

"No person shall be held liable in any court for or in respect to anything done or omitted in pursuance of any order, rule, or regulation made by the President under the authority of this Act."

By these excerpts it is manifest that the Custodian, as the representative of the President, had ample authority to determine, after investigation, whether property was held for or on behalf of an enemy, and to insist that such property be turned over to him, if held for an enemy. Stoehr v. Garvan, U. S. (decided Feb. 28, 1921). And the Trust Company will be fully protected on a compliance with the Custodian's demands. Garvan v. Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. of America, — Fed. — (decided by this Court on Sept. 20, 1921), and cases therein cited. However, while the making of such determinations and demands with reference to the properties in question is not disputed, it is insisted that the preliminary investigation required by the Act was not made. But this challenge is met by the positive assertion in the determinations and demands that investigation was made. This precludes any further inquiry in proceedings like the present, instituted under Section 17 of the Act, which are merely possessory. Central Union Trust Co. of N. Y. v. Garvan, — U. S. — (decided Jan. 24, 1921); Stoehr v. Garvan, supra.

The Trust Company also claims that at most but a part of this property is owned by Mrs. von Schierholz, and that a proper 211 investigation would have revealed that fact. Under the trust agreement herein set out the Trust Company held the securities therein referred to and the interest money to be derived therefrom, in trust "for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. von Schierholz," and it was obligated to deliver or pay over such securities and interest "to either the said Frederick Wesche or to the said Helene J. von Schierholz, or to the survivor of them." So far as the Trust Company was concerned, it made no difference what were the relative rights of the cestuis que trustent in and to these moneys and securities. It was bound to deliver them to either on demand. This being so, if either of these persons was an enemy within the meaning of the Trading with the Enemy Act, the Alien Property Custodian, by taking the requisite steps under the Act, which he did, would be substituted in the place of the enemy, and entitled to demand and recover the trust fund. By section 2 of this Act "any individual * * * of any nationality resident within the territory * * * of any nation with which the United States is at war" is an enemy within the meaning and purpose of the Act. This definition embraces Mrs. von Schierholz, for she was a resident of Germany which, at the time of the determinations and demands, was enemy territory.

The Trust Company conceded it is but a trustee of these properties. Its contractual obligation to its cestuis que trustent was superseded by the duty cast upon it by the Trading with the Enemy Act. On the demands made by the Custodian it was its duty to comply with them in every particular.

212 The question whether Wesche, or any other person other than Mrs. von Schierholz, has any title or interest in these moneys and securities, can be raised only by filing a claim and instituting the proceedings as provided by section 9 of the Act. Stoher v. Garvan, supra. American Exchange National Bank v. Garvan (C. C. A. 2), 273 F. 43. This section, as amended June 5, 1920 (long before the present suit was brought) amply protects the rights of claimants to properties taken over by the Alien Property Custodian, and a determination of such rights has no place in the present proceedings which, as noted, are purely possessory in character.

In the instant case the Trust Company's report to the Custodian showed that Mrs. von Schierholz was a resident of enemy territory, and that under the trust agreement she had a right to demand of the Trust Company that the moneys and securities in question be turned over to her. On that report alone the Custodian could justly determine that the properties were held for an enemy. Having so determined, his right to secure them can not be resisted or questioned by the Trust Company. This conclusion renders it unnecessary to consider any of the other grounds stated in the answer or briefs.

The rule is made absolute.

Assignments of Error of Appellant.

United States District Court, District of New Jersey.

THOMAS W. MILLER, as Alien Property Custodian, Petitioner, againstCOMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, a Corporation, Respondent.Assignments of Error by the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey.

The above named respondent and petitioner for leave to appeal hereby assigns the following errors as grounds for its appeal in the above entitled matter:

1. The Court erred in making the order and decree appealed from directing this respondent to forthwith account for, convey, transfer, assign, deliver and pay to Thomas W. Miller as Alien Property Custodian the money and other property described and set forth in the petition herein and in the amended answer, with any accretions thereon or changes therein.

2. The Court erred in making the order and decree appealed from for such order and decree is in conflict with the provisions of the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting unreasonable seizures and prohibiting deprivation of property without due process of law and prohibiting the taking of private property for public use without just compensation and is not within the provisions of any rules authorized to be made by Congress concerning captures on land or water by the provisions of Section 7 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

3. The Court erred in overruling this respondent's objections to the demand, Exhibit B of the petition, that it turn over to the Custodian the property therein described.

4. The Court erred in overruling this respondent's objections to the demand, Exhibit C of the petition, that it turn over to the Custodian the property therein described.

5. The Court erred in holding that the statement in the demand, Exhibit B of the petition, that the Custodian Palmer had determined the ownership of the property in question after investigation, precluded inquiry in the present proceeding as to whether the investigation required by law had been made by the Custodian prior to such determination.

6. The Court erred in holding that the statement in the demand, Exhibit C of the petition, that the Custodian Garvan had determined the ownership of the property in question after investigation, precluded inquiry in the present proceeding as to whether the investigation required by law had been made by the Custodian prior to such determination.

7. The Court erred in holding that the annexing of the document Exhibit B to the petition of the Custodian was equivalent to an allegation that the Custodian had determined the ownership of the property in that document described after investigation.

8. The Court erred in holding that the annexing of the document Exhibit C to the petition of the Custodian was equivalent to an allegation that the Custodian had determined the ownership of the property in that document described after investigation.

9. The Court erred in holding that an admission that the manner of deposit with this respondent of the property in question, when it was admitted that severable parts thereof were not and had not been owned by an enemy or ally of enemy was equivalent to a determination of ownership thereof by the Custodian after investigation, and could take the place thereof.

10. The Court erred in holding that the present proceeding is merely possessory in character.

11. The Court erred in holding that the making of the determination specified in Exhibit B was not disputed.

12. The Court erred in holding that the making of the determination specified in Exhibit C was not disputed.

13. The Court erred in holding that the statement in Exhibit B that investigation of the ownership of the property was made before determination thereof adequately met the admission made in open court of the allegations concerning such determination and investigation contained in the amended answer.

14. The Court erred in holding that the statement in Exhibit C that investigation of the ownership of the property was made before determination thereof adequately met the admission made in open court of the allegations concerning such determination and investigation contained in the amended answer.

15. The Court erred in holding that the Alien Property Custodian could lawfully in this proceeding assert greater rights over the property in question in the right of Mrs. von Schierholz than Mrs. von Schierholz could lawfully have done in the absence of war, in her own right.

16. The Court erred in holding that the property of persons other than enemies is the subject of capture, when not in actual hostile use against the United States, or within a region where active hostilities are being conducted.

17. The Court erred in holding that property, several identifiable parts of which were owned by citizens or neutrals in severalty, and only a severable part by enemies, was subject to capture as a single item of property.
18. The Court erred in holding that a deposit of property, made before the war was declared in the joint names of an enemy and a neutral, with stated power to either to withdraw it, was subject to capture, by virtue of that fact alone, as enemy property in its entirety, irrespective of the actual ownership of the several parts thereof, and of the several individual personal ownership by such neutral of a several part thereof, without prior investigation of the actual ownership by the Custodian.
19. The Court erred in holding that where personal property had been deposited with a bailee, under an ante-bellum contract running between an enemy and a neutral with express power to either to withdraw the property from deposit, such fact alone after the declaration of war, irrespective of notice of the real ownership of the property by persons not enemies, justified a determination that the property was held for an enemy.
20. The Court erred in holding that on the report alone Exhibit of the petition, the Alien Property Custodian could justly determine that the properties in question were all held for an enemy, without other investigation.
21. The Court erred in holding that an amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act, enacted by Congress subsequent to the making of both the demands set up in the petition, as Exhibits B and C thereof, could cure a constitutional invalidity of the Trading with the Enemy Act as it existed at the time the said demands severally were made, and validate such prior demands and pretended determinations, without a new determination and demand made by the Alien Property Custodian according to law after the passage of such amendment; and in holding that such amendment could constitutionally have such effect in spite of the provisions of the V Amendment to the United States Constitution.
22. The Court erred in holding that after the declaration of war by the United States on April 6, 1917, the Trust Company had any power or authority to deliver the property in question (other than so much thereof as was individually owned by her) to Helene von Schierholz by virtue of the terms of the agreement of deposit.
23. The Court erred in holding that the Trust Company's report showed that under the trust agreement Mrs. von Schierholz at any time after April 6, 1917, had a right to demand of the Trust Company that the moneys or securities in question or any thereof be turned over to her, other than such as were her individual several property.

24. The Court erred in holding that a determination of ownership of property by the Custodian, made without evidence to support it, with notice that it was contrary to the real ownership, 232 with notice where exact evidence of the ownership could be obtained, and made without inquiry and without investigation of the real ownership, and in fraud of the rights of the real owner, prevents any resistance to or questioning of such determination in a court of equity by such owner or his bailee in possession of the property when the Custodian appeals to such a court for its aid in securing delivery of the property to him.

25. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity should order property turned over to the Alien Property Custodian that he on the conceded facts had no lawful right to hold.

26. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity should order the property in question, or any thereof, turned over to the Alien Property Custodian as the property of Mrs. von Schierholz, when he was by law required to return to her any property of hers seized by him, even without prior application by her, under and by virtue of the provisions of Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, Subdivisions b) 3 and b) 8 as amended by the Acts of Congress of June 5, 1920 and February 27th, 1921, she having admittedly been born a citizen of the United States, and having lost her citizenship solely by her marriage to a German subject prior to 1914, and having derived whatever rights of ownership she had in the property from her father, an American citizen, and having acquired whatever rights or powers or interests she had therein long prior to August 1st, 1914.

233 27. The Court erred in refusing to consider any of the objections specified in and by the amended answer of the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey other than those mentioned in its opinion.

28. The Court erred refusing to find that at the time of each of the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibits B and C thereof respectively the provisions of Section 7 of the Trading with the Enemy Act were unconstitutional and invalid so far as they authorized the seizure by the Custodian of property of American citizens not resident in any Judicial District of the United States and not enemies, or of neutrals not resident within any judicial district of the United States, such as Charles J. Ahrenfeldt and Frederick Wesche were respectively admitted to be.

29. The Court erred in refusing to hold the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibit B thereof void, as not constituting due process of law.

30. The Court erred in refusing to hold the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibit C thereof void, as not constituting due process of law.

30-a. The Court erred in failing to hold the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, authorizing seizure by the Alien Property Custodian of money or property not belonging to enemies or allies of enemies and aid of the Courts in securing delivery of such property to him, unconstitutional in the absence of provision for payment of either interest or damages for the period of detention of such property before return.

234 31. The Court erred in holding that amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act in July 1919 after the demands made and after any pretended determination of ownership of the property in question (whether with or without prior investigation) but prior to the institution of this equity proceeding could constitutionally cure any invalidity in those demands and pretended determinations, and bar all inquiry by a Court of Equity, upon the petition of the Custodian herein filed, into the real ownership of the property, and conclusively require and authorize award of the possession of the property in question to the Alien Property Custodian on the petition herein, which contains no allegation of any determination of the ownership by the Alien Property Custodian subsequent to the enactment of such amendment, and especially when the Alien Property Custodian admitted in open Court upon the hearing that all the allegations of the amended answer as to the ownership of the property were true.

32. The Court erred in holding that the Trust Company would be fully protected on a compliance with the Custodian's demands, Exhibits B and C of the original petition herein.

33. The Court erred in holding that the question whether Wesche or any other person other than Mrs. von Schierholz has any title or interest in these moneys or securities can be raised only by filing a claim and instituting proceedings as provided by Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act.

235 34. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity cannot, in a proceeding like the present, consider the rights of those against whom relief is sought as a condition of granting relief to the petitioner.

35. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity can entertain a purely possessory proceeding without regard to the equities and rights of the parties before it.

36. The Court erred in holding that the Alien Property Custodian did not, by applying to a Court of Equity for relief, waive the right to obtain possessory award otherwise than upon equitable considerations and conditions.

37. The Court erred in failing to hold that the admission on the record of the truth of the allegations of the amended answer as to the ownership of the property therein mentioned was the first determination of the ownership thereof made by any Enemy Property Custodian after investigation.

38. The Court erred in failing to hold that the admission by the Alien Property Custodian made in open court that the property in question all was and had been owned as stated in the amended answer herein, was a determination by the Alien Property Custodian, made after investigation, which superseded all prior pretended determinations by the Custodians or either of them.

39. The Court erred in holding that the petitioner is entitled to relief from this equity court without meeting the requirements of equity as to doing equity.

40. The Court erred in holding that it would direct a delivery to the Custodian as successor to the right of Mrs. von Schierholz, which it would have been a breach of trust for her to demand.

41. The Court erred in failing to hold that the petitioner (by petitioning in equity and proceeding by order that the respondent show cause if any there be why the property should not be turned over and assigned to the Custodian, and by omitting from his petition any allegations that he had, after investigation thereof, determined the ownership of the property in question) had sought a determination by the Court of the ownership of the property after its hearing the evidence concerning such ownership, and had given to the respondent the right to present the evidence of real ownership and to have a determination by the Court accordingly.

42. The Court erred in holding that the relief given by it to the Alien Property Custodian was not in conflict with the provisions of the V Amendment to the Constitution providing that no person shall be deprived of property without due process of law.

43. The Court erred in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act, in so far as it authorized seizure of private property not in use in hostility to the United States and not within any area of actual hostilities, belonging to persons not enemies of the United States, but who did not reside in any judicial district of the United States, was, prior to July 11th, 1919, constitutional and valid.

44. The Court erred in holding that it would give assistance to the Alien Property Custodian by requiring any property to be turned over to him as the property of Mrs. von Schierholz at a time when surrender to her by him, even without prior application by her, of all property belonging to her, was provided for by law.

45. The Court erred in failing to hold that the petitioner had not alleged that any determination of the ownership of the property had been made by either Alien Property Custodian after investigation.

46. The Court erred in holding the petition sufficient to entitle the petitioner to relief otherwise than in accordance with the actual ownership of the property, as alleged in the amended answer and admitted on the hearing, when the petition contained no allegation that either Custodian had, after investigation, determined the ownership to be otherwise.

47. The Court erred in holding that the owners of parts of the property in question who were not enemies, Mr. Ahren-feldt and Mr. Wesche could be deprived of their property without due process of law.

48. The Court erred in holding that the demand of the Alien Property Custodian Palmer, Exhibit B of the original petition, constituted due process of law.

49. The Court erred in holding that the demand of the Alien Property Custodian Garvan, Exhibit C of the original petition, constituted due process of law.

50. The Court erred in holding that a purely possessory proceeding could be maintained by the Alien Property Custodian under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and the amendments thereof to obtain possession of property not actually belonging to an enemy or ally of enemy and not in use in hostility to the United States in the absence of an actual determination (after investigation) by the Custodian, authorized by law at the time it was made, of the ownership of such property, on the ground that the Custodian might have made such a determination on the papers submitted to him.

51. The Court erred in holding that the Custodian could dispense with the duty of investigation, before determination by him of ownership of property under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act so construed was constitutional in so far as it authorized capture of property not owned by an enemy or ally of enemy and not in actual hostile use against the United States or within a region where hostilities were being actively conducted, and that it was not so construed, in such cases in conflict with the provisions of either the IV or V Amendments to the United States Constitution.

52. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity was bound to exercise its special powers in favor of the Alien Property Custodian without regard to the real and equitable rights of this respondent and those whose rights it here represented.

53. The Court erred in holding constitutional and valid the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act which authorize seizure by the Custodian of private property belonging to persons not enemies or allies of enemies and which was not in actual military use against the United States or within any area of actual hostilities.

54. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian of any property admittedly belonging at all times after January 1st, 1914, to Frederick Wesche, who was admittedly never an enemy.

55. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian of any property admittedly belonging at all times after January 1st, 1914, to Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, who was admittedly never an enemy.

56. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian in this proceedings of any property which was admittedly not the property of Helene J. von Schierholz and had not been.

57. The Court erred in holding that the demand Exhibit B of the petition was a lawful exercise of the right of capture under Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

58. The Court erred in holding that the demand Exhibit C of the petition was a lawful exercise of the right of capture under Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

59. The Court erred in holding that the provisions of Section 7 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, prior to the amendment of July 11th 1919, were, so far as they authorized the seizure or capture of property belonging to persons not enemies or allies of enemies of the United States and not resident within any judicial district of the United States, a valid exercise of the power "to make rules concerning captures on land and water" conferred by Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States, and not in conflict with the prohibitions contained in the IV and V Amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

60. The Court erred in holding that the Act of Congress of July 11th 1919, could constitutionally (and in disregard of the V Amendment of the Constitution of the United States) operate, retro-actively, to validate provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act of October 6th, 1917, unconstitutional when adopted, as of a time prior to the enactment of such amendment and to validate acts attempted to be done under such unconstitutional provisions prior to the enactment of such Act of July 11th, 1919.

61. The Court erred in holding that the right of capture, in the case of property owned in severalty, part by one not an enemy or ally of enemy of the United States, and part by an enemy, could extend beyond the part or share belonging to the enemy.

62. The Court erred in holding the Trading with the Enemy Act constitutional in so far as it permitted capture of property on land not belonging to an enemy or ally of enemy, and not in use against the United States, and not within any region in which hostilities were being actively conducted.

63. The Court erred in ruling that after April 6th, 1917, under the trust agreement either Mrs. von Schierholz or Mr. Wesche could demand the possession of the properties therein covered.

242 64. The Court erred in holding that it was the duty of the Trust Company to comply with the demands of the Alien Property Custodian and turn over all the property demanded to him.

65. The Court erred in holding that the question of other persons' ownership or interest in the properties demanded was irrelevant in this proceeding.

66. The Court erred in holding that the questions arising out of the various rights in and to the property can be raised only after the demands of the Alien Property Custodian have been complied with, and by instituting proceedings authorized by Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act as amended.

67. The Court erred in awarding custody of the property or any thereof as the property of Helene von Schierholz to the Alien Property Custodian after the enactment of the Act of Congress of February 27th, 1921, amending the Trading with the Enemy Act.

68. The Court erred in holding that, after the passage of the joint resolution of Congress declaring the state of war between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America at an end and its approval and signature by the President of the United States on July 2nd, 1921, the Enemy Property Custodian had any power, right or authority to reduce to his possession as such 243 Custodian by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act and any amendments thereof, any property previously demanded by him as that of Germans, but not actually previously delivered into his possession as such Custodian, other than property actually belonging to the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors or to German Nationals.

69. The Court erred in holding that after the signature and ratification of the treaty with Germany of date August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications thereof between the two governments, the Enemy Property Custodian had any power, right or authority to reduce to his possession as such Custodian, by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act and any amendments thereof, any property previously demanded by him as that of Germans, but not actually previously delivered into his possession as such Custodian, other than property actually belonging to the Imperial German Government, its successor or successors, or to German Nationals.

70. The Court erred in failing to hold that, after the passage of the joint resolution of Congress declaring the State of War between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America at an end and its approval and signature by the President of the United States on July 2nd, 1921, and the proclamation of peace by the President of the United States, and the signature and ratification of the treaty of peace between the United States and Germany of date August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications of 244 such treaty, the Alien Property Custodian could not by virtue of determination of enemy ownership of property by him and demand thereof accordingly maintain any possessory proceeding by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the amendments thereof, to reduce to his possession as Alien Property Custodian any property, so previously demanded by him as property of German enemies of the United States, unless such property had actually belonged either to the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, or to German Nationals.

71. The Court erred in failing to hold that upon the termination of the war all right of capture under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and all right of completing capture attempted by demand of the property but not theretofore completed by actual reduction of the property to possession by the Custodian ceased and determined, save and except only as to such property as was specifically excepted by the terms of the peace resolution of July 2nd, 1921 and by those of the treaty of peace with Germany of August 25th, 1921, namely, all property of the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, and of all German Nationals which had been the subject of a demand, and all property of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian government or its successor or successors and of all Austro-Hungarian Nationals, which had been the subject of such demand; and in failing to hold that, it appearing that part of the property herein sought to be recovered was 245 not of such excepted character, no possession could be herein awarded to the Custodian of such property which did not and had not belonged to said Governments or any of them or to German or Austro-Hungarian Nationals.

72. The Court erred in refusing to hold that the amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act by the Act of July 11th, 1919 (as construed by it, as validating determinations and demands made by the Custodian prior to the enactment of such amendment as to which the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act as previously existent were unconstitutional) was invalid and unconstitutional, as in conflict respectively with the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, to wit, those of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, forbidding that any person be deprived of property without due process of law, and those forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation and in conflict with the provisions of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding unreasonable seizures.

73. The Court erred in holding that this proceeding was a possessory one, when the demands Exhibits A and B of the original petition were both void because made under a statute which was unconstitutional at the time they were made, as to the owners of parts of the property involved, to wit, Frederick Wesche a neutral resident at all times since 1914 in Switzerland and Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, an American citizen resident, at the times when said
246 demands were each made and since, outside of the United States in London, England and in Switzerland, providing for seizure of property of persons not enemies without due process of law.

74. The Court erred in holding that a capture by the Custodian was completely effected of the property here in question before the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of peace, by the demands shown and the institution of this proceeding, without the actual reduction to his possession of the property or any part thereof.

75. The Court erred in holding that the stipulation in the treaty of August 25th, 1921, between the United States and Germany according to the United States the benefit of the provision in the joint resolution of Congress of July 2, 1921, that all property of all German Nationals which had been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or of any of its officers, agents or employees should be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made except as specifically provided by law, was (as construed by the Court as applicable to property of individual German Nationals, which had been merely made the subject of a demand or demands by the Alien Property Custodian without actual reduction to possession or physical capture) constitutional and valid and not within the prohibitions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

247 76. The Court erred in holding that the Joint Resolution of Congress of July 2d, 1921, in so far as it authorized completion of uncompleted captures of private property after the conclusion of peace and the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of August 25th, 1921, was constitutional and valid and not within the provisions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding that any person shall be deprived of his property without due process of law, and forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation.

77. The Court erred in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the Amendments thereof, the Joint Resolution of Congress of July 2d, 1921, the Proclamation of Peace by the President of the United States, and the treaty of August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications thereof, all and severally, were constitutional and not within the prohibitions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation, and forbidding that any person should be deprived of his property without due process of law, as the same were construed by the Court as authorizing completion (as against individual owners), after the conclusion of peace, of captures by the Custodian of private property individually owned, not previously reduced to actual possession by him.

248 78. The Court erred in assisting a capture of individually owned private property by the Custodian after the conclusion of peace.

79. The Court erred in assisting a capture of individual private property, belonging to an American citizen, by the Custodian, after the conclusion of peace.

80. The Court erred in holding that after the conclusion of the treaty of peace the Alien Property Custodian was authorized to prosecute any proceeding for the purpose of reducing to his possession property not actually so reduced to possession prior to the conclusion of peace.

81. The Court erred in holding that it had any jurisdiction to entertain a purely possessory proceeding by the Custodian after the conclusion of peace.

82. The Court erred in not denying the petition of the Custodian.

83. The Court erred in failing to hold that the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act authorizing purely possessory proceedings by the Alien Property Custodian to recover possession of property which he had required to be delivered to him as 249 enemy property, had become unconstitutional with the termination of the war.

281 In the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, March Term, 1922.

No. 2842.

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, Respondent-Appellant,

THOMAS W. MILLER, as Alien Property Custodian, Petitioner-Appellee.

On Appeal from the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey.

Before Buffington, Woolley, and Davis, Circuit Judges.

WOOLLEY, Circuit Judge:

This is a suit brought by the Alien Property Custodian under the Trading with the Enemy Act, October 6, 1917, c. 106, S. 17, 40 Stat. 411, 425, to obtain possession of securities and money belonging to an alien enemy in the hands of the Central Trust Company of New Jersey, as trustee.

The Trust Company, in compliance with the provisions of the Act, made a report in December 1917 that it held stocks, bonds, mortgages, securities and money, of the value of about $600,000, in trust, as to both principal and interest, for the joint account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. von Schierholz, of Plaue, Germany, to be delivered and paid to either upon his or her sole demand, or to the survivor.

282 Upon investigation the Alien Property Custodian determined that Wesche was a neutral and von Schierholz an alien enemy not holding a license from the President, and demanded surrender of the securities. Because the neutral had power upon his sole order to withdraw the whole property, the Trust Company thought the Alien Property Custodian had no right to it and accordingly declined to yield possession. Because the alien enemy had like power upon her sole order to withdraw the whole property and acquire its possession, the Alien Property Custodian thought he had a right to it and accordingly demanded it. The question is, which was right?

The District Court entered a decree for the Alien Property Custodian and the Trust Company took this appeal.

Although the appellant filed eighty-three assignments of error, raising seventy-one questions, we are of opinion that the appellant brings here for review but the one question we have stated. This question, admittedly, has several phases, the most of which we think have already been decided by the Supreme Court in Central Union Trust Co. vs. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554 and Stoeckr vs. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239. In this case, as was done in the cases cited, the appellant attacks the proceeding as one purely possessory in character and challenges the constitutionality of the Trading with the Enemy Act. Again in this case, as happened in the others, the appellant claims the right to have property interests judicially determined by a court of equity before a right to the possession of the property can be asserted by the Alien Property Custodian. Differing from the cases cited, the appellant here maintains, as a matter of fact, that there was no investigation and determination by the Alien Property Custodian that von Schierholz was an alien enemy, and, whether or not there was such an investigation and determination, it maintains, as a matter of law, that the Trading with the Enemy Act ceased to be operative after armistice on November 11, 1918, or after the Peace Resolution passed by the Congress on July 2, 1921, or finally after the exchange of ratifications of the Treaty with Germany of August 25, 1921. Relying upon the two cases cited, it is clear the Supreme Court has decided that the Trading with the Enemy Act, whether taken as originally enacted, October 6, 1917, c. 106, 40 Stat. 411, or as since amended, March 28, 1918, c. 28, 40 Stat. 459, 460; November 4, 1918, c. 201, 40 Stat. 1020; July 11, 1919, c. 6, 41 Stat. 35; June 5, 1920, c. 241, 41 Stat. 977, is strictly a war measure, finding its sanction in the constitutional provision, Art. 1, s. 8, cl. 11, empowering the Congress "to declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning capture on land and water." Brown v. United States, 8 Cranch, 110, 126; Miller v. United States, 11 Wall., 268, 305. Under these broad powers, the Act providing for seizure and sequestration through executive channels of property "believed" to be enemy-owned has been held constitutional because of the adequate provisions made by the Act for a return of the property in case of mistake; and because of these provisions—which fully meet the due process of law guarantee—the Supreme Court has held that enemy ownership need not be judicially determined before the property can be seized. The action by the Alien Property Custodian brought in a District Court to enforce his demand for property, which after investigation he has determined to be enemy-owned, is held, therefore, to be a purely possessory action, leaving the party claiming title to a subsequent suit. Grant Timber & Mfg. Co. vs. Gray, 236 U. S. 133. We find no irregular or insufficient action on the part of the Alien Property Custodian in the demand, investigation and determination prescribed by the Act and agree with the District Court that, the property in question being held for the joint account of a neutral and an alien enemy, and being in our aspect under the sole control of the alien enemy as to its withdrawal, possession and disposition, it was properly regarded, in this initial proceeding, as enemy-owned property liable to seizure by the Alien Property Custodian. Therefore, neither for itself as trustee nor for either cestui que trust was the Trust Company justified in withholding a delivery of the property under the Act as it was passed and amended. Nor do we think that the Act as passed and amended has been repealed or otherwise affected by the armistice, the Peace Resolution of Congress, or the Treaty with Germany. While hostilities ceased and peace was re-established by some one of these events, the Act, not containing self-limiting terms and not being expressly repealed, remains the law. The decree of the District Court by which the law, as applied to this case, is enforced, must therefore be Affirmed.

285 United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, Appellant, against

THOMAS W. MILLER, as Alien Property Custodian, Appellee.

Assignment of Errors.

The appellant in the above entitled cause, in connection with its petition for appeal herein, presents and files therewith its assignment of errors, as to which matters and things it says that the decree entered herein on the 1st day of August, 1922, is erroneous and that it will urge the said matters and things before the Supreme Court of the United States, to wit:

1. The Court erred in making the order and decree appealed from directing this respondent to forthwith account for, convey, transfer, assign, deliver and pay to Thomas W. Miller as Alien Property Custodian the money and other property described and set forth in the petition herein and in the amended answer, with any accretions thereon or changes therein.

2. The court erred in making the order and decree appealed from for such order and decree is in conflict with the provisions of the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting unreasonable seizures and prohibiting deprivation of property without due process of law and prohibiting the taking of private property for public use without just compensation and is not within the provisions of any rules authorized 286 to be made by Congress concerning captures on land or water by the provisions of Section 7 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

3. The Court erred in overruling this respondent's objections to the demand, Exhibit B of the petition, that it turn over to the Custodian the property therein described.

4. The Court erred in overruling this respondent's objections to the demand, Exhibit C of the petition, that it turn over to the Custodian the property therein described.

5. The Court erred in holding that the statement in the demand, Exhibit B of the petition, that the Custodian Palmer had determined the ownership of the property in question after investigation, precluded inquiry in the present proceeding as to whether the investigation required by law had been made by the Custodian prior to such determination.

6. The Court erred in holding that the statement in the demand, Exhibit C of the petition, that the Custodian Garvan had determined the ownership of the property in question after investigation, precluded inquiry in the present proceeding as to whether the investigation required by law had been made by the Custodian prior to such determination.

7. The Court erred in holding that the annexing of the document Exhibit B to the petition of the Custodian was equivalent to an allegation that the Custodian had determined the ownership of the property in that document described after investigation.

287 8. The Court erred in holding that the annexing of the document Exhibit C to the petition of the Custodian was equivalent to an allegation that the Custodian had determined the ownership of the property in that document described after investigation.

9. The Court erred in holding that an admission that the manner of deposit with this respondent of the property in question, when it was admitted that severable parts thereof were not and had not been owned by an enemy or ally of enemy was equivalent to a determination of ownership thereof by the Custodian after investigation, and could take the place thereof.

10. The Court erred in holding that the present proceeding is merely possessory in character.

11. The Court erred in holding that the making of the determination specified in Exhibit B was not disputed.

12. The Court erred in holding that the making of the determination specified in Exhibit C was not disputed.

13. The Court erred in holding that the statement in Exhibit B that investigation of the ownership of the property was made before determination thereof adequately met the admission made in open court of the allegations concerning such determination and investigation contained in the amended answer.

14. The Court erred in holding that the statement in Exhibit C that investigation of the ownership of the property was made before determination thereof adequately met the admission made in open court of the allegations concerning such determination and investigation contained in the amended answer.

288 15. The Court erred in holding that the Alien Property Custodian could lawfully in this proceeding assert greater rights over the property in question in the right of Mrs. von Schierholz than Mrs. von Schierholz could lawfully have done in the absence of war, in her own right.

16. The Court erred in holding that the property of persons other than enemies is the subject of capture, when not in actual hostile use against the United States, or within a region where active hostilities are being conducted.

17. The Court erred in holding that property, several identifiable parts of which were owned by citizens or neutrals in severalty, and only a severable part by enemies, was subject to capture as a single item of property.

18. The Court erred in holding that a deposit of property, made years before the war was declared in the joint names of an enemy and a neutral, with stated power to either to withdraw it, was subject to capture, by virtue of that fact alone, as enemy property in its entirety, irrespective of the actual ownership of the several parts thereof, and of the several individual personal ownership by such neutral of a several part thereof, without prior investigation of the real ownership by the Custodian.

19. The Court erred in holding that where personal property had been deposited with a bailee, under an ante-bellum contract running to an enemy and a neutral with express power to either to withdraw the property from deposit, such fact alone after the declaration of war, irrespective of notice of the real ownership of the property by persons not enemies, justified a determination that the property was held for an enemy.

20. The Court erred in holding that on the report alone Exhibit A of the petition, the Alien Property Custodian could justly determine that the properties in question were all held for an enemy, without other investigation.

21. The Court erred in holding that an amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act, enacted by Congress subsequent to the making of both the demands set up in the petition, as Exhibits B and C thereof, could cure a constitutional invalidity of the Trading with the Enemy Act as it existed at the time the said demands severally were made, and validate such prior demands and pretended determinations, without a new determination and demand made by the Alien Property Custodian according to law after the passage of such amendment; and in holding that such amendment could constitutionally have such effect in spite of the provisions of the V Amendment to the United States Constitution.

22. The Court erred in holding that after the declaration of war by the United States on April 6, 1917, the Trust Company had any power or authority to deliver the property in question (other than so much thereof as was individually owned by her) to Helene von Schierholz by virtue of the terms of the agreement of deposit.

23. The Court erred in holding that the Trust Company's report showed that under the trust agreement Mrs. von Schierholz at any time after April 6, 1917, had a right to demand of the Trust Company that the moneys or securities in question or any thereof be turned over to her, other than such as were her individual several property.

24. The Court erred in holding that a determination of ownership of property by the Custodian, made without evidence to support it, with notice that it was contrary to the real ownership, with notice where exact evidence of the ownership could be obtained, and made without inquiry and without investigation of the real ownership, and in fraud of the rights of the real owner, prevents any resistance to or questioning of such determination in a court of equity by such owner or his bailee in possession of the property when the Custodian appeals to such a court for its aid in securing delivery of the property to him.

25. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity should order property turned over to the Alien Property Custodian that he on the conceded facts had no lawful right to hold.

26. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity should order the property in question, or any thereof, turned over to the Alien Property Custodian as the property of Mrs. von Schierholz, when he was by law required to return to her any property of hers seized by him, even without prior application by her, under and by virtue of the provisions of Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, Subdivisions b)3 and b)8 as amended by the Acts of Congress of June 5, 1920 and February 27th, 1921, she having admittedly been born a citizen of the United States, and having lost her citizenship solely by her marriage to a German subject prior to 1914, and having derived whatever rights of ownership she had in the 291 property from her father, an American citizen, and having acquired whatever rights or powers or interests she had therein long prior to August 1st, 1914.

27. The Court erred in refusing to consider any of the objections specified in and by the amended answer of the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey other than those mentioned in its opinion.

28. The Court erred in refusing to find that at the time of each of the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibits B and C thereof respectively the provisions of Section 7 of the Trading with the Enemy Act were unconstitutional and invalid so far as they authorized the seizure by the Custodian of property of American citizens not resident in any Judicial District of the United States and not enemies, or of neutrals not resident within any judicial district of the United States, such as Charles J. Ahrenfeldt and Frederick Wesche were respectively admitted to be.

29. The Court erred in refusing to hold the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibit B thereof void, as not constituting due process of law.

30. The Court erred in refusing to hold the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibit C thereof void, as not constituting due process of law.

30a. The Court erred in failing to hold the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, authorizing seizure by the Alien Property Custodian of money or property not belonging to enemies or allies of enemies and aid of the Courts in securing delivery of such property to him, unconstitutional in the absence of provision for payment of either interest or damages for the period of detention of such property before return.

292 31. The Court erred in holding that amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act in July 1919 after the demands made and after any pretended determination of ownership of the property in question (whether with or without prior investigation) but prior to the institution of this equity proceeding could constitutionally cure any invalidity in those demands and pretended determinations, and bar all inquiry by a Court of Equity, upon the petition of the Custodian herein filed, into the real ownership of the property, and conclusively require and authorize award of the possession of the property in question to the Alien Property Custodian on the petition herein, which contains no allegation of any determination of the ownership by the Alien Property Custodian subsequent to the enactment of such amendment, and especially when the Alien Property Custodian admitted in open Court upon the hearing that all the allegations of the amended answer as to the ownership of the property were true.

32. The Court erred in holding that the Trust Company would be fully protected on a compliance with the Custodian's demands, Exhibits B and C of the original petition herein.

33. The Court erred in holding that the question whether Wesche or any other person other than Mrs. von Schierholz has any title or interest in these moneys or securities can be raised only by filing a claim and instituting proceedings as provided by Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act.

34. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity cannot, in a proceeding like the present, consider the rights of those against whom relief is sought as a condition of granting relief to the petitioner.

293 35. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity can entertain a purely possessory proceeding without regard to the equities and rights of the parties before it.

36. The Court erred in holding that the Alien Property Custodian did not, by applying to a Court of Equity for relief, waive the right to obtain possessory award otherwise than upon equitable considerations and conditions.

37. The Court erred in failing to hold that the admission on the record of the truth of the allegations of the amended answer as to the ownership of the property therein mentioned was the first determination of the ownership thereof made by any Enemy property Custodian after investigation.

38. The Court erred in failing to hold that the admission by the Alien Property Custodian made in open court that the property in question all was and had been owned as stated in the amended answer herein, was a determination by the Alien Property Custodian, made after investigation, which superseded all prior pretended determinations by the Custodians or either of them.

39. The Court erred in holding that the petitioner is entitled to relief from this equity court without meeting the requirements of equity as to doing equity.

40. The Court erred in holding that it would direct a delivery to the Custodian as successor to the right of Mrs. von Schierholz, which it would have been a breach of trust for her to demand.

294 41. The Court erred in failing to hold that the petition (by petitioning in equity and proceeding by order that the respondent show cause if any there be why the property should not be turned over and assigned to the Custodian, and by omitting from his petition any allegations that he had, after investigation thereof, determined the ownership of the property in question) had sought a determination by the Court of the ownership of the property after its hearing the evidence concerning such ownership, and had given to the respondent the right to present the evidence of real ownership and to have a determination by the Court accordingly.

42. The Court erred in holding that the relief given by it to the Alien Property Custodian was not in conflict with the provisions of the V Amendment to the constitution providing that no person shall be deprived of property without due process of law.

43. The Court erred in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act, in so far as it authorized seizure of private property not in use in hostility to the United States and not within any area of actual hostilities, belonging to persons not enemies of the United States, but who did not reside in any judicial district of the United States, was, prior to July 11th, 1919, constitutional and valid.

44. The Court erred in holding that it would give its assistance to the Alien Property Custodian by requiring any property to be turned over to him as the property of Mrs. von Schierholz at a time when surrender to her by him, even without prior application by her, of all property belonging to her, was provided for by law.

295 45. The Court erred in failing to hold that the petitioner had not alleged that any determination of the ownership of the property had been made by either Alien Property Custodian after investigation.

46. The Court erred in holding the petition sufficient to entitle the petitioner to relief otherwise than in accordance with the actual ownership of the property, as alleged in the amended answer and admitted on the hearing, when the petition contained no allegation that either Custodian had, after investigation, determined the ownership to be otherwise.

47. The Court erred in holding that the owners of parts of the property in question who were not enemies, Mr. Ahrenfeldt and Mr. Wesche could be deprived of their property without due process of law.

48. The Court erred in holding that the demand of the Alien Property Custodian Palmer, Exhibit B of the original petition constituted due process of law.

49. The Court erred in holding that the demand of the Alien Property Custodian Garvan, Exhibit C of the original petition, constituted due process of law.

50. The Court erred in holding that a purely possessory proceeding could be maintained by the Alien Property Custodian under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and the amendments thereof to obtain possession of property not actually belonging to an enemy or ally of enemy and not in use in hostility to the United States in the absence of an actual determination (after investigation) by the custodian, authorized by law at the time it was made, of the ownership of such property, on the ground that the Custodian might have made such a determination on the papers submitted to him.

296 51. The Court erred in holding that the Custodian could dispense with the duty of investigation, before determination by him of ownership of property under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act so construed was constitutional in so far as it authorized capture of property not owned by an enemy or ally of enemy and not in actual hostile use against the United States or within a region where hostilities were being actively conducted, and that it was not so construed, in such cases in conflict with the provisions of either the IV or V Amendments to the United States Constitution.

52. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity was bound to exercise its special powers in favor of the Alien Property Custodian without regard to the real and equitable rights of this respondent and those whose rights it here represented.

53. The Court erred in holding constitutional and valid the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act which authorize seizure by the Custodian of private property belonging to persons not enemies or allies of enemies and which was not in actual military use against the United States or within any area of Actual hostilities.

54. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian of any property admittedly belonging at all times after January 1st, 1914, to Frederick Wesche, who was admittedly never an enemy.

55. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian of any property admittedly belonging at all times after January 1st, 1914 to Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, who was admittedly never an enemy.

297 56. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian in this proceeding of any property which was admittedly not the property of Helene J. von Schierholz and had not been.

57. The Court erred in holding that the demand Exhibit B of the petition was a lawful exercise of the right of capture under Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

58. The Court erred in holding that the demand Exhibit C of the petition was a lawful exercise of the right of capture under Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

59. The Court erred in holding that the provisions of Section 7 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, prior to the amendment of July 11th, 1919, were, so far as they authorized the seizure or capture of property belonging to persons not enemies or allies of enemies of the United States and not resident within any judicial district of the United States, a valid exercise of the power "to make rules concerning captures on land and water" conferred by Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States, and not in conflict with the prohibitions contained in the IV and V Amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

60. The Court erred in holding that the Act of Congress of July 11th, 1919, could constitutionally (and in disregard of the V Amendment of the Constitution of the United States) operate, retroactively, to validate provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act of October 6th, 1917, unconstitutional when adopted, as of a time prior to the enactment of such amendment and to validate acts attempted to be done under such unconstitutional provisions 298 prior to the enactment of such Act of July 11th, 1919.

61. The Court erred in holding that the right of capture, in the case of property owned in severalty, part by one not an enemy or ally of enemy of the United States, and part by an enemy, could extend beyond the part or share belonging to the enemy.

62. The Court erred in holding the Trading with the Enemy Act constitutional in so far as it permitted capture of property on land not belonging to an enemy or ally of enemy, and not in use against the United States, and not within any region in which hostilities were being actively conducted.

63. The Court erred in ruling that after April 6th, 1917, under the trust agreement either Mrs. von Schierholz or Mr. Wesche could demand the possession of the properties therein covered.

64. The Court erred in holding that it was the duty of the Trust Company to comply with the demands of the Alien Property Custodian and turn over all the property demanded to him.

65. The Court erred in holding that the question of other persons' ownership or interest in the properties demanded was irrelevant in this proceeding.

66. The Court erred in holding that the questions arising out of the various rights in and to the property can be raised only after the demands of the Alien Property Custodian have been complied with, and by instituting proceedings authorized by Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act as amended.

67. The Court erred in awarding custody of the property or any thereof as the property of Helene von Schierholz to the Alien 299 Property Custodian after the enactment of the Act of Congress of February 27th, 1921, amending the Trading with the Enemy Act.

68. The Court erred in holding that, after the passage of the joint resolution of Congress declaring the state of war between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America at an end and its approval and signature by the President of the United States on July 2nd, 1921, the Enemy Property Custodian had any power, right or authority to reduce to his possession as such Custodian by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act and any amendments thereof, any property previously demanded by him as that of Germans, but not actually previously delivered into his possession as such Custodian, other than property actually belonging to the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors or to German Nationals.

69. The Court erred in holding that after the signature and ratification of the treaty with Germany of date August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications thereof between the two governments, the Enemy Property Custodian had any power, right or authority to reduce to his possession as such Custodian, by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act and any amendments thereof, any property previously demanded by him as that of Germans, but not actually previously delivered into his possession as such Custodian, other than property actually belonging to the Imperial German Government, its successor or successors, or to German Nationals.

70. The Court erred in failing to hold that after the passage of the joint resolution of Congress declaring the State of War between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America at an end and its approval and signature by the President of the United States on July 2nd, 1921, and the proclamation of peace by the President of the United States, and the signature and ratification of the treaty of peace between the United States and Germany 300 of date August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications of such treaty, the Alien Property Custodian could not by virtue of determination of enemy ownership of property by him and demand thereof accordingly maintain any possessory proceeding by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the amendments thereof, to reduce to his possession as Alien Property Custodian any property, so previously demanded by him as property of German enemies of the United States, unless such property had actually belonged either to the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, or to German Nationals.

71. The Court erred in failing to hold that upon the termination of the war all right of capture under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and all right of completing capture attempted by demand of the property but not theretofore completed by actual reduction of the property to possession by the Custodian ceased and determined, save and except only as to such property as was specifically excepted by the terms of the peace resolution of July 2nd, 1921 and by those of the treaty of peace with Germany of August 25th, 1921, namely, all property of the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, and of all German Nationals which had been the subject of a demand, and all property of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian government or its successor or successors and of all Austro-Hungarian Nationals, which had been the subject of such demand; and in failing to hold that, it appearing that part of the property herein sought to be recovered was not of such excepted character, no possession could be herein awarded to the Custodian of such property which did not and had not belonged to said Governments or any of them or to German or Austro-Hungarian Nationals.

301 72. The Court erred in refusing to hold that the amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act by the Act of July 11th, 1919 (as construed by it, as validating determinations and demands made by the Custodian prior to the enactment of such amendment as to which the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act as previously existent were unconstitutional) was invalid and unconstitutional, as in conflict respectively with the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, to wit, those of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, forbidding that any person be deprived of property without due process of law, and those forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation and in conflict with the provisions of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding unreasonable seizures.

73. The Court erred in holding that this proceeding was a possessory one, when the demands Exhibits A and B of the original petition were both void because made under a statute which was unconstitutional at the time they were made, as to the owners of parts of the property involved, to wit, Frederick Wesche a neutral resident at all times since 1914 in Switzerland and Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, an American citizen resident, at the times when said demands were each made and since, outside of the United States in London, England and in Switzerland, as providing for seizure of property of persons not enemies without due process of law.

74. The Court erred in holding that a capture by the Custodian was completely effected of the property here in question before the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of peace, by the demands 302 shown and the institution of this proceeding, without the actual reduction to his possession of the property or any part thereof.

75. The Court erred in holding that the stipulation in the treaty of August 25th, 1921, between the United States and Germany according to the United States the benefit of the provision in the joint resolution of Congress of July 2, 1921, that all property of all German Nationals which had been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or of any of its officers, agents or employees should be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made except as specifically provided by law, was (as construed by the Court as applicable to property of individual German Nationals, which had been merely made the subject of a demand or demands by the Alien Property Custodian without actual reduction to possession or physical capture) constitutional and valid and not within the prohibitions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

76. The Court erred in holding that the Joint Resolution of Congress of July 2d, 1921, in so far as it authorized completion of uncompleted captures of private property after the conclusion of peace and the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of August 25th, 1921, was constitutional and valid and not within the provisions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding that any person shall be deprived of his property without due process of law, and forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation.

303 77. The Court erred in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the Amendments thereof, the Joint Resolution of Congress of July 2d, 1921, the Proclamation of Peace by the President of the United States, and the treaty of August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications thereof, all and severally, were constitutional and not within the prohibitions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation, and forbidding that any person should be deprived of his property without due process of law, as the same were construed by the Court as authorizing completion (as against individual owners), after the conclusion of peace, of captures by the Custodian of private property individually owned, not previously reduced to actual possession by him.

78. The Court erred in assisting a capture of individually owned private property by the Custodian after the conclusion of peace.

79. The Court erred in assisting a capture of individual private property, belonging to an American citizen, by the Custodian, after the conclusion of peace.

80. The Court erred in holding that after the conclusion of the treaty of peace the Alien Property Custodian was authorized to prose-entertain any proceeding for the purpose of reducing to his possession property not actually so reduced to possession prior to the conclusion of peace.

81. The Court erred in holding that it had any jurisdiction to entertain in purely possessory proceeding by the Custodian after the conclusion of peace.

82. The Court erred in not denying the petition of the Custodian.

83. The Court erred in failing to hold that the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act authorizing purely possessory proceedings by the Alien Property Custodian to recover possession of property which he had required to be delivered to him as enemy property, had become unconstitutional with the termination of the war.

304 84. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in stating that the one question brought before it was whether the appellant was right in thinking that the Alien Property Custodian had no right to the property because the neutral had power upon his sole order to withdraw the whole property, or the Alien Property Custodian was right in thinking he had a right to it because the alien enemy had like power upon her sole order to withdraw the whole property and acquire its possession.

85. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the appellant there maintains that as a matter of fact there was no investigation or determination by the Alien Property Custodian that Mrs. von Schierholz was an alien enemy, whereas what the appellant maintained with regard to lack of investigation and determination was that there was no investigation and determination by the Alien Property Custodian after investigation that Mrs. von Schierholz was the owner of the property.

86. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act as originally enacted and as amended in 1918 for a return of the property in case of mistake fully met the due process of law guarantee of the Constitution.

87. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the present proceeding in equity was a purely possessory action.

88. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in finding that there was no irregular or insufficient action on the part of the Alien Property Custodian in the investigation and determination of the ownership of the property.

305 89. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the property in question was under the sole control of the Alien enemy as to its withdrawal, possession and disposition.

90. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the property question being held for the joint account of a neutral and an alien enemy and being under the sole control of an alien enemy as to its withdrawal, possession and disposition, it was properly regarded as enemy owned property liable to seizure by the Alien Property Custodian.

91. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that neither for itself as Trustee nor for either cestui que trust was the Trust Company justified in withholding delivery of the property under the Act.

92. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the Act as passed and amended had not been repealed or otherwise affected by the armistice, the peace resolution of Congress or the treaty with Germany.

93. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that while hostilities ceased and peace was re-established by either the armistice, the peace resolution of Congress or the treaty with Germany, the Trading with the Enemy Act by reason of not containing self-limiting terms and not being expressly repealed remains the law.

94. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that in face of the provisions of the IV Amendment to the Constitution of the United States an order could be made by the Court in such proceeding directing delivery of property to the Alien Property Custodian as to which no probable cause was shown to the Court supported by oath or affirmation to believe it enemy property.

95. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in affirming the decree of the District Court.

Wherefore, the appellant prays that the said decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals may be reversed and that the appellant may have an adjudication and decree in its favor as herein specified.

Brief of the Argument.....	47
A. Even possessory proceedings by the Custodian are subject to valid defenses..	48
I. Provisions for appeal involve this	48
II. Purely possessory proceedings are applications for warrants, and as such subject to the IV Amendment requiring a showing of facts constituting probable cause.....	48
III. Unconstitutionality of seizure in the particular case is a defense	50
IV. If the "determination" by the Custodian be permissible as a substitute for facts constituting probable cause, its making in accordance with the statute must be shown positively, and not left ^{to} doubtful inference....	51
V. If the Custodian's demand is not a completed "capture," the Court cannot complete it save on a showing of facts constituting probable cause, nor after peace is declared.....	52

VI. The requirements of the IV Amendment were not evaded by petitioning in equity.....	52
B. The facts shown at bar constituted a defense	53
VII. The Custodian failed to allege his compliance with the statutory requirements of a valid demand	53
VIII. The Custodian failed to allege probable cause to believe the property enemy property.....	54
IX. The Custodian failed to show , at the hearing facts constituting probable cause, but showed the contrary	55
X. The facts shown as "cause" by this appellant were a complete defense	56
XI. The present proceeding was not a purely possessory one, but sought investigation of the facts	57

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM, 1922.

No. 575.

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY,

Appellant,

VS.

THOMAS W. MILLER, as Alien Property Custodian,

Appellee.

BRIEF FOR APPELLANT.

Statement of the Case.

(References in this brief to the record are to the side-paging.)

This is an appeal from a decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Third Circuit, entered August 1st, 1922, affirming a decree of the District Court for the District of New Jersey, entered January 19th, 1922, directing conveyance, transfer, assignment, delivery and payment by this appellant to the Alien Property Custodian of all the money and property held by it under an agreement set forth in the petition, to the terms of which we shall call attention in a moment. The property, so ordered transferred, is listed in the schedule shown on pages 117 and 118 of the record, and consists of $102,580.64 in cash, and $450,000 of American bonds (or stock of the City of New York), $53,000 of the bonds being Liberty Loan Bonds, the others being municipal or corporate bonds.

These decrees were entered in a proceeding in equity instituted by the Custodian by petition in September, 1920, which sought, expressly in the alternative, that the appellant be required to transfer and convey the property to the Custodian, or to show cause, if any there be, why this should not be done.

The situation which gave rise to the proceeding was as follows: In January, 1913, there were deposited with this appellant the above mentioned securities, or other securities which had become changed into these, under an agreement reading as follows:

"Received, Jersey City, January 30th, 1913, for the account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. v. Schierholz, of Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, the bonds particularly set out in the schedule or list hereto annexed, and having a par value of five hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars ($524,000) to be held for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz, and to collect the interest to become due and payable on said bonds for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz and to deliver over said bonds from time to time as requested, to the said Frederick Wesche, or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them, it being understood that the said bonds and the said interest money to be collected thereon are to be held and collected and delivered or paid over to either the said Frederick Wesche or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them. Upon all interest moneys collected on said bonds there is to be retained by the undersigned for its services in the premises 2% of the amount so collected; this receipt is executed in triplicate.

FR. WESCHE,
HELENE J. v. SCHIERHOLZ."
(Record, pp. 17-18.)*

Shortly after the passage of the Trading With the Enemy Act, in December, 1917, this appellant reported to the Custodian that it held this fund which it had received on deposit under this contract; that the enemy interested in this fund was Helene J. v. Schierholz, whose address was Schloss Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, whose nationality it did not then know; and that another person, not an enemy, interested in the property, was Frederick Wesche, whose last known address was 130 Faubourg (Street) St. Denis, Paris, France (Record, pp. 16-17). This appellant further reported that so far as it knew said Helene J. v. Schierholz and Frederick Wesche were the sole beneficiaries under that agreement (Record, p. 19). The cash at that time amounted to but $1,700, but was increased later through payment of some of the securities and collections of coupons. The appellant also reported by letter on June 14th, 1918, that, so far as it knew, Frederick Wesche was a resident of Paris, France, and not an enemy or ally of enemy (Record, p. 144).

The Custodian took no steps in regard to this fund until the 19th day of June, 1918, when a demand was prepared purporting to bear the signature of A. Mitchell Palmer, the then Custodian, which demand was served on this appellant on July 8th, 1918 (Record, pp. 5-6).

This demand covered all of the property deposited under the agreement above set forth, and not merely such portion of it as belonged to Mrs. v. Schierholz. It was made without any prior investigation of the facts on the part of the Custodian, beyond the receipt of the report and letter already mentioned from this appellant (Record, p. 196). It is one contention of the appellant that under the law as laid down by this Court over a hundred years ago, and under modern decisions in New York and New Jersey, the facts disclosed in the report and by the letter (to be found respectively in the record at pp. 10-27 and 193-195), did not in any way justify any determination that this was all enemy property, or seizure of all the property as such; but rather required investigation and inquiry by the Custodian into the extent of the interests of Mrs. v. Schierholz, whom he declared to be an enemy; which investigation he never made until the facts were presented to him upon the hearing by the answer of this appellant to his petition that it be required to show cause. He then admitted that only a minor and separate identified part of this property, being about one-third of it, belonged to Mrs. v. Schierholz (Record, pp. 65-66, 68-69 and 198).

At the time of the making of this demand by the Custodian, the Trading With the Enemy Act forbade any review by any court of any seizure by the Alien Property Custodian, save only in the District Court of the United States for the district in which the claimant resided. The provision for alternative suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia was not added until July 11th, 1919, a year later. Mr. Wesche thus had no recourse to any court for review of any such seizure, being a non-resident, neither an enemy nor ally of an enemy. The Custodian expressly admitted that Wesche was not an enemy and that they had never said he was (Record, p. 196). And Mr. Ahrenfeldt stood in like case.

It is believed, in accordance with the doctrines laid down by the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in the case of Garvan v. $20,000 Bonds, 265 Fed. 477 (subsequently affirmed here and reported as Central Trust Company v. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554), that seizure of the property of one not an enemy or ally of enemy, to whom all opportunity of court review was forbidden, was unconstitutional and without due process of law; and that, consequently, surrender of the property by the appellant under such circumstances, to the Custodian, would have afforded it no defense to a claim by Mr. Wesche for such part of the property as belonged to him. The appellant accordingly did not transfer or deliver the property as so demanded, and still retains it under supersedeas bond.

On March 28, 1918, the appellant further reported to the Custodian by telegraph "that it held for the benefit of the said cestuis que trust" some $57,000 additional (Record, p. 5). This sum, as it subsequently appeared, was partly the proceeds of collection of maturing securities previously reported and partly collection of coupons (Record, pp. 64-67). Upon this telegraphic report the then Custodian, Mr. Garvan, without making any further investigation, caused a second demand to be made on the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey on April 17th, 1919 (Record, p. 67).

This demand was again of the entire property as property of Mrs. v. Schierholz, and had no further basis than the previous report and letter, and the telegraphic report so made by this appellant; none of which indicated that Mrs. v. Schierholz was the owner of the entire property, and each of which showed clearly that part at least of the property belonged to Mr. Wesche. The Statute still remained in the same condition at this time, and the Trust Company would still have been as defenseless against any demand by Mr. Wesche for his part of the property as at the time of the previous demand. It again did not surrender the property.

The Custodian took no further step until September, 1920.

Meantime, early in July, 1920, Mr. Wesche demanded delivery and transfer of the property to him (Record, p. 74), which the Company refused, owing to the situation.

Two months later, on September 11th, 1920, the Custodian, Mr. Garvan, filed his petition in equity in the District Court of the District of New Jersey, to the precise nature of which we call attention.

After alleging the official capacity of Mr. Garvan and his succession to Mr. Palmer, and the incorporation of the appellant, the Custodian alleged (Paragraph III) that the appellant had made the report of December, 1917, of which he annexed a copy to his petition; and in Paragraph IV alleged the supplementary telegraphic report above mentioned. In Paragraph V he alleges directly and specifically that Mr. Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, on or about June 19th, 1918, "after investigation determined that the said Helene J. v. Schierholz of Thuringen, Germany, was an enemy within the purview and meaning of the said Act," and that thereafter a demand, of which he annexed an alleged copy, was served on the appellant on July 8th, 1918 (Record, pp. 3-6).

This latter allegation of the petition is peculiarly noticeable in this particular, that the petitioner was careful to allege directly and in terms that Mr. Palmer had after investigation determined that Mrs. v. Schierholz was an enemy, but wholly omitted to allege that he had either investigated or determined the ownership of the property (Record, pp. 5-6).

It is true that the alleged copy of the demand annexed to the complaint contains the statement that the Custodian does after investigation determine that Mrs. v. Schierholz was an enemy and that the property was hers. But annexing a paper containing a statement, with an allegation that it had been served, was long since held by this Court not to be an allegation of the facts stated therein. It might well be true that the former Custodian had said, on a printed form, that he had done thus and so, and wholly untrue that he had done so. Even had Mr. Ahern, who verified the petition of the Custodian, had personal knowledge that no investigation of the ownership had been made, and no determination thereof by the Custodian, he could not have been held for perjury on this allegation. It was, in any event, not a showing of "probable cause supported by oath or affirmation."

In Paragraph VI of his petition, the Custodian alleged that he had made a second demand of all the property on April 17th, 1919, and this time omitted any allegation that he either investigated or determined, either the status of Mrs. v. Schierholz or the ownership of the property. The demand served, of which an alleged copy is annexed to the petition, however, contained the statement that the Custodian after examination did determine both the enemy status of Mrs. v. Schierholz and that the property was hers (Record, side pp. 6-7). That the demands, either of them, so read, was put in issue, and the Custodian offered no proof of their contents, and admitted that they were not correct copies (Record, p. 198).

In Paragraph VII of his petition, the Custodian asserted the legal conclusion that he was vested with all the beneficial interests in the fund and that this appellant had refused to convey, transfer and deliver the property to him (Record, p. 7). That he was so vested was denied (p. 52).

In Paragraph VIII of the petition, he alleged that his proceeding was instituted "pursuant to the provisions of Section 24 of the Judicial Code of the United States by which the District Courts of the United States have original jurisdiction over all suits of a civil nature at common law or at equity, brought by the United States or any officer thereof, and under Section 17" of the Trading With the Enemy Act (Record, pp. 7-8). This was admitted (p. 52).

The prayer of the petition is peculiarly noticeable. It reads:

"Your Petitioner prays that this Court issue a rule, directed to the said respondent (this appellant) commanding it, in the alternative, to convey, transfer, assign, deliver and/or pay to your petitioner, as Alien Property Custodian, the said money and other property hereinbefore described, with interest thereon accrued; or else, upon a day and at a place to be named in said writ to show cause if any there be, why the relief herein prayed should not be granted, and for such further relief as in the premises may seem meet and just." (Record, p. 8).

The petition was neither signed nor verified by the Custodian, but by Mr. Ahern, who verifies it as "the duly appointed, qualified and acting Managing Director at the office of the Alien Property Custodian" (Record, pp. 8-9).

This petition was filed on September 11th, 1920, and on it an order to show cause was issued commanding that this appellant

"do forthwith convey, transfer, assign, deliver and/or pay to Francis P. Garvan, as Alien Property Custodian, all the money and other property described and set forth in the petition annexed hereto, or appear in this Court at the place of holding said Court at Newark, on October 4th, 1920, and on or before the 20th day after service of this order, then and there, by answer duly verified to show cause, if any there be, why it should not be required, by order of this Court, so to do, and why the petitioner should not have such other and further relief as in the premises he may be justly entitled to." (Record, pp. 1-2).

The proceeding was expressly brought in equity (Record, pp. 1-3), and had for a sub-title "In the Matter of the Application of Francis P. Garvan, as Alien Property Custodian in re Certain Stocks, Bonds, Securities and Money held by the Respondent as the Money and Property of Helene J. v. Schierholz of Thuringen, Germany, an enemy" (Record, pp. 1-3).

The bulk of the property ordered transferred was not so held.

The proceeding thus lacked all of the special characteristics of the proceedings which were considered by this Court in Central Trust Company v. Garvan, which were there held to be purely possessory proceedings. The differences are carefully pointed out in the brief on the associated appeal of Wesche, No. 292 of the October Term, 1922, under Point XI, 8, pages 79-82 of that brief.

On the 21st of February, 1921, the appellant filed its amended answer (Record, p. 270). Its contents are especially important because every statement therein contained was admitted, on the record to be true (Record, p. 198).

After admitting the making of its report of December, 1917, and of the telegraphic report of March 28th, 1919, and that demands were made by the respective Custodians in July, 1918 (Record, p. 44), and about March 28th, 1919 (Record, p. 49), and denying all other allegations of the Custodian, this appellant, which had in the meantime fully investigated the situation, showed just what the ownership of the property was (Record, pp. 59-70, Paragraphs XIV-XIX); that in January, 1913, it was Wesche who had deposited the securities, which grew into this fund, under the agreement above set forth (Record, p. 59); that the property was owned in severalty by four different people: a specific part by Wesche himself; a specific part by Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, an American citizen residing abroad throughout the war, in England, France and Switzerland, and not at any time since August 1st, 1914, resident within any judicial district of the United States (Record, p. 55); a specific part by Mr. Ahrenfeldt's sister, Mrs. v. Uxküll-Gyllenband (Record, pp. 61-62, 66-67, 69); and a specific part, approximately one-third of the whole, by Mrs. v. Schierholz, another sister of Mr. Ahrenfeldt (Record, pp. 60-61, 65-66, 68-69). Each of these ladies was an American born woman who had lost her citizenship by marrying a German many years before the war (Record, pp. 50-51, 55, 57-58), and the property of each (included in the fund) had come to her, years before the war, by will from her father (Record, pp. 57-58), who was an American citizen (Record, p. 51), and not from any German source either directly or indirectly. A small portion of the securities owned by Mrs. v. Schierholz and a small portion of the securities owned by Mrs. v. Uxküll-Gyllenband had been acquired by each of them by purchase with their own funds from their brother, Mr. Ahrenfeldt, in March, 1914. From that date the ownership had remained unchanged (Record, p. 62).

It will be noticed that at the time the Custodian's petition was filed in September, 1920, the Act providing for return to American women, who had married Germans and thereby lost their citizenship, of property of theirs seized by the Custodian, had already been passed. There was, however, question whether in its original form (which read, "by birth within the United States"), the Statute applied to either of these ladies, who were each born in Paris, one in 1856 and the other in 1861 (Record, pp. 50, 55). This was, however, covered, before the case was submitted to the District Court, by the amendment of February 27th, 1921, modifying that Statute by making it applicable to the daughters of American citizens born abroad. The allegations of the answer brought these women unquestionably within the terms of the Act as amended February 27th, 1921.

The answer showed, further, that in January, 1913, all this property was being handled by Mr. Wesche, as owner of his own share and as agent for each of the other three (Record, p. 56); that at that time, as he was advancing in years, it was decided by the owners that it would be wiser to deposit these securities with this appellant and to make the deposit in the joint names of Wesche and Mrs. v. Schierholz, so that in case of the death or disability of Wesche there might be some one authorized to withdraw the securities belonging to the others from the deposit (Record, pp. 56-57, 72-73). Mrs. v. Schierholz was, therefore, joined as a co-depositor in name, but was under express agreement with the other three not to take any part in the management of the securities, but to leave them entirely in Mr. Wesche's control, except only in case of his death or disability (Record, pp. 57-58, 72-73). Mrs. v. Schierholz at no time, from the inception of the deposit in January, 1913, interfered with the property in any way, and all orders, instructions and directions concerning it had been given exclusively by Wesche (Record, pp. 72-73). Mrs. v. Schierholz was thus, except as to her own specific bonds and cash, a mere alternate agent, and any demand by her of the securities of the others from the Trust Company would have been a breach of trust on her part (Record, pp. 73-74). It would seem, too, that any contractual power of hers to demand delivery of the securities from this appellant, especially as agent for the others, terminated, ipso facto, on the declaration of war by the United States on April 6th, 1917. As to all the property, except her separate, individual securities and cash, she was, in fact, merely an agent whose power had lapsed.

The answer set out with great particularity: the ownership of the deposit at the date of the first report, made in December, 1917, showing separate ownership and not ownership in common; also all changes that had occurred in the ownership after March 1st, 1914; and the ownership on October 1st, 1920, identifying the specific amounts of each kind of securities belonging to each one (Paragraphs XIV-XIX, Record, pp. 59-70).

The answer further set out (Record, p. 74) that Wesche had demanded delivery of the securities in July, 1920.

The appellant did not restrict itself to the failure of the Custodian to allege that either he or his predecessor had investigated and determined the ownership of the property, but specifically alleged that no investigation of the ownership of the property was made by either Custodian, and that the pretended determinations recited in the demands were not made by either Custodian personally, or after investigation, or even predicated upon or in accord with the information he did have (Record, pp. 45-48, 76-77).

The answer carefully showed that Wesche was not and never had been an enemy, or ally of an enemy, or resident within any judicial district of the United States (Record, pp. 70-72); and alleged directly that the demands were based exclusively on the reports so made by the appellant, and that the pretended determinations were in direct conflict with the only information that the Custodian possessed (Record, pp. 47-48). It alleged that a mere letter of inquiry to Wesche, sent to him at Paris, would have brought prompt and full information (Record, pp. 45-47); and that the recital of investigation of ownership in the demands was a mere pretense; that none had been made.

Upon the hearing the Custodian introduced in evidence the original report made by the appellant and a letter which its Secretary and Treasurer had written to the Custodian on June 4th, 1918, which, in substance, simply renewed the statement that Mrs. v. Schierholz was an enemy and that, as far as it knew, Wesche was not. Aside from the submission of these two papers, the petitioner introduced no further evidence and rested (Record, pp. 191-195). He did not introduce in evidence either of the two demands of which alleged copies were annexed to the Custodian's petition, the correctness of which had been denied (Record, pp. 44, 49), so that the Custodian gave no evidence whatever that any determination had been made, by either himself or his predecessor, of the ownership of the property; and if the recital in the demands could be deemed allegations that the Custodians had made determinations, the allegations were denied and were entirely unsupported by any evidence. In fact, the truth of the denials was admitted (Record, p. 198).

After the Custodian rested, a colloquy ensued between counsel and the Court, in which counsel for the Custodian, the Assistant-Attorney General, specifically admitted that beyond what was shown by the papers introduced the Custodian made no investigation whatever (Record, pp. 196-197); that they had never questioned the fact that Wesche was not an enemy, and specifically admitted that Wesche was not an enemy, and that they had never said he was otherwise (Record, pp. 196-197). Finally, the Court turned to the Attorney General and said, "Upon filing these amended answers, the two answers standing, everything that you have not controverted by the introduction of these documents" (the report and the letter from the appellant), "you admit to be facts, but you contend upon these facts there is no legal answer to your claim?" To which the Assistant-Attorney General replied, "That is it." The Court, addressing the counsel for this appellant, then said, "So that everything you put in your answer save what may be controverted by these documents is admitted as facts in the case." To which counsel for the appellant answered, "All right, sir." The Court then addressing the Assistant-Attorney General said, "That is where you stand," and he answered, "Yes, sir" (Record, p. 198). The appellant thereupon rested, the matter was argued and the Court directed that briefs be filed by the 15th of March, 1921, which was done on that date (Record, p. 199).

Between the argument and the submission of the briefs occurred the amendment of February 27th, 1921, establishing beyond peradventure the rights of these two ladies to have property of theirs, seized by the Custodian, returned, even "without application therefor."

Seven months passed before the District Court rendered its decision. In the meantime, on July 2nd, 1921, peace was declared by the Joint Resolution, which was signed by the President on that date. It was not until October 22nd, 1921 (Record, p. 271), that the Court filed its opinion directing decree ordering transfer of all the property to the Custodian, and at the same time filed a memorandum denying the respective petitions of Ahrenfeldt and Wesche to intervene (Record, pp. 202-212), decrees which are here on appeal by each of those petitioners for leave to intervene.

On November 11th, 1921, ratifications of the post-bellum treaty with Germany were exchanged, and on January 16th, 1922, the matter came on for further hearing on application for decrees. This appellant then urged that the Peace Resolution, the Treaty with Germany, and the Act of February 27th, 1921, had barred whatever rights the Custodian might previously have had to seize this property. All these objections were overruled (Record, pp. 199-201) ; and the decrees denying leave to intervene were entered on January 16th, 1922, and final decree directing transfer and delivery of all the property by this appellant to the Custodian, was entered on January 19th, 1922 (Record, pp. 199-201).

This appellant thereupon appealed from such final decree to the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit ; on August 1st, 1922, that Court affirmed the decree of the District Court, filing an opinion which appears at pages 281-283 of the record on appeal. From its decree of affirmance, entered August 1st, 1922, this appellant has now appealed to this Court.

Upon appellant's filing supersedeas bond, first the District Court and then the Circuit Court of Appeals stayed the execution of the decree pending the appeal, this appellant undertaking to hold the fund intact (Record, p. 309).

Principal Questions Presented.

The principal questions presented on this appeal are briefly the following:

Whether, even in purely possessory proceedings instituted in the courts by the Custodian, there are not available defenses such as:

1. Failure of the Custodian to make a showing of facts constituting not mere suspicion, but "probable cause" to believe the property subject to seizure as enemy property.

2. Unconstitutionality of the Statute authorizing seizure, in its application to the particular case.

3. That the Custodian had failed to comply with the requirement of determination predicated upon prior investigation as called for by the Statute.

4. That if for any reason the demand were not itself a completed capture, it could not be completed by the Court on the strength of the Custodian's determination, but only on the strength of facts shown as probable cause.

5. That the capture, if for any reason not made complete by the mere demand, could not be completed after the declaration of peace.

6. That, whatever may be true of the Custodian, the Federal Courts, under the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, may issue warrants or orders for seizure of property, only on showing of facts constituting probable cause to believe the property enemy property subject to seizure, supported by oath or affirmation, and that determination by the Custodian on information acquired by him may not be substituted for determination by the Court, which is asked to issue the warrant, of the sufficiency of the facts shown to constitute probable cause.

Further questions presented are whether, in the case at bar, the Custodian failed to allege or to prove that he had made the reasonable investigation of the ownership of the property required by the statute and determined its ownership after and on the strength of such investigation; whether he failed to show any probable cause to believe the property enemy property subject to seizure, when he, on the contrary, admitted that only a small part of the property directed to be delivered to him belonged to Mrs. v. Schierholz, that a considerable part of the property belonged to Wesche personally, a considerable part to Ahrenfeldt, and neither of these was or ever had been an enemy.

Whether the demands at bar, so far as they affected property of either Wesche or Ahrenfeldt, who at the time of the demands were admittedly both non-residents of the United States, and neither of them enemies or allies of enemies, were unconstitutional and void because the Statute at the time each of the demands was made, forbade any judicial review of the seizure at the suit of either of them; and whether such demands, therefore, as to the property of either Wesche or Ahrenfeldt, could be considered completed captures in themselves.

Whether even joint property, belonging to an enemy and a neutral or citizen, is subject to capture in its entirety as enemy property, or only to the extent of the enemy's share; and whether showing a deposit in the joint names of a neutral and an enemy, with power to either, or to the survivor, to withdraw the property afforded a basis justifying determination that it was entirely enemy property, or merely established a case emphatically calling for further investigation under the statute, and for determination in accordance with the results thereof.

Whether the property of Mrs. v. Uxküll-Gyllenband, never demanded as such, was properly ordered delivered when it was admitted that it did not belong to Mrs. v. Schierholz, and that she had no real right thereto.

Whether the property of Mrs. v. Schierholz, whom the Custodian determined in 1918 to be an enemy and as whose he demanded all of the property, whether her own or belonging to the others, on its being admitted that she was an American-born woman, who had lost her citizenship by marrying a German many years before the war, and who, at the time of submission of the case to the District Court, was entitled on the admitted facts to immediate return of her own property under Sub-division b-3 of Section 9 of the Trading With the Enemy Act, as amended February 27th, 1921, even without making application therefor, could properly be ordered delivered thereafter by a Court of Equity.

Whether the fact that her name was joined with that of Wesche as co-depositor would justify the seizure of the portions of this fund belonging to the others.

Whether Mrs. v. Uxküll-Gyllenband's property should have been ordered delivered, when no demand for its delivery as such had ever been made and when she was entitled to immediate return of any of her property seized by the Custodian on the admitted facts of her being an American-born woman who lost her citizenship by marrying a German many years before the war (the property of both ladies having come to them from their father, an American citizen, and not from any enemy source.

Whether the right to possession of property is not itself property, and whether the bailee, on behalf of the owner, has not a right to object that the Court should not order transfer of the property to the Custodian without a due showing, supported by oath or affirmation, of probable cause to believe it enemy property subject to seizure, especially when the statute contains no provision for damages or interest for the period of detention, in the event that the seizure proves to have been improper and unjustifiable.

Whether either the Joint Resolution of July 2nd, 1921, or the treaty with Germany of August 25th, 1921, ratified November 11th, 1921, gave or reserved, or could constitutionally give or reserve any power to capture or hold, after the coming of peace, any property belonging either to Wesche, a neutral, or to Ahrenfeldt, an American citizen, neither of them ever enemies.

Whether those instruments gave or reserved any right of capture of the property of these two American-born ladies who were entitled to return of their property under the Act of February 27th, 1921.

Whether the admissions by the Custodian of the facts of ownership and status of the owners, prevented there being any probable cause shown for the issue of a warrant or order directing transfer, conveyance, delivery or payment of the property to the Custodian, and especially as to the separate property of Wesche and of Ahrenfeldt.

Whether any "probable cause" was shown for believing any of the property subject to seizure and particularly so as to the property of Wesche and of Ahrenfeldt, and whether the issue of a warrant or order for delivery of the property without such showing was in direct controvention of the provisions of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Specifications of Error.

The appellant specifies the following errors:

1. The Court erred in making the order and decree appealed from directing this respondent to forthwith account for, convey, transfer, assign, deliver and pay over to Thomas W. Miller, as Alien Property Custodian the money and other property described and set forth in the petition herein and in the amended answer, with any accretions thereon or changes therein.
2. The Court erred in making the order and decree appealed from for such order and decree is in conflict with the provisions of the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting unreasonable seizures and prohibiting deprivation of property without due process of law and prohibiting the taking of private property for public use without just compensation, and is not within the provisions of any rules authorized to be made by Congress concerning captures on land or water by the provisions of Section 7 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.
3. The Court erred in overruling this respondent's objections to the demand, Exhibit B of the petition, that it turn over to the Custodian the property therein described.
4. The Court erred in overruling this respondent's objections to the demand, Exhibit C of the petition, that it turn over to the Custodian the property therein described.

5. The Court erred in holding that the statement in the demand, Exhibit B of the petition, that the Custodian Palmer had determined the ownership of the property in question after investigation, precluded inquiry in the present proceeding as to whether the investigation required by law had been made by the Custodian prior to such pretended determination.

6. The Court erred in holding that the statement in the demand Exhibit C of the petition, that the Custodian Garvan had determined the ownership of the property in question after investigation, precluded inquiry in the present proceeding as to whether the investigation required by law had been made by the Custodian prior to such pretended determination.

7. The Court erred in holding that the annexing of the document Exhibit B to the petition of the Custodian was equivalent to an allegation that the Custodian had determined the ownership of the property in that document described after investigation.

8. The Court erred in holding that the annexing of the document Exhibit C to the petition of the Custodian was equivalent to an allegation that the Custodian had determined the ownership of the property in that document described after investigation.

9. The Court erred in holding that an admission that the manner of deposit with this respondent of the property in question, when it was admitted that severable parts thereof were not and had not been owned by an enemy or ally of enemy was equivalent to a determination of ownership thereof by the Custodian after investigation, and could take the place thereof.

10. The Court erred in holding that the present proceeding is merely possessory in character.

11. The Court erred in holding that the making of the determination specified in Exhibit B was not disputed.

12. The Court erred in holding that the making of the determination specified in Exhibit C was not disputed.

13. The Court erred in holding that the statement in Exhibit B that investigation of the ownership of the property was made before determination thereof adequately met the admission made in open court of the allegations concerning such determination and investigation contained in the amended answer.

14. The Court erred in holding that the statement in Exhibit C that investigation of the ownership of the property was made before determination thereof adequately met the admission made in open court of the allegations concerning such determination and investigation contained in the amended answer.

15. The Court erred in holding that the Alien Property Custodian could lawfully in this proceeding assert greater rights over the property in question in the right of Mrs. von Schierholz than Mrs. von Schierholz could lawfully have done in the absence of war, in her own right.

16. The Court erred in holding that the property of persons other than enemies is the subject of capture, when not in actual hostile use against the United States, or within a region where active hostilities are being conducted.

17. The Court erred in holding that property, several identifiable parts of which were owned by citizens or neutrals in severalty, and only a severable part by enemies, was subject to capture as a single item of property.

18. The Court erred in holding that a deposit of property, made years before the war was declared in the joint names of an enemy and a neutral, with stated power to either to withdraw it, was subject to capture, by virtue of that fact alone, as enemy property in its entirety, irrespective of the actual ownership of the several parts thereof, and of the several individual personal ownership by such neutral of a several part thereof, without prior investigation of the real ownership by the Custodian.

19. The Court erred in holding that where personal property had been deposited with a bailee, under an ante-bellum contract running to an enemy and a neutral with express power to either to withdraw the property from deposit, such fact alone after the declaration of war, irrespective of notice of the real ownership of the property by persons not enemies, justified a determination that the property was held for an enemy.

20. The Court erred in holding that on the report alone Exhibit A of the petition, the Alien Property Custodian could justly determine that the properties in question were all held for an enemy, without other investigation.

21. The Court erred in holding that an amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act, enacted by Congress subsequent to the making of both the demands set up in the petition, as Exhibits B and C thereof, could cure a constitutional invalidity of the Trading with the Enemy Act as it existed at the time the said demands severally were made, and validate such prior demands and pretended determinations, without a new determination and demand made by the Alien Property Custodian according to law after the passage of such amendment; and in holding that such amendment could constitutionally have such effect in spite of the provisions of the V Amendment to the United States Constitution.

22. The Court erred in holding that after the declaration of war by the United States on April 6, 1917, the Trust Company had any power or authority to deliver the property in question (other than so much thereof as was individually owned by her) to Helene von Schierholz by virtue of the terms of the agreement of deposit.

23. The Court erred in holding that the Trust Company's report showed that under the trust agreement Mrs. von Schierholz at any time after April 6, 1917, had a right to demand of the Trust Company that the moneys or securities in question or any thereof be turned over to her, other than such as were her individual several property.

24. The Court erred in holding that a determination of ownership of property by the Custodian, made without evidence to support it, with notice that it was contrary to the real ownership, with notice where exact evidence of the ownership could be obtained, and made without inquiry and without investigation of the real ownership, and in fraud of the rights of the real owner, prevents any resistance to or questioning of such determination in a court of equity by such owner, or his bailee in possession of the property, when the Custodian appeals to such a court for its aid in securing delivery of the property to him.

25. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity should order property turned over to the Alien Property Custodian that he on the conceded facts had no lawful right to hold.

26. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity should order the property in question, or any thereof, turned over to the Alien Property Custodian as the property of Mrs. von Schierholz, when he was by law required to return to her any property of hers seized by him, even without prior application by her, under and by virtue of the provisions of Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, Subdivisions b)3 and b)8 as amended by the Acts of Congress of June 5, 1920 and February 27th, 1921, she having admittedly been born a citizen of the United States, and having lost her citizenship solely by her marriage to a German subject prior to 1914, and having derived whatever rights of ownership she had in the property from her father, an American citizen, and having acquired whatever rights or powers or interests she had therein long prior to August 1st, 1914.

27. The Court erred in refusing to consider any of the objections specified in and by the amended answer of the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey other than those mentioned in its opinion.

28. The Court erred in refusing to find that at the time of each of the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibits B and C thereof respectively the provisions of Section 7 of the Trading with the Enemy Act were unconstitutional and invalid so far as they authorized the seizure by the Custodian of property of American citizens not resident in any Judicial District of the United States and not enemies, or of neutrals not resident within any judicial district of the United States, such as Charles J. Ahrenfeldt and Frederick Wesche were respectively admitted to be.

29. The Court erred in refusing to hold the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibit B thereof void, as not constituting due process of law, as to the separate property of Wesche and of Ahrenfeldt.

30. The Court erred in refusing to hold the demands set forth in the petition as Exhibit C thereof void, as not constituting due process of law, as to the separate property of Wesche and of Ahrenfeldt.

30a. The Court erred in failing to hold the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, authorizing seizure by the Alien Property Custodian of money or property not belonging to enemies or allies of enemies and aid of the Courts in securing delivery of such property to him, unconstitutional in the absence of provision for payment of either interest or damages for the period of detention of such property before return.

31. The Court erred in holding that amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act in July 1919 after the demands made and after any pretended determination of ownership of the property in question (whether with or without prior investigation) but prior to the institution of this equity proceeding could constitutionally cure any invalidity in those demands and pretended determinations, and bar all inquiry by a Court of Equity, upon the petition of the Custodian herein filed, into the real ownership of the property, and conclusively require and authorize award of the possession of the property in question to the Alien Property Custodian on the petition herein, which contains no allegation of any determination of the ownership by the Alien Property Custodian subsequent to the enactment of such amendment, and especially when the Alien Property Custodian admitted in open Court upon the hearing that all the allegations of the amended answer as to the ownership of the property were true.

32. The Court erred in holding that the Trust Company would be fully protected on a compliance with the Custodian's demands, Exhibits B and C of the original petition herein.

33. The Court erred in holding that the question whether Wesche or any other person other than Mrs. von Schierholz has any title or interest in these moneys or securities can be raised only by filing a claim and instituting proceedings as provided by Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act.

34. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity cannot, in a proceeding like the present, consider the rights of those against whom relief is sought as a condition of granting relief to the petitioner.

35. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity can entertain a purely possessory proceeding without regard to the equities and rights of the parties before it.

36. The Court erred in holding that the Alien Property Custodian did not, by applying to a Court of Equity for relief, waive the right to obtain possessory award otherwise than upon equitable considerations and conditions.

37. The Court erred in failing to hold that the admission on the record of the truth of the allegations of the amended answer as to the ownership of the property therein mentioned was the first determination of the ownership thereof made by any Enemy Property Custodian after investigation.

38. The Court erred in failing to hold that the admission by the Alien Property Custodian made in open court that the property in question all was and had been owned as stated in the amended answer herein, was a determination by the Alien Property Custodian, made after investigation, which superseded all prior pretended determinations by the Custodians or either of them.

39. The Court erred in holding that the petitioner is entitled to relief from this equity court without meeting the requirements of equity as to doing equity.

40. The Court erred in holding that it would direct a delivery to the Custodian as successor to the right of Mrs. von Schierholz, which it would have been a breach of trust for her to demand.

41. The Court erred in failing to hold that the petition (by petitioning in equity and proceeding by order that the respondent show cause if any there be why the property should not be turned over and assigned to the Custodian, and by omitting from his petition any allegations that he had, after investigation thereof, determined the ownership of the property in question) had sought a determination by the Court of the ownership of the property after its hearing the evidence concerning such ownership, and had given to the respondent the right to present the evidence of real ownership and to have a determination by the Court accordingly.

42. The Court erred in holding that the relief given by it to the Alien Property Custodian was not in conflict with the provisions of the V Amendment to the constitution providing that no person shall be deprived of property without due process of law.

43. The Court erred in holding that the Trading with the Enemy act, in so far as it authorized seizure of private property not in use in hostility to the United States and not within any area of actual hostilities, belonging to persons not enemies of the United States, but who did not reside in any judicial district of the United States, was prior to July 11th, 1919, constitutional and valid.

44. The Court erred in holding that it would give its assistance to the Alien Property Custodian by requiring any property to be turned over to him as the property of Mrs. von Schierholz at a time when surrender to her by him, even without prior application by her, of all property belonging to her, was provided for by law.

45. The Court erred in failing to hold that the petitioner had not alleged that any determination of the ownership of the property had been made by either Alien Property Custodian after investigation.

46. The Court erred in holding the petition sufficient to entitle the petitioner to relief otherwise than in accordance with the actual ownership of the property, as alleged in the amended answer and admitted on the hearing, when the petition contained no allegation that either Custodian had, after investigation, determined the ownership to be otherwise.

47. The Court erred in holding that the owners of parts of the property in question who were not enemies, Mr. Ahrenfeldt and Mr. Wesche could be deprived of the possession of their property without due process of law.

48. The Court erred in holding that the demand of the Alien Property Custodian Palmer, Exhibit B of the original petition constituted due process of law.

49. The Court erred in holding that the demand of the Alien Property Custodian Garvan, Exhibit C of the original petition, constituted due process of law.

50. The Court erred in holding that a purely possessory proceeding could be maintained by the Alien Property Custodian under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and the amendments thereof to obtain possession of property not actually belonging to an enemy or ally of enemy and not in use in hostility to the United States in the absence of an actual determination (after investigation) by the custodian, authorized by law at the time it was made, of the ownership of such property, on the ground that the Custodian might have made such a determination on the papers submitted to him.

51. The Court erred in holding that the Custodian could dispense with the duty of investigation, before determination by him of ownership of property under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act so construed was constitutional in so far as it authorized capture of property not owned by an enemy or ally of enemy and not in actual hostile use against the United States or within a region where hostilities were being actively conducted, and that it was not when so construed, in such cases in conflict with the provisions of either the IV or V Amendments to the United States Constitution.

52. The Court erred in holding that a Court of Equity was bound to exercise its special powers in favor of the Alien Property Custodian without regard to the real and equitable rights of this respondent and those whose rights it here represented, as established before it.

53. The Court erred in holding constitutional and valid the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act which authorize seizure by the Custodian of private property belonging to persons not enemies or allies of enemies and which was not in actual military use against the United States or within any area of actual hostilities.

54. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian of any property admittedly belonging at all times after January 1st, 1914, to Frederick Wesche, who was admittedly never an enemy.

55. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian of any property admittedly belonging at all times after January 1st, 1914, to Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, who was admittedly never an enemy.

56. The Court erred in directing delivery to the Alien Property Custodian in this proceeding of any property which was admittedly not the property of Helene J. von Schierholz and had not been.

57. The Court erred in holding that the demand Exhibit B of the petition was a lawful exercise of the right of capture under Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

58. The Court erred in holding that the demand Exhibit C of the petition was a lawful exercise of the right of capture under Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

59. The Court erred in holding that the provisions of Section 7 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, prior to the amendment of July 11th, 1919, were, so far as they authorized the seizure or capture of property belonging to persons not enemies or allies of enemies of the United States and not resident within any judicial district of the United States, a valid exercise of the power "to make rules concerning captures on land and water" conferred by Clause 11 of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States, and not in conflict with the prohibitions contained in the IV and V Amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

60. The Court erred in holding that the Act of Congress of July 11th, 1919, could constitutionally (and in disregard of the V Amendment of the Constitution of the United States) operate, retroactively, to validate provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act of October 6th, 1917, unconstitutional when adopted, as of a time prior to the enactment of such amendment and to validate acts attempted to be done under such unconstitutional provisions prior to the enactment of such Act of July 11th, 1919.

61. The Court erred in holding that the right of capture, in the case of property owned in severalty, part by one not an enemy or ally of enemy of the United States, and part by an enemy, could extend beyond the part or share belonging to the enemy.

62. The Court erred in holding the Trading with the Enemy Act constitutional in so far as it permitted capture of property on land not belonging to an enemy or ally of enemy, and not in use against the United States, and not within any region in which hostilities were being actively conducted.

63. The Court erred in ruling that after April 6th, 1917, under the trust agreement either Mrs. von Schierholz or Mr. Wesche could demand the possession of the properties therein covered.

64. The Court erred in holding that it was the duty of the Trust Company to comply with the demands of the Alien Property Custodian and turn over all the property demanded to him.

65. The Court erred in holding that the question of other persons' ownership or interest in the properties demanded was irrelevant in this proceeding.

66. The Court erred in holding that the questions arising out of the various rights in and to the property can be raised only after the demands of the Alien Property Custodian have been complied with, and by instituting proceedings authorized by Section 9 of the Trading with the Enemy Act as amended.

67. The Court erred in awarding custody of the property or any thereof as the property of Helene von Schierholz to the Alien Property Custodian after the enactment of the Act of Congress of February 27th, 1921, amending the Trading with the Enemy Act.

68. The Court erred in holding that, after the passage of the joint resolution of Congress declaring the state of war between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America at an end and its approval and signature by the President of the United States on July 2nd, 1921, the Alien Property Custodian had any power, right or authority to reduce to his possession as such Custodian by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act and any amendments thereof, any property previously demanded by him as that of Germans, but not actually previously delivered into his possession as such Custodian, other than property actually belonging to the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors or to German Nationals, who had been enemies or allies of enemies.

69. The Court erred in holding that after the signature and ratification of the treaty with Germany of date August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications thereof between the two governments, the Alien Property Custodian had any power, right or authority to reduce to his possession as such Custodian, by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act and any amendments thereof, any property previously demanded by him as that of Germans, but not actually previously delivered into his possession as such Custodian, other than property actually belonging to the Imperial German Government, its successor or successors, or to German Nationals who had been enemies or allies of enemies.

70. The Court erred in failing to hold that after the passage of the joint resolution of Congress declaring the State of War between the Imperial German Government and the United States of America at an end and its approval and signature by the President of the United States on July 2nd, 1921, and the proclamation of peace by the President of the United States, and the signature and ratification of the treaty of peace between the United States and Germany of date August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications of such treaty, the Alien Property Custodian could not, by virtue of determination of enemy ownership of property by him and demand thereof accordingly, maintain any possessory proceeding by virtue of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the amendments thereof, to reduce to his possession as Alien Property Custodian any property, so previously demanded by him as property of German enemies of the United States, unless such property had actually belonged either to the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, or to German Nationals, who had been enemies or allies of enemies.

71. The Court erred in failing to hold that upon the termination of the war all right of capture under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and all right of completing capture attempted by demand of property but not theretofore completed by actual reduction of the property to possession by the Custodian ceased and determined, save and except only as to such property as was specifically excepted by the terms of the peace resolution of July 2nd, 1921, and by those of the treaty of peace with Germany of August 25th, 1921, namely, all property of the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, and of all German Nationals which had been the subject of a demand, and all property of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian government or its successor or successors and of all Austro-Hungarian Nationals, which had been the subject of such demand; and in failing to hold that, it appearing that part of the property herein sought to be recovered was not of such excepted character, no possession could be herein awarded to the Custodian of such property which did not and had not belonged to said Governments or any of them or to German or Austro-Hungarian Nationals.

72. The Court erred in refusing to hold that the amendment of the Trading with the Enemy Act by the Act of July 11th, 1919 (as construed by it, as validating determinations and demands made by the Custodian prior to the enactment of such amendment as to which the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act as previously existent were unconstitutional) was invalid and unconstitutional, as in conflict respectively with the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, to wit, those of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, forbidding that any person be deprived of property without due process of law, and those forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation and in conflict with the provisions of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding unreasonable seizures.

73. The Court erred in holding that this proceeding was a possessory one, when the demands Exhibits A and B of the original petition were both void because made under a statute which was unconstitutional at the time they were made, as to the owners of parts of the property involved, to wit, Frederick Wesche a neutral resident at all times since 1914 in Switzerland and Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, an American citizen resident, at the times when said demands were each made and since, outside of the United States, in London, England and in Switzerland, as providing for seizure of property of persons not enemies without due process of law.

74. The Court erred in holding that a capture by the Custodian was completely effected of the property here in question before the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of peace, by the demands shown and the institution of this proceeding, without the actual reduction to his possession of the property or any part thereof.

75. The Court erred in holding that the stipulation in the treaty of August 25th, 1921, between the United States and Germany according to the United States the benefit of the provision in the joint resolution of Congress of July 2, 1921, that all property of all German Nationals which had been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or of any of its officers, agents or employees should be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made except as specifically provided by law, was (as construed by the Court as applicable to property of individual German Nationals, which had been merely made the subject of a demand or demands by the Alien Property Custodian without actual reduction to possession or physical capture) constitutional and valid and not within the prohibitions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

76. The Court erred in holding that the Joint Resolution of Congress of July 2d, 1921, in so far as it authorized completion of uncompleted captures of private property after the conclusion of peace and the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of August 25th, 1921, was constitutional and valid and not within the provisions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding that any person shall be deprived of his property without due process of law, and forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation.

77. The Court erred in holding that the Trading with the Enemy Act, and the Amendments thereof, the Joint Resolution of Congress of July 2d, 1921, the Proclamation of Peace by the President of the United States, and the treaty of August 25th, 1921, and the exchange of ratifications thereof, all and severally, were constitutional and not within the prohibitions of the V Amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding the taking of private property for public use without just compensation, and forbidding that any person should be deprived of his property without due process of law, as the same were construed by the Court as authorizing completion (as against individual owners), after the conclusion of peace, of captures by the Custodian of private property individually owned, not previously reduced to actual possession by him.

78. The Court erred in assisting a capture of individually owned private property by the Custodian after the conclusion of peace.

79. The Court erred in assisting a capture of individual private property, belonging to an American citizen, by the Custodian, after the conclusion of peace.

80. The Court erred in holding that after the conclusion of the treaty of peace the Alien Property Custodian was authorized to prosecute any proceeding for the purpose of reducing to his possession property not actually so reduced to possession prior to the conclusion of peace.

81. The Court erred in holding that it had any jurisdiction to entertain a purely possessory proceeding by the Custodian after the conclusion of peace.

82. The Court erred in not denying the petition of the Custodian.

83. The Court erred in failing to hold that the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act authorizing purely possessory proceedings by the Alien Property Custodian to recover possession of property which he had required to be delivered to him as enemy property, had become unconstitutional with the termination of the war.

84. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in stating that the one question brought before it was whether the appellant was right in thinking that the Alien Property Custodian had no right to the property because the neutral had power upon his sole order to withdraw the whole property, or the Alien Property Custodian was right in thinking he had a right to it because the alien enemy had like power upon her sole order to withdraw the whole property and acquire its possession.

85. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the appellant there maintained that as a matter of fact there was no investigation or determination by the Alien Property Custodian that Mrs. von Schierholz was an alien enemy, whereas what the appellant maintained with regard to lack of investigation and determination was that there was no investigation and determination by the Alien Property Custodian after investigation that Mrs. von Schierholz was the owner of the property.

86. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act as originally enacted and as amended in 1918 for a return of the property in case of mistake fully met the due process of law guarantee of the Constitution.

87. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the present proceeding in equity was a purely possessory proceeding.

88. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in finding that there was no irregular or insufficient action on the part of the Alien Property Custodian in the investigation and determination of the ownership of the property.

89. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the property in question was under the sole control of the Alien enemy as to its withdrawal, possession and disposition.

90. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the property in question being held for the joint account of a neutral and an alien enemy and being under the sole control of an alien enemy as to its withdrawal, possession and disposition, it was properly regarded as enemy owned property liable to seizure by the Alien Property Custodian.

91. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that neither for itself as Trustee nor for either cestui que trust was the Trust Company justified in withholding delivery of the property under the Act.

92. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that the Act as passed and amended had not been repealed or otherwise affected by the armistice, the peace resolution of Congress or the treaty with Germany.

93. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that while hostilities had ceased and peace was re-established by either the armistice, the peace resolution of Congress or the treaty with Germany, the Trading with the Enemy Act by reason of not containing self-limiting terms and not being expressly repealed remains the law.

94. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in holding that in face of the provisions of the IV Amendment to the Constitution of the United States an order could be made by the Court in such proceeding directing delivery of property to the Alien Property Custodian as to which no probable cause was shown to the Court supported by oath or affirmation to believe it enemy property.

95. The Circuit Court of Appeals erred in affirming the decree of the District Court.

Brief of the Argument.

The questions presented by this appeal are argued at length in the brief presented in the associated appeal of United States Trust Company of New York as Ancillary Administrator of Frederick Wesche, deceased, October Term, 1922, No. 292. The argument there made is adopted for the points here made, which group themselves under three heads as follows:

A. Proceedings by the Custodian under Section 17 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, even though of purely possessory character, are subject to some valid defenses.

B. The facts presented in the present case showed ample cause for refusal of the relief sought by the Custodian, especially as to the separate property of Ahrenfeldt and Wesche.

C. The previous decisions of this Court in Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan and Stoehr vs. Wallace, do not cover the questions presented by this appeal.

POINT I.

The provisions for appeal in proceedings brought by the Custodian under Section 17 of the Trading With the Enemy Act necessarily imply that there may be valid defenses to any such proceedings.

Vide U. S. Trust Co. brief, Point I.

POINT II.

If purely possessory in character the Custodian's proceeding is an application for a warrant; and, under the IV Amendment, no warrant may issue but upon a showing of facts constituting probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation.

Vide U. S. Trust Co. brief, Point II.

A purely possessory proceeding is an application for a warrant.

Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554.

No Federal Court may issue a warrant or other instrument of such character for the seizure of property but upon probable cause supported by oath or affirmation.

IV Amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

United States vs. Cohen Grocery Co., 255 U. S. 81, 88;

Ex parte Milligan, 4 Wall. 2, 118-120;

Miller vs. United States, 11 Wall. 268,

Tyler vs. Defrees, 11 Wall. 331.

The facts, supposed to constitute probable cause for seizure, must themselves be shown to the court, or officer, issuing the warrant, for their determination whether they constitute probable cause. The conclusion of the officer seeking the warrant, that there is probable cause, cannot take the place of showing the facts on oath or affirmation.

United States vs. Rykowski, 267 Fed.

24 Opinions Atty. Gen. 685, 688.

POINT III.

Unconstitutionality of the Statute, or of seizure under it, as applicable to a particular case, may be asserted as a defense.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point III.

Two of the owners being non-residents (Record, pp. 55, 70-72, 198), to whom, at the time of the demands made by the Custodian, all judicial review of seizure of their property was expressly prohibited, the attempted seizure of their property, they being neither enemies nor allies of enemies (Record, pp. 55, 70-72, 198), was without due process of law and void.

Garvan vs. $20,000 Bonds, 265 Fed. 477,
479;

Trading With the Enemy Act, Sec. 9, as enacted Oct. 6, 1917.

Surrender of property by this appellant in response to a void and illegal demand would have constituted no defense to subsequent demands by the owners. Such defense was necessarily pleadable.

POINT IV.

If the Custodian's determination be offered as a substitute for the constitutional requirement of "probable cause supported by oath or affirmation," it must be shown positively, under oath or affirmation, (and not by mere possible inference), that such determination has been made, and that all statutory prerequisites of such determination have been complied with.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point IV.

Reasonable prior investigation by the Custodian and his personal determination, predicated in good faith upon the results of such investigation, are essential prerequisites of the validity of a demand by the Custodian.

Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan, 254 U. S.
554;

Salamandra Ins. Co. vs. Trust Co., 254
Fed. 852, 857;

Runkle vs. United States, 122 U. S., 543.

And if substitution of the Custodian's determination for a showing of facts constituting probable cause were permissible, the fact that the determination had been made pursuant to all requirements of law must needs be positively and directly shown by oath or affirmation, and not left to doubtful inference. Somewhere along the line the facts constituting probable cause must be shown, supported by oath or affirmation.

POINT V.

A constructive capture, if, for any reason, not completed by the mere demand of the Custodian, could not be completed by decree or issue of warrant by the Court, save upon a showing to it of facts constituting probable cause to believe it properly subject to capture. Nor could an incomplete capture be completed after the passage and signature of the Joint Resolution of July 2nd, 1921, declaring peace.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point V.

Stochr vs. Wallace, 255 U. S., 239.

POINT VI.

The requirements of the IV Amendment were not evaded by petitioning in equity.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point VI.

B.

IN THE CASE AT BAR THE FACTS SHOWN AT THE HEARING CONSTITUTED AMPLE CAUSE FOR REFUSING THE RELIEF SOUGHT BY THE CUSTODIAN, ESPECIALLY AS TO THE PROPERTY OF WESCHE AND AHRENFELDT.

POINT VII.

The Custodian failed to allege that he had made any requirement of delivery in accordance with the provisions of the statute.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point VII.

The Custodian by merely annexing copies of papers served, which recited investigation and determination (Record, pp. 18, 35-38), did not allege any determination, after investigation, of the ownership of the property.

Bell vs. Bell, 181 U. S., 175, 178;

Thompson vs. Whitman, 18 Wall. 457, 458.

POINT VIII.

The Custodian failed to allege probable cause to believe the property he sought to be enemy property.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point VIII.

The contract set out in the report of this appellant (Record, pp. 17-18) did not show or give reasonable cause to believe, or justify any conclusion that all this property belonged to Mrs. von Schierholz; and the further reports that Wesche was beneficially interested (Record, pp. 17, 19) and a cestui que trust (Record, p. 5) tended to show the contrary.

Kaufman vs. Edwards, 92 N. J. Eq. 554;
Kelly vs. Beers, 194 N. Y. 49, 55;
Matter of McKelway, 221 N. Y. 15, 19;
Matter of Buchanan, 184 A. D., 237.

On the contrary these data loudly called for the investigation, required by the statute, into the ownership, which the Custodian concededly did not make (Record, pp. 75-76, 196, 198).

Even assuming the property to be jointly owned by Wesche, a neutral, and Mrs. von Schierholz, an enemy, the property was not subject to capture as an entirety, but only the enemy's interest therein.

The Ship Francis (John Graham's Claim), 1 Gall. 618;
The Franklin, 6 Chr. Rob| 127.

POINT IX.

The Custodian failed to show, upon the hearing, any facts constituting probable cause to believe that the entire property belonged to Mrs. von Schierholz, but on the contrary admitted that the property was and had been owned as shown by this appellant's amended answer.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief, Point IX.

The undisputed facts (Record, p. 198) shown on the hearing took the place of any investigation and determination by the Custodian.

Garvan vs. $20,000 Bonds, 265 Fed. 477, 479;

Ripper vs. United States, 178 Fed. 24, 26.

This applied not only to the ownership of the property (Record, pp. 56-74, 196, 198), but also to the status of Wesche, of Ahrenfeldt, of Mrs. von Schierholz, and of Mrs. von Uxküll-Gyllenband (Record, pp. 54-56, 198).

These undisputed facts showed lack of probable cause for seizure of any of the property.

POINT X.

The facts set up in the amended answer of this appellant, the truth of all of which was expressly admitted by the Custodian, were a complete defense to the Custodian's petition.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief, Point X.

This answer and the admission of its truth showed the following defenses:

- a). The Custodian had never made or attempted any investigation of the ownership of the property (Record, pp. 75-76, 196-198).
- b). His pretended "determination" was squarely in conflict with the reports submitted to him by this appellant which was all the information he had secured (Record, pp. 10-29, 193-195, 196-198).
- c). There was no determination by the Custodian himself (Record, pp. 47, 76-77, 198).
- d). The demands of the property of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt did not constitute a completed capture thereof (Point III, supra).

Garcan vs. $20,000 Bonds, 265 Fed. 477, 479.

insert > e)

Stochr v. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239.

Vide Point XIII, infra.

POINT XI.

The present proceeding was not a purely possessory one, such as this Court described in Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554, but sought investigation of the facts.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point XI.

1. A purely possessory proceeding cannot be maintained in equity, and this proceeding was expressly one in equity (Record, pp. 1, 3, 8).
2. The proceedings were expressly brought under Section 24 of the Judicial Code, as well as under Section 17 of the Trading With the Enemy Act (Record, pp. 7-8).
3. The petition expressly prays for the exercise of equity powers and for equitable relief (Record, p. 8).
4. The allegations of the petition are insufficient for a purely possessory proceeding. The Custodian alleged neither investigation on his part of the ownership of the property, nor determination based thereon, nor did he make allegation, or showing, of enemy ownership of all this property (Record, pp. 3-8).

Moyer vs. Peabody, 212 U. S. 78, 84;

POINT X.

The facts set up in the amended answer of this appellant, the truth of all of which was expressly admitted by the Custodian, were a complete defense to the Custodian's petition.

*Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point X.*

This answer and the admission of its truth showed the following defenses:

- a). The Custodian had never made or attempted any investigation of the ownership of the property (Record, pp. 75-76, 196-198).
- b). His pretended "determination" was squarely in conflict with the reports submitted to him by this appellant which was all the information he had secured (Record, pp. 10-29, 193-195, 196-198).
- c). There was no determination by the Custodian himself (Record, pp. 47, 76-77, 198).
- d). The demands of the property of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt did not constitute a completed capture thereof (Point III, supra).

*Garvan vs. $20,000 Bonds, 265 Fed. 477,

insert > e)

- e). The property was not properly subject to capture; as it was not enemy property, save the separate property of the two ladies, and their property was exempt from seizure under the amendment of the act.

Vide Point XII, infra.

POINT XI.

The present proceeding was not a purely possessory one, such as this Court described in Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554, but sought investigation of the facts.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point XI.

1. A purely possessory proceeding cannot be maintained in equity, and this proceeding was expressly one in equity (Record, pp. 1, 3, 8).
2. The proceedings were expressly brought under Section 24 of the Judicial Code, as well as under Section 17 of the Trading With the Enemy Act (Record, pp. 7-8).
3. The petition expressly prays for the exercise of equity powers and for equitable relief (Record, p. 8).
4. The allegations of the petition are insufficient for a purely possessory proceeding. The Custodian alleged neither investigation on his part of the ownership of the property, nor determination based thereon, nor did he make allegation, or showing, of enemy ownership of all this property (Record, pp. 3-8).

Moyer vs. Peabody, 212 U. S. 78, 84;

Bell vs. Bell, 181 U. S. 175, 178;

Thompson vs. Whitman, 18 Wall. 457, 458.

Some allegations of such character were essential to a purely possessory proceeding.

Denver v. Mercantile Trust Co., 201 Fed. 790, 810;

Richardson v. Green, 61 Fed. 423, 431;

Pond v. Harwood, 139 N. Y., 111, 120;

Dietrich v. Furgo, 194 N. Y. 359, 363.

And the Custodian having applied in equity the Court should have disposed of the ultimate rights instead of remitting the parties to new litigation.

Camp v. Boyd, 229 U. S. 530, 551-552;

Decker v. Caskey, 1 N. J. Eq. 427;

Williams v. Winans, 22 N. J. Eq. 573, 577;

Story, Equity Pleadings, Sec. 72.

And by applying in equity the Custodian had invoked such a disposition of the matter, as well as by the very form of his prayer for relief.

POINT XIII.

Neither the Joint Resolution of July 2nd, 1921, nor the Treaty with Germany ratified in November, 1921, authorized "capture" of any of this property after July 2nd, 1921.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief, Point XIII.

The right of "capture" ceased under the Constitution upon the declaration of peace.

Stoehr vs. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239.

Neither Resolution nor Treaty could reserve or confer on this Government power to make "captures" in peace time contrary to the prohibitions of the Constitution. Germany could waive only its own rights, and, certainly, not those of neutrals or Americans.

Moreover, the property here in question was excepted from the provisions of both resolution and treaty.

C.

THE DOCTRINES ASSERTED BY THE CUSTODIAN HAVE NOT YET BEEN ESTABLISHED BY THIS COURT AND SHOULD NOT BE.

POINT XIV.

The decisions of this Court in Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554, and in Stoehr vs. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239, are broadly distinguishable from the case at bar.

Vide United States Trust Co. Brief,
Point XVIII.

The following points here presented were not passed on in either of those cases:

- 1). The effect of requirement by the Custodian of delivery of property belonging to persons or allies of enemies, to whom all judicial review of a seizure was forbidden.
- 2). The necessity of showing facts constituting probable cause to believe the property subject to capture, under the IV Amendment.
- 3). The effect of the statutory provision for appeals in the very section which authorizes the Custodian to ask the assistance of the Courts.
- 4). The effect of an admission in open Court on the part of the Custodian that the property was not enemy property.

- 5). The effect of an admission in open Court on the part of the Custodian that the supposed enemy was an American born woman, who had become German by marriage years before the war, entitled under the Statute to immediate return of any property of hers involved in the proceeding.
- 6). The extent of the right of capture of joint property belonging to an enemy and a neutral.

POINT XV.

Upon the admitted facts at bar the decree directing conveyance of the property to the Custodian was erroneous.

In no previous case have any such conditions as those presented here been before this Court.

No probable cause was even pretended to be shown to the Court to believe that Wesche's property or Ahrenfeldt's was enemy property or rightfully subject to capture. The Custodian admitted that he had never had probable cause to believe either Wesche or Ahrenfeldt an enemy, or their separate property enemy property; and that it was not enemy property, or the property of Mrs. von Schierholz. The Custodian made no direct allegation that he or his predecessor had determined the ownership of the property after investigation, and admitted the facts which showed that the demands he had made were unconstitutional at the time when made as to Wesche's property and Ahrenfeldt's. He admitted that Mrs. von Schierholz had a status at the time of submitting the cause to the District Court entitling her to immediate return of her own property, and that the same was true of Mrs. von Uxküll-Gyllenband.

And in the face of that situation, months after the war had been completely terminated, he demanded that a Federal Equity Court, disregarding the prohibitions of the IV Amendment, issue its warrant and decree for the conveyance of this property to him, and refuse to listen to the protestations of this appellant, that before any Federal Court can, in time of peace, issue a warrant for the delivery of property it must require some showing, supported by oath or affirmation, of probable cause for its seizure.

In this case he showed that there was no probable cause for seizure of any of the property, and that there never had been any as far as the separate property of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt was concerned.

POINT XVI.

The decree appealed from should be reversed and the petition of the Custodian dismissed on the admitted facts.

Respectfully submitted,

SELDEN BACON
Counsel for Appellant.

APPEALS FROM THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE THIRD CIRCUIT.

MOTION TO ADVANCE.

Comes now the Solicitor General and moves the court to advance the above entitled cases to be heard with the case of Frederick Wesche, Appt. v. Thomas W. Miller, Alien Property Custodian, No. 292, on April 9th next, and to consolidate the three cases for the purpose of briefing and arguing.

The case of Wesche v. Miller, on appeal from the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, and the two above entitled cases are based on the same statement of facts and are practically similar in all respects.

On September 11, 1920, the Alien Property Custodian filed a petition in equity under the Trading with the Enemy Act against the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, in the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, for the delivery of certain money and bonds alleged to be the property of an alien enemy. On February 21, 1921, motions to intervene were filed on behalf of Frederick Wesche and Charles J. Ahrenfeldt claiming to be partial owners of the said money and bonds. On January 16, 1922, orders denying the applications of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt to intervene were filed. On January 19, 1922, a final decree was filed conveying the said money and bonds to the custody of the Alien Property Custodian. Wesche on January 19, 1922, took an appeal direct to this court, and on January 19, 1922, the Commercial Trust Company and Charles J. Ahrenfeldt were allowed appeals to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, which court on August 1, 1922, affirmed the decrees of the District Court. From that affirmance appeals were taken to this court on August 11, 1922.

For the conservation of time and for the convenience of the court, it is submitted that these two cases should be advanced to be heard with case No. 292, in the time of one case, on April 9th next, for which date a stipulation to restore to the call has been filed.

Counsel for the Appellants concur in this motion.

JAMES M. BECK,
Solicitor General.

NO. 292, APPEAL FROM THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY;
AND NOS. 575 AND 576, FROM THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE THIRD CIRCUIT.

BRIEF ON BEHALF OF THOMAS W. MILLER, AS ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN.

HISTORY OF THE CASES.

PLEADINGS.

This action was begun by petition filed by Francis P. Garvan as Alien Property Custodian, wherein he alleged in substance that on or about December 19,

1917, the respondent Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, acting in compliance with section 7 (a) of the Trading with the Enemy Act, filed a report that it held certain securities and money "in trust for the joint account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. von Schierholz, of Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, to be delivered or paid to the said cestuis que trustent upon the demand of either, or of the survivor of them," which report was filed as Exhibit A to the petition; that on or about March 28, 1919, said respondent corporation reported to the Custodian by telegraph that it held for the benefit of the said cestuis que trustent the further sums of $39,190.76, designated as a checking account, and $18,159.69, designated as a trust account; that on or about June 19, 1918, A. Mitchell Palmer, as Alien Property Custodian, the petitioner's predecessor, determined that the said Helene J. von Schierholz was an enemy within the purview and meaning of the said Act, and therefore required the said respondent corporation to forthwith deliver to the Custodian all the property described in said reports; that said demand was served on said trust company on or about July 8, 1918, a copy of said demand being filed as Exhibit B; that on or about March 28, 1919, the petitioner further required the said trust company to deliver to him as Alien Property Custodian the said moneys and other properties, which demand was served on or about April 17, 1919, a copy of said demand being filed as Exhibit C, and that by virtue of said demands the petitioner was vested with all the benefits in said money and other property; and it was prayed that the court issue a rule commanding in the alternative that the respondent deliver said properties to petitioner or, upon a day to be designated in said return, to show cause, if any there be, why the relief prayed for should not be granted. (Wesche Rec. 3-8; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 2-5; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 2-5.)

In Exhibit A, the report of the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey to the Custodian, it is recited that the name of the enemy interested in the trust fund was Helene J. von Schierholz, whose address was Schloss Plaue Thuringen, No. 3 Plaue, Thuringen, Germany; that the name of another person interested with Mrs. Schierholz was Fr. Wesche, whose last-known address was 130 Fauborg Street, St. Denis, Paris, France, whose interest was derived from the trust agreement attached to the report; and that on January 30, 1913, there was received for the account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. von Schierholz, of Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, the bonds set out in the schedule annexed, having a par value of $524,000, "to be held for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz, and to collect the interest to become due and payable on said bonds for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz and to deliver over said bonds from time to time as requested, to the said Frederick Wesche, or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them, it being understood that the said bonds and the said interest money to be collected thereon are to be held and collected and delivered or paid over to either the said Frederick Wesche or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them." (Wesche Rec. 16-18; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 9, 10; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 9, 10.)

In the demand for the property made by Palmer as Custodian which is filed as Exhibit B to the petition it is recited that the Custodian "after investigation do determine that the following property, to wit: [describing it], is by you owing and belonging to and held for, by, on account of, and on behalf of, and for the benefit of Helene J. von Schierholz, address: Schloss Plaus Thuringen, No. 3 Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, whom after investigation I do determine to be an enemy not holding a license granted by the President." (Wesche Rec. 31, 33, 34; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 17-19; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 16-19.) This demand was served on July 8, 1918. (Wesche Rec. 34, 38; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 17, 19; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 17, 19.)

In the demand for the property made by Garvan, Custodian, which is filed as Exhibit C to the petition, it is recited that the Custodian "after investigation do determine that Helene J. von Schierholz, whose address is Schloss Plaus Thuringen, No. 3 Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, is an enemy (not holding a license granted by the President) and that the following property, right claim, or chose in action to wit: [describing the property], is by you owing and held for, on account of, on behalf of and for the benefit of the said enemy." (Wesche Rec. 35-38; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 20-22; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 20-22.) This demand was served on April 17, 1919. (Wesche Rec. 40; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 23; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 23.)

Commercial Trust Company filed an answer on February 21, 1921, in which it admitted having made to the Custodian the report with reference to the property in question and its ownership as alleged in the petition (Wesche Rec. 42; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 24; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 24); and the substance of the defense set up therein is as follows:

(1) That Palmer, as Custodian, neither personally nor otherwise made at any time investigation or determined after investigation that the securities and moneys mentioned in Exhibit B to the petition were either owing to or belonging to or held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of Helene J. von Schierholz, and that no investigation was made aside from receiving the report filed by the respondent, and that his decision was based solely upon recitals in said report, when at the same time the report showed that Frederick Wesche was both an owner and holder at law and interested as beneficial owner in the securities and moneys described in said report. (Wesche Rec. 44, 45; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 25, 26; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 25.)

(2) That neither the said Palmer nor the petitioner ever inquired of said Wesche or anyone representing him as to his rights or the rights of any other persons in said securities and moneys. (Wesche Rec. 45; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 26; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 25, 26.)

(3) That the Alien Property Custodian secretly and without evidence, and without making investigation, and contrary to the information in his possession and to the proofs before him of the right of said Wesche, and in fraud of the rights of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt, both of whom resided abroad and to whom no recourse to any court was afforded, fraudulently pretended that he had duly investigated and had personally examined and passed on evidence obtained by an investigation of the rights and interest in such securities and moneys, and had fraudulently pretended to have determined after examination and investigation that said Wesche had no rights in such securities and moneys; and that the same belonged exclusively to said Helene J. von Schierholz. (Wesche Rec. 47, 48; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 27; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 26.)

(4) That any such pretended holding was null and void, and did not constitute due process of law; that it was an attempt to deprive said Wesche and the other owners of their property without due process of law, and to take their said property for public use without compensation or opportunity to be heard, against the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States; that such action was in excess of any powers that the Congress and the President could confer on the Custodian, and was contrary to the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act and amendments thereto, and was contrary to any authority conferred by the President upon the Custodian under the provisions of said Act. (Wesche Rec. 48, 49; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 27; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 28.)

The answer then states in detail the alleged facts with reference to the property in question and the citizenship of its owners, the substance of which is, that Frederick Wesche and Charles Ahrenfeldt were for years business associates; that said Ahrenfeldt died in 1893 and left an estate of large value to his three children to wit, Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, Helene J. Von Schierholz (née Ahrenfeldt), and Lucy Von Uxküll-Gyllenband (née Ahrenfeldt); that Charles J. Ahrenfeldt has at all times been an American citizen, and that since August 1, 1914, he has resided in England, France, or Switzerland, and has never been an enemy of the United States, and has not since August 1, 1914, been a resident of any judicial district of the United States (Wesche Rec. 55; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 30; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 30, 31); that Mrs. Helene J. von Schierholz was an American citizen till the time of her marriage to Arthur von Schierholz, a German subject, on July 24, 1879; that her said husband died in January, 1899, and that she had been domiciled in Germany ever since April 6, 1917, and that prior to the passage of the act of June 5, 1920, she was without a license to deal with the properties in question save only such license as was given by proclamation in 1919 (Wesche Rec. 50, 51; Ahrenfeldt 28; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 28, 29); that Lucy Von Uxküll-Gyllenband was a citizen of the United States until she married a German subject about 1885, from whom she was divorced but married another German subject, Woldemar Von Uxküll-Gyllenband, in 1897, and had ever since resided in Germany (Wesche Rec. 55; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 30; Com. T. Co. Rec. 30, 31); that prior to January 30, 1913, Charles J. Ahrenfeldt, Mrs. Schierholz, and Mrs. Uxküll-Gyllenband had placed in Wesche's hands securities which had been derived from their father's estate with the understanding that, with the approval of said Ahrenfeldt, they might be reinvested by Wesche along with funds belonging to himself, and that while the amount of said properties should be kept several, yet the cash might be carried in the name of Wesche; that in 1913 it was agreed that certain securities and some cash then belonging to said parties but held by Wesche should be deposited by Wesche with the trust company in the joint name of Wesche and Mrs. Schierholz, each possessing the power to withdraw the same, but with the understanding and agreement between said four parties that Mrs. Schierholz should exercise such power only in case of disability of said Wesche, and then only with the responsibility to return to each his or her share thereof; that pursuant to that arrangement on January 30, 1913, said Wesche and Mrs. Schierholz entered into an agreement with the trust company, which was filed as Exhibit 60 to the answer (Wesche Rec. 56-58; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 31, 32;

Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 31, 32), which agreement or receipt was as follows:

RECEIVED, Jersey City, January 30, 1913, for the account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. v. Schierholz, of Plaue, Thuringen, Germany, the bonds particularly set out in the schedule or list hereto annexed and having a par value of five hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars ($524,000) to be held for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz, and to collect the interest to become due and payable on said bonds for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz and to deliver over said bonds from time to time as requested, to the said Frederick Wesche, or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them, it being understood that the said bonds and the said interest money to be collected thereon are to be held and collected and delivered or paid over to either the said Frederick Wesche or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz or to the survivor of them. Upon all interest moneys collected on said bonds there is to be retained by the undersigned for its services in the premises 2 per cent of the amount so collected; this receipt is executed in triplicate. (Wesche Rec. 80; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 43, 44; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 44)

A statement of the securities and cash owned by each of said parties and held by the trust company is then made. (Wesche Rec. 63-69; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 33-37; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 33-37.)

APPLICATION OF FREDERICK WESCHE.

Frederick Wesche presented a petition praying that he be permitted to intervene and file an answer to the petition of the Custodian (Wesche Rec. 91; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 50; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 50), and he presented along with his petition an answer which set up in substance the same facts as those alleged in the answer filed by the trust company (Wesche Rec. 95-140; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 52-74). This application was disallowed (Wesche Rec. 166; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 113).

APPLICATION OF CHARLES J. AHRENFELDT.

Charles J. Ahrenfeldt also presented a petition seeking permission to intervene and file an answer. (Ahrenfeldt Rec. 50; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 77.) He presented with his petition an answer setting up the same facts as those stated in the answer filed by the trust company. (Ahrenfeldt Rec. 52-73; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 79-100.) This application was denied. (Ahrenfeldt Rec. 79, 80; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 106-107.)

ORDERS AND JUDGMENTS OF THE COURTS.

The Alien Property Custodian moved to strike out the answer of the trust company, which motion was denied. (Wesche Rec. 167, 168; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 115; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 87.) On the hearing the Government introduced the exhibits filed with the petition, which consisted of (1) the report of the trust company to the Custodian, (2) the formal demand of A. Mitchell Palmer, Custodian, which recited the fact of his having made an investigation and determination, and (3) the formal demand of the petitioner Garvan, which contained the recital of his investigation and determination as to the ownership of the property, and that it was held for an alien enemy. (Wesche Rec. 142-145; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 101, 102; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 74, 75.) The facts alleged in the trust company's answer relating to the ownership of the beneficial interest in the property appear to have been treated as being admitted by the attorneys representing the Custodian. (Wesche Rec. 148, 169; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 104, 116; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 77, 85.) The court on final hearing ordered that the Commercial Trust Company convey, transfer, assign, deliver, and pay over to Thomas W. Miller, Custodian, who had by previous order been substituted as petitioner, the securities and moneys described in the petition. (Wesche Rec. 170; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 116; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 88.)

The ground upon which this order was primarily based appears from the following quotation from the memorandum opinion filed by the court:

However, while the making of such determinations and demands with reference to the properties in question is not disputed, it is insisted that the preliminary investigation required by the Act was not made. But this challenge is met by the positive assertion in the determinations and demands that investigation was made. This precludes any further inquiry in proceedings like the present, instituted under Section 17 of the Act, which are merely possessory. Central Union Trust Co. of N. Y. v. Garvan, U. S. — (decided Jan. 24, 1921); Stoehr v. Garvan, supra.

The Trust Company also claims that at most but a part of this property is owned by Mrs. von Schierholz, and that a proper investigation would have revealed that fact. Under the trust agreement herein set out the Trust Company held the securities therein referred to and the interest money to be derived therefrom, in trust "for the joint account of the said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. von Schierholz," and it was obligated to deliver or pay over such securities and interest "to either the said Frederick Wesche or to the said Helene J. von Schierholz, or to the survivor of them." So far as the Trust Company was concerned, it made no difference what were the relative rights of the cestius que trustent in and to these moneys and securities. It was bound to deliver them to either on demand. This being so, if either of these persons was an enemy within the meaning of the Trading with the Enemy Act, the Alien Property Custodian, by taking the requisite steps under the Act, which he did, would be substituted in the place of the enemy, and entitled to demand and recover the trust fund.

And again:

In the instant case the Trust Company's report to the Custodian showed that Mrs. von Schierholz was a resident of enemy territory, and that under the trust agreement she had a right to demand of the Trust Company that the moneys and securities in question be turned over to her. On that report alone the Custodian could justly determine that the properties were held for an enemy. Having so determined, his right to secure them can not be resisted or questioned by the Trust Company. This conclusion renders it unnecessary to consider any of the other grounds stated in the answer or briefs. (Wesche Rec. 160-162; Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 110, 111; Ahrenfeldt Rec. 83, 84.)

An appeal to this court was prosecuted by Wesche from the order of the court disallowing his intervention, and he has filed an assignment of errors which contains 95 specifications. (Wesche Rec. 175-202.)

The Commercial Trust Company prosecuted an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and there assigned 83 grounds of error. (Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 119-130.) The judgment of the district court was affirmed by that court, the court holding that in the cases of Central Union Trust Company v. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554, and Stoeck v. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239, all the questions involved had been determined, except whether the fact that Wesche, who was not an alien enemy, and Mrs. Schierholz, who was an alien enemy, each had the power upon his or her sole order to withdraw the property, made any distinction, and the court agreed with the district court that—the property in question being held for the joint account of a neutral and an alien enemy, and being in one aspect under the sole control of the alien enemy as to is [its] withdrawal, possession, and disposition, it was properly regarded, in this initial proceeding, as enemy-owned property liable to seizure by the Alien Property Custodian. Therefore, neither for itself as trustee nor for either cestui que trustent was the Trust Company justified in withholding a delivery of the property under the Act as it was passed and amended. (Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 148-149.)

The court further held that the Act as originally passed and amended has not been repealed or otherwise affected by the Armistice, the Peace Resolution of Congress, or the Treaty with Germany. (Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 147-149.) From the judgment there pronounced an appeal was taken to this court, and 95 grounds for error have been assigned, which present the same questions as those presented in the assignments of error filed by Wesche. (Com. Tr. Co. Rec. 150-162.)

Charles J. Ahrenfeldt took an appeal from the decree of the court disallowing his application for intervention to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and there filed 95 specifications of error which presented the same questions as those presented in the assignments of error filed in this court by Wesche and the trust company. (Ahrenfeldt, Rec. 91-104.) The judgment of the district court was affirmed, the circuit court of appeals holding that the district court was right in "holding that the questions sought to be litigated by Ahrenfeldt can be raised only after the demand of the Alien Property Custodian has been complied with, and then only by proceedings authorized by section 9 of the act, as amended June 5, 1920," citing Central Union Trust Company v. Carvan, 254 U. S. 554, and Stoehr v. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239. (Ahrenfeldt Rec. 119.) From the judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals an appeal was prosecuted by Ahrenfeldt to this court, and 98 specifications of error have here been filed which raise the same questions as those presented in the Court of Appeals. (Ahrenfeldt Rec. 120-134.)

BRIEF AND ARGUMENT.

I.

The Provisions in Question of the Trading with the Enemy Act Are Constitutional.

The question as to the constitutionality of the Act was raised and determined in Stoehr v. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239, 243, 244. However, it is here insisted by Wesche and Ahrenfeldt that that case is not conclusive because, when it was determined by the Custodian that the property belonged to or was held for, or on account of, an alien enemy and when demand was made for its delivery to the Custodian, they were residing, one in Switzerland, and the other in France, and no provision was made in the Act for the institution of a suit for the recovery of property by a claimant who was a nonresident of the United States.

The transactions which are material to the question here presented were had upon the following dates:

The determination by Palmer, Custodian, as to the ownership of the property or for whom it was held was made on June 19, 1918, and the demand was served on the 8th of July, 1918. (Wesche Rec. 34.) The determination of the ownership, etc., of the property by Garvan, Custodian, was made on March 28, 1919, and the demand was made on April 17, 1919. (Wesche Rec. 40.) The original petition was filed September 11, 1920. (Wesche Rec. 40.) The provision in Section 9 of the original Act (40 Stat. Ch. 106, Sec. 9, p. 420) relating to the institution of suits by a claimant was as follows:

If the President shall not so order within sixty days after the filing of such application, or if the claimant shall have filed the notice as above required and shall have made no application to the President, said claimant may, at any time before the expiration of six months after the end of the war, institute a suit in equity in the district court of the United States for the district in which such claimant resides, or, if a corporation, where it has its principal place of business (to which suit the alien property custodian or the Treasurer of the United States, as the case may be, shall be made a party defendant), to establish the interest, right, title, or debt so claimed, et c. (40 Stat. page 420.)

On July 11, 1919, said Section 9 was amended so that the above provision read as follows:

If the President shall not so order within sixty days after the filing of such application or if the claimant shall have filed the notice as above required and shall have made no application to the President, said claimant may, at any time before the expiration of six months after the end of the war institute a suit in equity in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia or in the district court of the United States for the district in which such claimant resides, or, if a corporation, where it has its principal place of business (to which suit the Alien Property Custodian or the Treasurer of the United States, as the case may be, shall be made a party defendant), to establish the interest, right, title, or debt so claimed. (41 Stat. page 35.)

The contentions of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt can not be sustained for the following reasons:

1. They had a right before the amendment of July 11, 1919, to bring suit against the Alien Property Custodian in the District of Columbia, because the Alien Property Custodian resided, and his office was located, in that district.

The main purpose of the provision above quoted from Section 9 of the original Act was to provide a method for the recovery of property improperly seized, and the declaration as to the forum in which such action might be brought was merely an incident to that purpose. If the Act had said nothing about the jurisdiction within which the suit might be instituted it would have been controlled entirely by the general statute relating to the venue of actions; and the jurisdiction for all actions brought by claimants would have been in the District of Columbia, as that was the official residence of the Custodian; but for the convenience of the claimants it was provided that they might institute suits in their own districts. That provision of course had no application to those who were residing abroad; and therefore the jurisdiction as to them was fixed by Section 51 of the Judicial Code, which provides that, except as provided in the six succeeding sections, "no civil suit shall be brought in any district court against any person by any original process or proceeding in any other district than that whereof he is an inhabitant."

2. When this action was brought by the Alien-Property Custodian the statute had been so amended as to specifically give both Wesche and Ahrenfeldt the right to sue for the property in the District of Columbia.

As above stated, the statute amending the original Act in that particular was passed on July 11, 1919, while the petition in this case was not filed until September 11, 1920. (Wesche Rec. 40.) The property in question still remained in the possession of the Commercial Trust Company, and Wesche and Ahrenfeldt certainly had no right of action until it was removed from its possession. Therefore, if there had ever been any merit in their contention, the question had become a moot one before this action was instituted. So far as the trust company was concerned, by the express terms of the original statute it had a right to maintain a suit in the district wherein it was a resident; and that company therefore could not question the constitutionality of the Act on the ground that it was not afforded the right to prosecute a suit for the return of the property.

3. The Commercial Trust Company was holding the property claimed by Wesche and Ahrenfeldt as their trustee, and it was its duty to protect and preserve the property for them; and said company had the right when the demand was made by the Custodian to maintain an action for its return for the benefit of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt in the district of which it was a resident.

II.

Neither the Commercial Trust Company, Wesche, nor Ahrenfeldt Can Have Adjudicated the Question of the Ownership of, or Rights in, the Property Before It Has Been Delivered to the Custodian.

As heretofore shown in the statement of the case, it was determined by both Palmer, Custodian, and Garvan, Custodian, that the property in question was owned by or held for the account of Mrs. Schierholz, an alien enemy not holding a license from the President, before the demand was made upon the trust company for the property.

While the answer of the trust company denies that such determination was based on any real investigation, yet it conclusively shows that sufficient information had been imparted to the Custodian to warrant such determination, as the trust company itself had reported to the Custodian that it was holding the property subject to the order of either Wesche or

Mrs. Schierholz, and that Mrs. Schierholz was an alien enemy. Whatever the actual facts may be, the case of Central Union Trust Company v. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554, has conclusively settled this question in favor of the United States. In that case the defense interposed by the trust company was that it held the funds in question for the security and benefit of American policyholders and creditors. The court refused to consider any such question, holding that it could not be raised by the trust company until it had delivered the property to the Custodian. Here the trust company claims that it was holding certain portions of the property in trust for American citizens; and therefore precisely the same question is presented as the court had before it in that case.

The fact that Wesche had equal power with Mrs. Schierholz to withdraw the property does not render the principle inapplicable. The provision of the statute relating to the ownership of the property reads as follows:

If the President shall so require, any money or other property owing or belonging to or held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of an enemy or ally of enemy not holding a license granted by the President hereunder, which the President after investigation shall determine is so owing or so belongs or is so held, shall be conveyed, transferred, assigned, delivered, or paid over to the alien property custodian. (40 Stat., Ch. 106, sec. 7, subsec. (c), p. 418.)

Certainly the property in question was being "held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of" Mrs. Schierholz, as she had the power to demand and receive all of the property from the trustee. If it were not so held for her, it was not so held for Wesche; and appellants' contention leads to the absurd conclusion that it was not held by the trust company for anyone. Furthermore, as held by the court of appeals, the Custodian had the right to be substituted for Mrs. Schierholz; and as she had the right to demand the delivery to her of the entire property, when the demand for the property was made by the Custodian an equal right was vested in him. Anyway, it was determined by the Custodian that the property was held for Mrs. Schierholz, an alien enemy without a license; and that determination is conclusive of the case.

III.

The Right of the Custodian to the Possession of the Property Was Not Affected by the Armistice, or by the Termination of the War by Resolution of Congress and Proclamation of the President.

This question was before the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in The Matter of the Application of Thomas W. Miller, 281 Fed. 764, and the contention of appellants can not be better answered than by quoting the language of the court in that case, as follows:

But it is said that the Custodian's right to seize the property was a war-time power which lapsed with the passing of a state of war, and that on November 11, 1918, an armistice was entered into between the armed forces of the United States and those of the then Imperial German Government, and that on July 2, 1921, there became effective a joint resolution of Congress approved and signed by the President, which declared the state of war formerly existing with the Imperial German Government to be terminated and at an end. This, it is said, rendered of no force or effect as to subsequent matters any prior determinations by the Alien Property Custodian to the effect that Helene Kyriss and Amalia Janner or either of them was or is an alien enemy; that the said Amalia Janner and Helene Kyriss are not alien enemies and that neither of them is an alien enemy and that each of them is a citizen or subject of a country with which the United States of America is at peace and is entitled to all the protection to her property rights to which any alien is entitled within the United States, and also is entitled to all protection, rights, privileges, and immunities, both as to personal and property rights appertaining to citizens or subjects of Prussia or of the sovereignty succeeding to the rights and place of Prussia under the treaties between Prussia and the United States.

We are unable to assent to the proposition. It is difficult to appreciate the reasoning upon which it is based. So long as the United States was officially at war the courts can not say that it was in reality at peace. The joint resolution of Congress adopted July 2, 1921, declared the war at an end. (42 Stat. 105.) And on November 11, 1921, the President issued his Proclamation in which he declared "that the war between the United States and Germany terminated on July 2, 1921." Under the definition of the "end of the War" contained in the Trading with the Enemy Act, July 2, 1921, must be regarded for the purposes of that Statute as the termination of the war.

On March 3, 1921, Congress passed a joint resolution declaring that the date of the passage of the resolution in the interpretation of any provision relating to the duration or date of the termination of the war should be treated as the date of the war's termination, excepting, however, from the operation and effect of the resolution certain Acts and among them the Act known as the Trading with the Enemy Act, and all amendments thereto.

The Congress thereafter passed a further Joint Resolution which the President approved on July 2, 1921. It declared that the state of war existing between the United States and Germany was at an end, but that resolution specifically provided in Section 5 as follows:

"All property of * * * German nationals which was on April 6, 1917, in or has been since that date come into the possession or under control of or has been the subject of a demand by the United States of America, or of any of its officers, agents, or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, * * * shall be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made, except as shall have been heretofore or specifically hereafter shall be provided by law, until such time as the Imperial German Government * * * shall have * * * made suitable provision for the satisfaction of all claims." (42 Stat. 106.)

As the demands made by the Custodian, and upon which this proceeding was instituted, were made after April 6, 1917, and prior to the adoption of this resolution, the Custodian's right to the possession of the property demanded may still be enforced.

In Kahn v. Anderson, 255 U. S. 1 (41 Sup. Ct. 224; 65 L. Ed. 469), the Supreme Court declared that it was not disputable that complete peace had not come to pass by the effect of the Armistice and the cessation of hostilities. And Chief Justice White, speaking for the court, said it was difficult to appreciate the reasoning upon which it was insisted that although the Government was officially at war, nevertheless so far as the regulation of the army was concerned it was at peace.

In Vincenti v. United States (C. C. A.), 272 Fed. 114, the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, construing the words "the conclusion of the present war," held that the Government was still at war at the time of its decision, which was on March 4, 1921. The Supreme Court refused a writ of certiorari. (256 U. S. 700; 41 Supt. Ct. 538; 65 L. Ed. 1178.) And if a state of war legally existed on March 4, 1921, the seizure or demand by the Custodian made upon the trustees on February 4, 1921, was a legal seizure or demand under the Trading with the Enemy Act, which Act did not expire until five months later.

For the foregoing reasons, the judgment of the District Court in No. 292 and the judgments of the Circuit Court of Appeals in Nos. 575 and 576 should be affirmed.

REPLY BRIEF FOR APPELLANTS.

We call attention to a mistake of fact on the part of counsel for the appellee.

Through obvious inadvertence he states at pages 10-11 of his brief that:

"On the hearing the Government introduced the exhibits filed with the petition which consisted of (1) the report of the trust company of the Custodian, (2) the formal demand of A. Mitchell Palmer, Custodian, which recited the fact of his having made an investigation and determination, and (3) the formal demand of the petitioner Garvan, which contained the recital of his investigation and determination as to the ownership of the property, and that it was held for an alien enemy."

In this statement he falls into three errors. None of the documents mentioned were filed with the petition. Annexed to the petition were papers alleged to be copies of such documents, but the correctness of the copies was challenged.

Document (1) mentioned by him was introduced in evidence.

Neither document (2) nor document (3) was introduced or offered in evidence. And this is distinctly and in terms set forth in the "Statement of all evidence and proceeding at the Hearing" settled by the District Judge who heard the cause. The statement shows that the Custodian introduced in evidence the original report by the Trust Company (his document [1]), and a subsequent letter from it, which is set out in full, and the statement then proceeds:

"Aside from the submission of said two papers the petitioner introduced no further evidence and rested."

(Com. Trust Co. Record, pp. 101-103; Wesche Record, pp. 141-145; Ahrenfeldt Record, pp. 74-76.)

The omission to offer these demands (2) and (3) was in fact one more indication of the character of the proceeding here before the court.

Argument in Reply.

The brief of the appellee is most noticeable for its omissions. It offers no reply to our contention that the present proceeding, instituted in equity, was not a purely possessory one such as those this Court considered in Commercial Trust Co. vs. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554, but distinctly petitory in character; and it contains no reference to the radical differences between the petition here and the petitions in those cases. Those features and their consequences are taken up and discussed under Points XI and XII of our main briefs.

Save for the erroneous statement concerning the evidence introduced by him, to which we have called attention, the appellee makes no attempt to contend that he produced any evidence before the Court that any determination had been made by either Custodian or any investigation. He does not take up in any way the question of necessity of such prior investigation to give any life to the Custodian's determination, and does not dispute that the alleged determinations were not made by the Custodian personally.

The appellee confines his argument to three points. Each of these three points and each of the subdivisions under his first point involve non-sequiturs, and no one of them meets even the corresponding contention that has been made on behalf of the appellants.

We take up the appellee's contentions briefly, numbering our replies in conformity with the appellee's points to which they are directed.

POINT I.

The objections raised to the constitutionality of the Trading With the Enemy Act, when sought to be made applicable here to the cases of Ahrenfeldt and Wesche, were well taken.

Counsel for the appellee has not questioned the general doctrine expressly declared by the Circuit Court of Appeals and impliedly declared by this Court in Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan.

“If persons not alien enemies, or allies of “alien enemies were given no means to “protect their interests in such property
“the seizure would be unconstitutional as “without due process of law.”

Garvan v. $20,000 Bonds, 265 Fed. 477, 479.

Central Trust Co. v. Garvan, 254 U. S.
554, 566.

But he seeks to avoid its consequences by three arguments which we meet respectively as follows:

1) Prior to the amendment of July 11, 1919, suit could not be instituted in the District of Columbia against the Custodian by virtue of the provisions of the Judicial Code, to recover property wrongfully seized by him.

His first sub-point, that the failure to provide in the Act, until July 11th, 1919, for the suit in any Court save the United States District Court for the District in which the claimant resided, did not prevent the bringing of suit in the District of Columbia under Section 51 of the Judicial Code, is clearly untenable.

By Section 9 of the Trading With the Enemy Act it was expressly and in terms provided:

"Except as herein provided the money or other property conveyed, transferred, assigned, delivered or paid to the Alien Property Custodian shall not be liable to lien, attachment, garnishment, trustee process or execution, or subject to order or decree of any court."

It is thus not a case of mere failure to provide, but of affirmative prohibition of proceeding under other acts.

2) The subsequent amendment of the Trading With the Enemy Act on July 11, 1919, did not relieve constitutional defects of the original demands made before that date, so as to render them valid.

As to this point we need only refer to the full discussion under Point X of the main brief on the appeal of Wesche, No. 292.

The argument there advanced remains unanswered.

3) The Commercial Trust Company had no standing to bring a proceeding to reclaim the property if it once delivered it to the Custodian.

If the Trust Company surrendered property in response to a demand therefor by the Custodian, the delivery by virtue of Section 7, e) of the Act would be a full acquittance and discharge of the Trust Company for all purposes of its obligation.

A proceeding to recover the property under the provisions of Section 9, could be maintained only by a party having an interest for his own interest. After delivery and discharge from all obligation the Trust Company could have no interest authorizing it to maintain such a proceeding for the benefit of any other person.

POINT II.

Lack of right to adjudication of the ultimate rights of the claimants cannot obviate the necessity of the Custodian showing probable cause in order to obtain the aid of the Court.

If we had made ourselves entirely clear in the main brief the appellee would have seen that our main briefs presented the following contentions:

If the present proceeding was not a purely possessory one but petitory in its nature (as contended in our main briefs Points XI and XII) the appellee's present point is obviously unsound.

But if this was a purely possessory proceeding the appellee's Point II is still wholly beside the mark.

Assuming the proceeding to be a purely possessory one, permitting no issue on the ultimate rights, still the Court had no power to issue such a warrant as the Custodian asked "but upon probable cause supported by oath or affirmation."

The brief for the Custodian confuses the two distinct things: establishing probable cause and proceeding to final determination of the rights of the parties.

If the Custodian had shown probable cause (other outside questions being laid aside), under the rule established by this Court in Central Trust Co. vs. Garvan issue could not have been taken as to the correctness of his showing and required to be tried out in a purely possessory proceeding, any more than the general merits of an action could be tried out on a motion to vacate an attachment, or statutory writ of replevin.

But, since the Custodian failed to show probable cause supported by oath or affirmation, the Court, even without deciding the rights of the parties, was bound to refuse to aid him by the issue of a warrant.

The question whether he had shown "probable cause" was open on this application, just as a preliminary motion to vacate a writ of attachment or replevin would lie for the fatal lack of a showing of jurisdictional matters in the plaintiff's own papers.

Determination whether the Custodian has shown probable cause is a totally distinct matter from finally adjudicating the rights of the parties.

The two distinct matters of final determination and showing probable cause are not to be confused, simply because the Custodian in addition to admitting that he had not shown probable cause, also admitted that there wasn't a possibility of his doing so, and that the property of Wesche and Ahrenfeldt not only did not appear to be, but actually was not enemy property.

To say that there cannot be final adjudication of rights in the proceeding is no answer to the objection that the Custodian wholly failed to make the showing of probable cause, which was required before a warrant could issue.

POINT III.

If the original demands were not valid when made, they could not be made valid by new decision or decree for delivery after the declaration of peace on July 2nd, 1921.

The contention made by the appellee as to the Peace Resolution and the Peace Treaty suggests that we failed to make our main point on this subject clear to his counsel, and may have correspondingly failed to make it clear to this Court.

Our prime contention on this point is that the original demands, so far as they affected property of Wesche and of Ahrenfeldt, were unconstitutional when made and void, that they could not be given a validity as a seizure, which they had not acquired before the end of the war, by a decision and decree first given after the war had come to an end, and the right of capture been terminated; especially as no attempt to claim their interests had been made.

In the case of Matter of Miller, 281 Fed. 764, cited by appellee, the demands relied on were of property belonging respectively to the two appellants. As to each of them it was admitted that a demand, valid when made, of their interests, had been made by the Custodian before the end of the war and such demand existed irrespective of any decree entered after the conclusion of war. Here the condition is entirely different and the question here presented was not in that case presented or passed upon.

In that case it was, however, admitted that one of the two appellants was a woman who stood in the same position of being an American woman, who had married a German, as were Madam von Schierholz and Madam von Uxküll-Gyllenband. On that ground the Custodian in that case consented that the decree for delivery as to her property should be reversed and it was reversed.

Here the only person whose property was demanded was Mrs. von Schierholz and admittedly she came under the provisions of Subdivision 3) of Section 9a of the Trading With the Enemy Act, if not as it stood June 5th, 1920, certainly as amended on February 27th, 1921.

Nevertheless, it is on the sole foundation of a demand of property as that of Mrs. von Schierholz, an American woman, entitled to the return of her property, that the Custodian in this case seeks after the war to enforce delivery to him of property, which he, in open court, admitted was not hers but belonged to other persons, for delivery of whose property as such, he had made no demand and had no foundation for making any. The decision in Matter of Miller, 281 Fed. 764 does not sustain any such doctrine.

The three points thus advanced by the appellee fail to sustain his contentions or to obviate the contentions of the appellants, and their points remain practically unanswered.

Respectfully submitted,

SELDEN BACON,
Counsel for Appellants in
Nos. 292, 575 and 576.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

No. 575.—OCTOBER TERM, 1922.

Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, Appellant, vs. Thomas W. Miller, as Alien Property Custodian.	} Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

[April 23, 1923.]

Mr. Justice McKENNA delivered the opinion of the Court.

This is a suit under the Trading with the Enemy Act of October 6, 1917, and the amendment of November 4, 1918, 40 Stat. 411, 1020. It was commenced by Francis P. Garvan as Alien Property Custodian. He ceasing to be such, Thomas W. Miller was appointed his successor, and substituted as petitioner.

Section 7 of the Act provides that "If the President shall so require, any money or other property . . . held for the benefit of an enemy", without license "which the President after investigation shall determine . . . is so held, shall be conveyed, transported, assigned, delivered, or paid over to the alien property custodian."

The Act has received exposition in Central Trust Company v. Garvan, 254 U. S. 554, and Stoeck v. Wallace, 255 U. S. 239, and what it authorizes, and the conditions of the exercise of its authorization determined.

Whatever problems the Act presents those cases resolve. They decide that the President's power may, under Section 5* of the Act, be delegated to and be exercised by the Custodian, and that the determination of the Custodian is conclusive whether right or wrong. And it may be exercised by forcible seizure of the property or by suit and, if by suit, the suit is purely possessory and must be yielded to; the right of any claimant being postponed to subsequent assertion. And it was decided that the Custodian acquires by suit

*By § 5 the President is in terms authorized to exercise "any" of his powers "through such officer or officers as he shall direct." By § 6 he is authorized to appoint and "prescribe the duties of" the officer to be known as the Alien Property Custodian.

"nothing but the preliminary custody, such as would have been gained by seizure. It attaches the property to make sure that it is forthcoming if finally condemned and does no more." In other words, and in comprehensive description, the Act may be denominated an exercise of governmental power in the emergency of war and its procedure is accommodated to and made adequate to its purpose, but securing as well, the assertion of opposing or counter-vailing rights "by a suit in equity unembarrassed by the President's executive determination", and if the claimant "prevails" the property "is to be forthwith returned to him."

These are the determining generalities, and the Circuit Court of Appeals applying them, affirmed the decree of the District Court, adjudging, ordering and decreeing that the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey "do forthwith convey, transfer, assign, deliver and pay to Thomas W. Miller, as Alien Property Custodian, all of the money and other property held by it under a certain trust agreement entered into on January 30, 1913", between the Company and Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz. A list of the moneys and other property was attached to the decree.

It was recited in the trust agreement that the property which consisted of bonds, was held "for the joint account of said Frederick Wesche and Helene J. v. Schierholz, and to collect the interest to become due and payable on said bonds" for their joint account, and to deliver the bonds from time to time as requested, to either "or to the survivor of them, it being understood that the said bonds and the said interest money to be collected thereon are to be held and collected and delivered or paid over to either the said Frederick Wesche or to the said Helene J. v. Schierholz, or to the survivor of them."

In addition to the above, the following may be quoted from the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals:

"The Trust Company, in compliance with the provisions of the Act, made a report in December, 1917, that it held stocks, bonds and mortgages, securities and money, of the value of about $600,000, in trust, as to both principal and interest, for the joint account of Frederick Wesche, of Paris, France, and Helene J. von Schierholz, of Plaue, Germany, to be delivered and paid to either upon his or her sole demand, or to the survivor.

"Upon investigation, the Alien Property Custodian determined that Wesche was a neutral and von Schierholz an alien enemy not holding a license from the President, and demanded surrender of the securities. Because the neutral had power upon his sole order to withdraw the whole property, the Trust Company thought the Alien Property Custodian had no right to it and accordingly declined to yield possession. Because the alien enemy had like power upon her sole order to withdraw the whole property and acquire its possession, the Alien Property Custodian thought he had a right to it and accordingly demanded it. The question is, which was right?"

The Court answered, the Custodian by virtue of his power under the Act and the efficacy of its exercise. This appeal disputes the answer, and the contention is that the power was not exercised as required because the Custodian had not made an investigation which justified in any way "any determination that the property was all (italics counsel's) enemy property, or seizure of all (italics counsel's) the property as such." In support of the contention, it is urged, that no investigation was made of any interest in the property other than that of Mrs. Schierholz—none of Wesche, or none determined beyond what was shown by the report of and letter of the Commercial Trust Company. And there is also a contention that Wesche was not an enemy, and that he was given no opportunity of review, and the Act, as to him, was "unconstitutional and without due process of law" and that, consequently, surrender of the property by appellant (Trust Company) under such circumstances to the Custodian, would have afforded it no defense to the claim of Wesche for such part of the property as belonged to him. The appellant accordingly did not transfer or deliver the property as so demanded, and still retains it under supersedeas bond.

The contentions are precluded by the cases which we have cited. As there decided, the Act was of peremptory quality and effect. The suit was tantamount to physical seizure—gave preliminary custody such as seizure gives, and was intended to be not "less immediately effective than a taking with a strong hand."

It is manifest, therefore, that the defenses upon which the contentions are based were not available to either claimant of the property. And besides, under the Act, it is to be remembered, the Custodian succeeds to all the rights in the property to which the enemy is entitled as completely as if by conveyance, transfer or assignment, and the Trust Company in the present case held the bonds for the joint account of Wesche and Mrs. Schierholz to be paid over to either of them. She had the power, therefore, to demand the bonds and receive them and to this power the Custodian determined he succeeded, and, therefore, exercised. What interest Wesche had or has does not require decision, nor can the Trust Company urge it, the Act requiring submission to the determination of the Custodian.

The case, therefore, has no complexity and we do not think it is necessary to trace through the elaborate argument of counsel by which he attempts to sustain the contention of the Trust Company. Its foundation is, as said by the Circuit Court of Appeals, that the Trust Company "claims the right to have property interests judicially determined by a court of equity before a right to the possession of the property can be asserted by the Alien Property Custodian". The claim is precluded, we have seen, by Central Union Trust Company v. Garvan, and Stoechr v. Wallace, supra. Those cases decide, as we have also seen, that the suit is as of peremptory character as "seizure in pais" and is the dictate and provision for the emergency of war, not to be defeated or delayed by defenses, its only condition, therefore, being the determination by the Alien Property Custodian that it was enemy property. It was recognized that there is implication in the Act that mistakes may be made, but it, the Act, assumes "that the transfer will take place whether right or wrong." In other words, it is the view of the opinions that the Act provides for an exercise of government, but also provides, as we have said, redress for mistakes in its exercise by the claimant of the property filing a claim under Section 9, which, if not yielded to, may be enforced by suit.

The next contention of the Trust Company is that the Act being a provision for the emergency of war, it ceased with the cessation of war, ceased with the joint resolution of Congress declaring the state of war between Germany and the United States at an end, and its approval by the President, July 2, 1921, and the Proclamation of Peace by the President August 25, 1921. The contention, however, encounters in opposition the view that the power which declared the necessity is the power to declare its cessation, and what the cessation requires. The power is legislative. A court cannot estimate the effects of a great war and pronounce their termination at a particular moment of time, and that its consequences are so far swallowed up that legislation addressed to its emergency had ceased to have purpose or operation with the cessation of the conflicts in the field. Many problems would yet remain for consideration and solution, and such was the judgment of Congress, for it reserved from its legislation the Trading with the Enemy Act and amendments thereto, and provided that all property subject to that Act shall be retained by the United States "until such time as the Imperial German Government . . . shall have . . . made suitable provisions for the satisfaction of all claims". See Kahn v. Anderson, 255 U. S. 1, and Vincente v. United States (C. C. A., 272 Fed. 114, and 256 U. S. 700).

Affirmed.
